PREDICT BATTLE AS NEW NRA ACT GOES TO SENATE

Retains Criticized Features.

Stops Walkout

Continuation of prevailing wage scale in nation's coal mines until June 16, date of expiration of NRA, is forced upon United Mine Workers by NRA Chairman Richberg to avert a walkout of miners Monday. New NRA law will aid operators in meeting wage demands by more adequate control of price fixing. Details on page 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—A violent controversy in the United States senate over extension of the NRA was presaged today when the administration's bill came up to Capitol hill and was introduced by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee.

The bill contains all the features of the existing law which senators have found objectionable, notably price fixing and production control provisions and suspension of the anti-trust laws. Two weeks ago the senate came within 10 votes of amending the 5 billion dollar work relief bill so as to repeal the NRA insofar as it suspends the anti-trust laws.

Borah Predicts Defeat.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], who has been assailing the NRA since its inception as an instrument fostering monopolies and oppressing small enterprises, threw up his hands in amazement when he saw the new bill. Aside from a few offhand observations which he did not care to have printed, Senator Borah had this to say:

"My hurried reading of the bill leads me to assume that no such bill will ever be enacted into law. I cannot believe that such a confused, incoherent, and contradictory bill ever will be enacted into law as a guide for the people of this country."

The bill and its introduction in the senate by Mr. Harrison fulfilled all predictions that the administration, after permitting the finance committee to make a show of investigating monopoly charges and conduct its hearings on new legislation for a reasonable time, would then send up the bill it wanted passed.

Written by Richberg.

The measure was written by Donald R. Richberg, acting chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board, according to reliable authority, but when asked who wrote it Senator Harrison replied: "The legislative drafting service."

Mr. Richberg met in executive session with the senate finance committee today and was understood to have impressed upon the members the urgency of immediate legislation to remove widespread confusion as to the status of the NRA. He told them, it was said, that nation-wide strikes were threatening and might materialize unless the congress took action. Mr. Harrison thereupon hurried over and introduced the bill.

The measure produced indignation in some senatorial quarters and mirth in others as senators recalled Mr. Richberg's frequent assertions that price fixing and production control must go, with the possible exception of national resources industries, and that codes of fair competition should be limited to those industries which come, indisputably, within the purview of interstate commerce.

Called "Working Draft."

Senator Harrison, however, hurriedly called a press conference and announced that the bill was merely a working draft with which the finance committee could get down to something concrete.

The bill purports to give a definition of interstate commerce, presumably with a view to resisting successful attack in the courts, but this is merely an elaboration of the theory of the present law—that congress can regulate all "transactions in or affecting interstate commerce."

The bill provides that no trade or industry shall be eligible for a code unless "by reason of the character or volume of employment or sales, or the shipment, or use of goods shipped, in interstate or foreign commerce, or the effect of such trade or industry upon interstate or foreign commerce or by reason of other conditions which the President finds to exist," such trade or industry either is engaged in or so substantially affects interstate commerce that codes are necessary and proper.

Senators opposed to the NRA have insisted that the service trades, such as hotels, restaurants, filling stations,

CHICAGO WHIPS NEW YORK, 11-5, IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Chicago's Golden Gloves champions defeated New York, 11 bouts to 5, last night in the eighth annual intercity bouts before a crowd of 21,753. Chicago now has won four times, New York three, and one year the teams finished in a tie. New York took an early lead in last night's fights, but it was swiftly overcome by Chicago boxers in the heavier weights.

KEEP GENERAL ELECTRIC STOCK TRADING SECRET

Brokers Refuse to Reveal Accounts.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Stock brokers who carry on their accounts approximately two-thirds of a million shares of stock of the General Electric company today refused to disclose the identities of their clients dealing in that stock.

The prosperity of the company, which may be at least partly attributed to the New Deal electric power program and the revelation that President Roosevelt and Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt together hold 5,792 shares of General Electric stock, caused attention to be directed to the big brokerage accounts in stock of the firm.

It was pointed out that any politician or other person wishing to speculate in stock of the company would probably deal through a broker. Therefore, telegrams were sent to twelve brokerage houses asking them to reveal the names of clients who have shown a particular interest in General Electric stock.

Unanimous in Refusal.

These brokers, according to the records of the company at Schenectady, N. Y., carry the largest accounts in General Electric stock. The present market value of stock carried by all brokers is more than 22 million dollars.

Those who answered expressed regret, but were unanimous in their refusal to give out any information concerning the big speculations in General Electric stock.

"Are not authorized to disclose names re General Electric," replied L. F. Rothschild & Co., which is credited with 23,600 shares on the books of the company. "Sorry that technicalities prevent disclosing such information," stated Hornblower & Weeks, which has 33,400 shares.

"Sorry cannot comply with your request," wired back Kidder, Peabody & Co., which has 23,900 shares.

"We cannot disclose names of any of our clients," stated Charles D. Barney & Co. with 52,200 shares.

"It wouldn't be fair to the clients to disclose their names," asserted Jackson & Curtis, which has 54,800 General Electric shares.

Cites General Practice.

"Our firm follows the general practice on the street of not divulging the names and holdings of its customers unless asked for by a judicial tribunal," reported J. S. Bache & Co., with 41,000 shares.

Others who did not reply to the request included A. Iselin & Co., which, according to the records, holds the biggest accounts in General Electric, totaling 176,400 shares. The remaining five and the shares credited to each are as follows:

Dominick & Dominick, 40,959.
Abbott, Proctor & Paine, 33,500.
Hayden, Stone & Co., 24,200.
D. T. Moore & Co., 111,100.
F. S. Moseley & Co., 47,900.

These twelve brokers, according to the records, hold approximately 660,000 of the estimated 1,000,000 shares of General Electric held by brokers.

Calculate Recent Profits.

The disclosure yesterday that the General Electric holdings of President Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt increased in value from $68,780 on the date of his inauguration to $128,148 at the present time caused some Wall street speculators to calculate enviously the profits of some other stockholders in General Electric in the two years since the Democratic administration launched its power expansion scheme.

For example, it was pointed out, the 70,346 shares held by Gerard Swope, president of the company and leading Democrat, increased in value from $835,359 on March 4, 1933, to $1,556,405 at the present date, a gain of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars.

EASY MONEY HELPS

General Electric company is sharing extensively in business created in its field by the federal government's distribution of easy money. A survey today revealed that the company has received several orders either directly from the government or as a result of government lending.

The business of the company currently is running well ahead of last year. Sales in the first two months of 1935 were 33 per cent above 1934 and with exception of the second quarter last year were at the highest level in four years.

The company announced yesterday that it had received an order from the city of Los Angeles, Cal., for two condensers to be installed on the Hoover

SACRILEGE

Blood Donors Found to Save Life of Dancer

Miss Virginia Brown, 16 years old, 1120 South East avenue, Oak Park, was reported "on the road to recovery" last night at the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park after she had received her second blood transfusion within 12 hours.

Meanwhile Miss Beatrice Brinker, 1814 Cleveland avenue, Whiting, Ind., who told physicians she had read of the girl's plight, was prepared to furnish blood for the third transfusion. This transfusion, which is to be performed at 10 o'clock this morning, will assure Miss Brown's recovery, physician's said.

Infection Follows a Blister.

Miss Brown, a dancer, developed a streptococcus infection from a blister during her first professional appearance at a downtown theater on March 9. Her condition became worse and physicians feared death unless transfusions could be made of the blood of persons suffering from other streptococcic diseases.

Erysipelas and scarlet fever are among the most common of such diseases. After a frantic search among hospitals of the city Dr. Chester W. Trowbridge, 840 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, found enough blood for two transfusions. The search was made difficult by the fact that the blood of most prospective donors was not of the same type as Miss Brown's.

The first transfusion was furnished by Frank Newman, who is recovering from scarlet fever at the County Contagious Diseases hospital and was completed late Thursday night. Miss Grace Surber, 8017 Yale avenue, also convalescing from scarlet fever, furnished the blood for the second transfusion, which was performed yesterday afternoon.

Third Transfusion Necessary.

"Miss Brown showed marked improvement within six hours after the first transfusion," Dr. Trowbridge said.

"I feel certain that this third transfusion will assure the complete recovery of the patient. Her improved condition after the transfusions seems sure to combat the infection in the foot and to obviate the necessity of amputation. We had almost despaired of saving the foot before the first transfusion."

Governor Ordered to Bed Here with Throat Ailment

Gov. Horner was ordered to bed in his Congress hotel suite by physicians yesterday because of a recurrence of a throat ailment which confined him to the executive mansion at Springfield three weeks ago. He went to Hot Springs, Ark., to recuperate last week but came to Chicago Monday and the change in temperature, he believes, brought on the new attack.

TATTOOED LADY'S ART WORKS LET HER DOWN IN BIG MOMENT OF NEED

The wabbly young woman who tried to board a St. Louis bus in front of the De Luxe Motor Stage office at 746 South Wabash avenue last evening made up in determination what she lacked in a ticket.

"Look here," she said, lifting an unstockinged leg onto the doorstep of the vehicle, "I'm tattooed all over."

George H. [Red] Trumbull of 810 East 51st street, the driver, was only mildly interested in the skull and crossbones, the wreathed dagger, the cowboy, the dancing señorita, and the word "Danger" included in the tattooing. Even the tattooed had to have tickets, he said. When the young woman declared she'd ride anyhow, Trumbull yelled for help.

Four other drivers responded. The tattooed lady drew a pistol and sounded her war cry.

"I'm tattooed all over," she yelled, "and I'll tattoo you, too."

Trumbull wrested the weapon from her and the police were summoned. Four detectives responded and the gunwoman was taken to the central station, where she said she was Marie Lopez and that she was sleepy.

A matron who examined her said that Marie really was tattooed all over with all sorts of scenery.

Red Lecturer from England Sails for Home

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.] — Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, English writer and leader of the world communist movement, sailed from New York on the Berengaria tonight shortly after the immigration authorities had dropped deportation proceedings against him.

Strachey was arrested in Glencoe, Ill., on the night of March 12 after he had concluded a lecture in the synagogue of the North Shore Congregation Israel church. He was released in bond at his arraignment in Chicago the next day, pending a hearing on March 21, and had been free on bond ever since.

Sails on Date Planned.

Col. Daniel W. MacCormack, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, announced the dismissal of proceedings against the radical writer and lecturer. The only explanation given was:

"The United States is ordinarily willing to drop proceedings prior to the issuance of a warant of deportation in cases in which the alien leaves the country. Mr. Strachey will sail on the Berengaria on March 29 as originally planned."

Thus Strachey's arrest, which radicals throughout the country turned into something of a cause célèbre, was far more beneficial than harmful. It increased the popularity of his lectures tremendously, as well as the sale of his books. There was more truth than might have been suspected in Strachey's flippant observation, made in Chicago, that "the government is my press agent."

Protest to Mrs. Perkins.

The immigration bureau is in the department of labor, headed by Madame Secretary Frances Perkins, whose inclinations are decidedly left wing. Mme. Perkins was bombarded by letters and telegrams of protest from radicals all over the country after Strachey's arrest, but labor department officials denied tonight that she took any interest in the case.

Strachey was arrested, on orders from the immigration commissioner, as a result of statements he made in his writings after arriving in the United States last Christmas day. He told immigration inspectors that he did not advocate the overthrow of the United States government by violence, but subsequently styled himself "a communist, peddling Marxism instead of pink pills."

An alien who advocates the overthrow of the government by violence is mandatorily deportable and the courts have held that a member of the communist party is, ipso facto, such an advocate. However, Strachey denied membership in the communist party, while admitting his communist sympathies.

Arrest Monks and Nuns for Cash Exports

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 29.—Catholic circles in Germany were deeply stirred today by raids conducted by the secret police on Roman Catholic monasteries and convents and the arrests of an unannounced number of nuns and monks. The arrested persons are accused of smuggling funds totaling about $1,000,000 out of Germany in violation of laws prohibiting the exportation of foreign currency.

Police who raided the convents of the nuns of the Good Shepherd at Reinickendorf and Lichterfelds were the first men to set foot in the premises in a decade. In Reinickendorf the police were accompanied by police matrons, which started rumors in Catholic circles that the nuns were forced to submit to a bodily search.

Taken to Police Station.

It also is said that $100 was found hidden in the Reinickendorf convent and that the mother superior and her assistants were driven to police headquarters.

In Dortmund the father superior of the Redemptorists was arrested. He, too, was charged with illegal financial dealings.

Leading Catholics declare the raids are the result of misunderstanding. They claim that the fathers and mothers superior, due to lack of knowledge in "worldly affairs," were deceived by a banker named Frobius, who fled to Holland. He had been the manager of a Catholic bank where church dignitaries had deposited sums collected as "Peter's pence" and as funds "of the Children of Jesus society." Catholics charge Frobius smuggled these funds out of Germany.

Face Trial Soon.

Most of the arrested nuns and monks will go on trial in Bochum in the near future.

Difficulties in the transfer of "Peter's pence" played a big rôle in Germany during the world war, since they could not be transferred to Italy. Kaiser Wilhelm interfered and ordered them transferred via Switzerland.

"Peter's pence" represent a relatively large sum. In the days before the war Germany's 24,000,000 Catholics donated more than half the "Peter's pence" collected throughout the world. It is assumed that the percentage is considerably less now.

Pastors Taken to Prison Camps.

A service of supplication was held by the confessional synod movement in the Apostle of Paul church here tonight in behalf of six Hessian pastors arrested for reading the proclamation directed against the influx of paganism in Nazi Germany. Several of the arrested pastors were removed to the Dachau concentration camp near Munich and their churches sealed by police. The confessional synod is opposed to the Nazi dictatorship of Reichsbishop Dr. Ludwig Mueller.

AMERICAN OFFERS $500,000 FOR 726 CARAT DIAMOND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—The famous Jonker diamond, fourth largest in the world, may soon be transferred from the obscurity of the vaults of the Diamond corporation of London to the United States. There it may be cut into several smaller stones and eventually mounted in platinum and gold to form an arrangement of eardrops and necklace.

It is understood negotiations are now progressing for the sale of the diamond. An American offer of $500,000 has been made. The source of the offer was not disclosed, but if accepted the diamond will be taken to the United States within a few weeks.

The stone weighs 726 carats and is as big as a hen's egg.

THOUSANDS OF POLES RIOT ON GERMAN BORDER

Mob Marches Upon Nazi Consulate.

KATOWICE, Poland, March 29.—(AP)—The new found "friendship" between Poland and Germany, went by the boards today as anti-German demonstrations flared all along the Germans' eastern border.

The direct cause of the demonstrations here, it appeared, was the closing of the Polish high school in the nearby German border town of Beuthen, an action that deprived it of the right to give final state examinations.

Mob Sings "Hymn of Hate."

Some 5,000 persons, urged by their leader to get "revenge for the German impropriety" and to "close the German schools in Poland," marched to the German newspaper Kattowitzer Zeitung and smashed windows.

Singing the "Rota Song," the Polish hymn of hate for Germany, the mob next tackled police cordons hastily thrown around the German consulate, but was unable to break through. "Poles spit on the Germans" was an improvised insert in the text of the song.

An example of the tension along the Lithuanian border was the adoption of a resolution by the East Prussian Medical society providing that henceforth no German physician will heed calls from across the border.

"PACT OF FRIENDSHIP."

A ten year pact of friendship and nonaggression between Germany and Poland was signed on Jan. 26, 1934.

At the recent Anglo-German conversations in Berlin Reichsfuehrer Hitler was reported to have pointed to that agreement as evidence of the efficacy of bilateral pacts to safeguard peace.

Reports at Geneva recently said a secret clause in the German-Polish pact forbade either nation to adhere to the eastern security pact, which France and Russia so eagerly desire.

LITHS DEBATE ACTION

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 29.—Government circles tonight discussed the possibility of a review by the Supreme court of the verdict of the Kaunas court martial which sentenced four members of the Nazi organization in Memel to death and 77 others to imprisonment. The Nazis were accused of plotting to seize Memel and return it to Germany.

While the verdict is considered fair by the Lithuanian government, nevertheless the mass of evidence presented and the length of the trial, which lasted three months, are believed to require further consideration before the verdict is made final. According to present plans the court martial will hold a final session next Wednesday and then read the final verdict.

Lithuanian newspapers, both government and opposition, unanimously support the government's contention that the verdict was justified. Many of the prisoners declared they were Nazis and acknowledged Adolf Hitler as their leader.

Will Continue War on Nazis.

The Lithuanian government, it was announced, will continue to combat the spread of Nazism among the inhabitants of Memel with the same thoroughness used against agents of the communist Internationale who attempt to spread bolshevist propaganda in Lithuania.

Lith leaders indignantly denied that outside influences had a bearing upon the verdict. The Liths claim it was a coincidence that the reading of the verdict came at the moment when Reichsfuehrer Hitler was conferring with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, in Berlin. They admit, however, that Lithuania desires as much publicity as possible about the trial, desiring moral support from abroad for the fight against Nazism.

Questioning many Lithuanians, THE TRIBUNE correspondent discovered a strong feeling against Germany due to the Germans treating the Lithuanians as inferiors. Statements published in the National Beobachter and other official Nazi papers calling the Lithuanians a half Asiatic folk have rankled here. Lithuanian officials point out that, while Germany has been vociferously claiming equality from the west, it refused to consider its eastern neighbors as equals, claiming that the German race and nation has a special mission from on high to Germanize the Baltic states.

Latvia and Estonia Back View.

This view is also held in Latvia and Estonia. While these countries refuse to become involved in Lithuania's quarrels and hint that they consider the verdict of the court martial too severe, neither the press nor officials express sympathy for those sentenced.

The Lithuanian government newspaper Lietuvos Aidas pointed out today that the prisoners forgot their duty to the Lithuanian state and engaged in treason when they plotted to return Memel to Germany. Should their plot have succeeded, the newspaper said, Lithuania would have been faced with the prospect of civil war. Therefore, the verdict of the court must be considered severe, but correct.

Memel is Lithuania's lungs and its window to the west, without which the development of the country would hardly be possible, the official paper explained.

Pleased Over Russian Pact.

The government is also pleased by the results obtained by Minister of Agriculture J. Aleksa, who returned from Moscow after signing a trade agreement which is expected to double Lithuania's trade with Russia during the present year.

Aleksa signed an agreement with the Moscow government guaranteeing the purchase by Russia of 100,000 swine and agricultural produce in exchange for Lithuania's purchase of Russian coal, gasoline, kerosene, tobacco, and other products.

Entertaining the Lithuanian delegation at luncheon in Moscow, the soviet commissar for foreign trade, M. Rosenholz, said the soviets considered trade relations with Lithuania stabilized for a long period, and that they were well satisfied with the further strengthening of the traditional friendship between these two countries in their political relations.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

DANZIG, March 29.—Sean Lester, league of nations high commissioner of Danzig, was hooted and jeered by a crowd of Nazis last night. The Nazis shouted, "Get out of here, intruder," as he left a conference with the radical National Socialist president of the Danzig senate.

Lester had gone to President Gresier to demand an explanation of a speech made two days ago, in which the latter attacked the commissioner for protecting the "morbid and unshaven opposition parties." The free city's Nazi chief asserted that in offering protection to the opposition Lester was "interfering with the internal affairs of the free city."

During the conversation Gresier lost his temper and told Lester, "You just wait until the same thing happens to you that happened to Col. Knox in the Saar." The commissioner asked what he meant, but Gresier refused to answer. The commissioner has protested formally to the Danzig senate and has reported the affair to the league secretariat.

[Col. Geoffrey Knox was league high commissioner of the Saar until that territory was returned to Germany recently.]

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 29.—Many persons were injured and thirty were arrested as a result of clashes today between two factions of the national peasant party at Cluj, Transylvania.

The National Peasant club there was occupied a few weeks ago by partisans of former Premier Alexander Vaida-Voevod, who has been bitterly criticized by former Premier Juliu Manlu for his advocacy of legislation directed against racial minorities in Rumania.

In expectation of a visit by Maniu Sunday, his adherents sought to take possession of the club. The Vaida-Voevod henchmen resisted with sticks and stones.

LITTLE ENTENTE SERVES AN ARMS EDICT ON FRANCE

Threatens to Transfer Allegiance to Hitler.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—While two of the subtlest diplomacies in Europe—British and Russian—are matching foils in Moscow, France today was "put on the spot" by its continental allies.

The soviet ambassador, V. P. Potemkin, called on Foreign Minister Laval at the Quai d'Orsay to press with increased urgency conclusion of the proffered alliance with soviet Russia. It is understood he asked Laval to say definitly whether or not he is prepared to sign a defensive alliance with Russia during his forthcoming trip to Moscow.

The implication was that if France does not make up its mind at once, the soviet may change sides and seek a last minute rapprochement with Germany.

Threat from Little Entente.

Laval apparently is not much worried at this implied threat, because he knows it would not be so easy as that for Russia to go back to the Rapallo policy of alliance with Germany, but essentially the same issue was put up to him in more dangerous form by Nicholas Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister and emissary of the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia]. Titulescu arrived here today after consultations at Belgrade and Prague.

Titulescu is said to have given Laval virtually an ultimatum, declaring that either France will back the little entente to the bitter end, or the little entente as a whole—and Rumania in particular—will switch its allegiance to Germany.

By backing up the little entente, Titulescu meant forging a steel chain of alliances around Germany, anchored in Russia on one side and France on the other, therby coercing Germany into disarmament by a show of armed force.

France in a Delemma.

This is a much more serious problem for France, because the little entente nations undoubtedly can negotiate a separate peace with Germany if they are willing to pay the price.

The dilemma facing France is a tragic one. Unless Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, achieves a miracle by transforming the proposed eastern security pact into some form which the British public will accept, the French are informed that in case they conclude an alliance with Russia, England will refuse all commitments on the continent.

If France stays clear of the Russian entanglement England will offer definite guarantees that it will come to France's aid if attacked by Germany. But that means not only sacrificing the Russian alliance, but also the little entente, as Titulescu made clear today.

The French realize that the British themselves are in a tragic position because, according to what one British spokesman told them, English participation in any system calculated to keep Germany from upsetting the balance of power on the continent would mean the breakup of the empire.

France Looks to Poland.

Looking around Europe, France can find only one country whose diplomatic plight is more tragic than its own—Poland. Poland, according to diplomatic advices received here, is literally caught between upper and nether millstones and does not know which way to turn.

Consequently, to escape their own dilemma the French are desperately turning all their diplomatic guns on Warsaw. Eden, it is hoped, will aid, and Laval, on his way back from Moscow, is going to make a final effort to win Poland back into the French camp.

If Poland will adhere to an eastern Locarno, the Quai d'Orsay thinks Germany will be forced to join also, and that should automatically ease the British of most of their qualms, thus insuring peace in Europe. Hence the visits of Eden and Laval to Warsaw may be more decisive than the Berlin and Moscow trips.

Report Far East Peace Project.

MOSCOW, March 29.—(AP)—Authoritative quarters here today said Russian and British statesmen, meeting to discuss ways of safeguarding peace, considered inviting the United States to help five other interested nations guard against war in the far east.

While the topics discussed at today's meetings were not officially disclosed, the Russians denied that the reported "far eastern Locarno" agreement had come up.

Despite the denial, informed quarters persisted in their belief that Joseph Stalin, soviet dictator, and Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar, proposed to Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, extension in some form of the Locarno security system to the orient.

Six Nations Involved.

Included in the suggested pact, it was said, would be the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China, France and probably Japan.

The pact proposal became known after the young British statesman, in company with Lord Chilston, British ambassador, called at Stalin's plainly furnished office in the Kremlin for one of the dictator's rare conferences.

There the British found Stalin—wearing gray tunic, blue riding breeches, and high black boots—waiting with Litvinov, Vyacheslaff Molotov, president of the council of people's commissars (premier), Ivan Maisky, Russian ambasador to Great Britain, and interpreters.

With Litvinov helping the interpreters and himself figuring importantly in the discussions, the British and Russians talked European and world affairs for an hour. It was said afterward that Stalin displayed "great interest in world affairs."

See Improved Relations.

Litvinov and Eden conferred for an hour before the British envoy met Stalin. Russian quarters said after that parley that there was a "noted improvement in both the political and economic relations between soviet Russia and Great Britain."

Observers said they believed the Anglo-Russian talks were revolving around three possibilities:

1. A way to compose Russo-German differences on the proposed eastern European security pact.
2. British participation in some security arrangement without Germany if the latter refuses to enter on terms satisfactory to France.
3. Joint action through the league of nations when the French raise the question of Germany's armament at the extraordinary session of the league council opening April 15.

Japan Opposes Plan.

TOKIO, March 30 [Saturday].—(AP)—Japan considers a general security pact covering the far east similar to Europe's Locarno treaty unnecessary, a foreign office spokesman said today.

Commenting on Moscow reports that Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, and Josef Stalin, soviet dictator, had discussed the possibility of such an agreement, the spokesman asserted:

"Japan is preparing herself to maintain peace in east Asia and that fundamental Japanese policy cannot be changed by developments in Europe."

AUSTRIAN LEADERS FLING EPITHETS IN BATTLE FOR POWER

VIENNA, March 29.—(AP)—Undercover rivalry and friction between the major forces supporting Austria's government, the Fascist heimwehr [home guard] and the Catholic storm troops burst into the open today. Charges and countercharges were thrown by newspapers of the dominant groups and a "showdown" demanded.

The Catholic Weltzblatt accused the heimwehr of having started strife which "has raised all manner of vital issues and has already spread into the cabinet. Why does the heimwehr harbor such enmity against other sections of the government front?" the organ asked.

Abendzeitung, newspaper of Maj. Emil Fey, minister of the interior and heimwehr official, quoted one heimwehr leader, Wenninger, as attacking "the artificial cultivation of other armed volunteer formations for the sole purpose of squeezing the heimwehr influence down." He was quoted as saying those responsible are "trying to crowd us out and resurrect the late Christian Social party [to which the late Chancellor Dollfuss belonged]."

Machine Gunners Seize $2,000 in Holdup.

Five men, carrying a machine gun and four revolvers concealed in paper packages, entered the Wieboldt department store at 1279 Milwaukee avenue yesterday afternoon. Riding to the third floor in the elevator, they unwrapped their weapons, threatened eight employés and a score of customers and escaped with cash estimated at $2,000.

The robbers fled to the street after a clerk had loosed a tear gas bomb attached to the satchel in which he carried pay envelopes.

Fleeing in two automobiles, the bandits were pursued for three miles by Policemen William Mandell and Peter D'Julio of the Racine avenue station in a squad car. A dozen shots were exchanged, but the robbers outdistanced the policemen at Western avenue and Lake street.

Rips Out Machine Gun.

When the robbers, garbed in leather jackets, appeared on the third floor of the department store they were greeted as customers by Edward A. Dailey, 7236 Vernon avenue, a salesman in the household utilities department. One of the men fumbled with a bulky paper package, ripped it open, and whipped out a machine gun, with drum attached, ready to fire.

"Stick 'em up," he shouted to Dailey. Dailey stepped back and raised his hands.

The man with the machine gun walked to the money cage and commanded the cashier, Mrs. Anne Zitt, to push out all the cash before her.

Two girl bookkeepers meanwhile obeyed the gunman's order to "get under the tables." They are Gertrude Erhardt, 1625 Dayton street, and Ellen Tierney, 4500 Meade avenue.

At that moment Earl Skau, 20 years old, 3340 Belle Plaine avenue, a paymaster's clerk, who was one of those menaced by the bandits, loosed the tear gas bomb connected with his satchel. The robbers ran toward a fire escape.

The bandits gained the fire escape, and reached Ashland avenue, where they leaped into their automobiles. The policemen saw them and gave chase, finally being outdistanced.

Bus Station Robbed.

Three robbers entered the Santa Fe bus terminal at 35 West Van Buren street last night and, after threatening three employés and a number of persons waiting for buses, fled with $200 from the cash drawer.

One of the bandits stopped at the switchboard and told Miss Marie Nadine, the operator, that she would be killed if she attempted to call for help. The others then took the money.

Robbers Work Fast.

Two pedestrians, three storekeepers, and a gasoline station attendant were held up late last night on the north side by two armed men, who hastened from robbery to robbery in a small dilapidated automobile. The loot in the series of stickups was $149 and a fur coat valued at $1,600.

Mrs. Patricia Hawkes, 210 East Pearson street, was halted by the men at Senece street and Chicago avenue and compelled to surrender the fur coat and $4. Half an hour later the bandits obtained $10 in the United Cigar store at 2424 Armitage avenue. They then moved on to another United store at 3623 Irving Park boulevard and took $20.

In the drug store of Joseph Cohen, 3800 West North avenue, the gunmen seized $35. Cohen followed them to the street and fired several times, but apparently missed. The fifth victim was Charles F. Beckman, 421 Blackhawk street, from whom $55 was taken at Schiller and Wells streets. Joseph Martin, attendant in a gas station at 3312 West North avenue, was robbed by the men of $25.

Borin Home to Fight Wife's Support Suit

Nathan Borin, wealthy picture frame manufacturer, returned to Chicago by airplane from Los Angeles yesterday to answer the suit of his wife, Mrs. Claire Burman Borin, who is asking separate maintenance. Pending in California is Borin's $500,000 suit against E. M. Asher, Hollywood film executive, whom he accuses of alienating his wife's affections. Borin turned over to his attorney, Simon Herr, copies of letters sent him by his wife which he hopes to introduce into court in contesting the maintenance action.

GIRL, 6, KILLED BY TRUCK AFTER LEAVING SCHOOL

Betty Donnelly, 6 years old, 4916 North Damen avenue, was killed yesterday when she was struck by a motor truck while returning home from school. The accident occurred at Ainslee and Leavitt streets. John Kramer, 43 years old, 2347 Cullom avenue, the driver, told police the child ran into the street after a ball and fell beneath one of the rear wheels.

This death increased the 1935 Cook county motor toll to 217. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 178 persons had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 3,445 had been injured.

Two motorists were seriously injured last night when their car crashed into a concrete block used to separate street car tracks from the auto roadway at Clark and 16th streets. They are D. H. Nichols, 50 years old, 1818 East 72d street, and F. W. Ahrbecker, 30 years old, 340 Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, the driver. Ahrbecker apparently failed to see the obstruction as he approached.

The theory that the death of Mrs. Laura Marshall, 46 years old, 2826 North Mason avenue, might have been the result of an automobile accident and not natural causes, as had been supposed, was being investigated last night by Oak Park police. Mrs. Marshall died at her home late yesterday, presumably of an illness. Police learned, however, that she had been slightly injured in an automobile crash on Feb. 10, and relatives said her death may have been hastened by this injury. The coroner's office was notified.

DIVORCE ACTION FILED AGAINST LORING COLEMAN

Mrs. Christine Snelling Coleman, 31 East Division street, filed suit yesterday in Superior court for divorce from Loring W. Coleman, former hardware company head and broker. Mrs. Coleman charged her husband with habitual intoxication during the last two years.

According to the bill, filed by Attorney Allen G. Mills, the couple were married April 20, 1917, and separated last Feb. 18. Mrs. Coleman asks custody of their two children, Loring W. Jr., 17 years old, a student at Fessenden school, and John Linzee, 12 years old, who attends the Chicago Latin school.

Mr. Coleman is the son of Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, one of the leaders of Chicago society known for her charitable undertakings. Mrs. Loring is the former Miss Christine Snelling of Boston.

'BUSIEST CORNER' TRAFICCEREMONY TO URGE SAFETY

Trafic at State and Madison streets, the world's busiest corner, will pause for one minute at 12:30 o'clock today in memory of the victims of trafic accidents in Chicago. The ceremony will be conducted as a part of the Keep Chicago Safe campaign of Mayor Kelly, with American Legion posts cooperating.

After an American Legion drum and bugle corps plays, the Chicago Safety pledge will be read, carried to the throngs by amplification. The ceremony is intended to stress the need for caution among both motorists and pedestrians.

Electric Service Between Aurora and Elgin to End

The Aurora, Elgin and Fox River Electric company yesterday was authorized by the Illinois commerce commission to discontinue its electric railway service between Aurora and Elgin. Evidence showed that the line has been operating at a loss. The commission is expected to authorize the Fox Valley Bus Lines, Inc., to operate motor buses over the same route.

WISCONSIN BANK GANG RETURNED FOR QUICK TRIAL

Bandit Trio's Hostages Tell of Wild Ride.

Three bandits who were routed Wednesday in an attempt to rob the Bank of Mauston, Wis., and afterward kidnaped seven persons in four automobiles in the course of their flight back to Chicago, were returned yesterday to Wisconsin. They are to face trial in Juneau county, in which Mauston is situated. The three bandits were captured here Thursday night and waived extradition.

They are Michael Monczynski, 21 years old, 3231 South 50th court; Thomas Stopa, 23 years old, 3209 South 51st court, and Edward Cudecki, 22 years old, 3019 South 49th avenue. All the addresses are in Cicero.

Face Speedy Trial.

Sheriff Morg Rider of Juneau county, who came here with information that resulted in the arrests, said that the three men would be placed on trial in a few days. It is planned, he said, to try them for attempted murder during a holdup. If convicted they can be sentenced to 15 to 40 years in prison. The charge will be based on the wounding of Cashier Russell Hale during the battle in the bank in which Hale put the bandits to rout.

Chicago authorities were puzzled by the willingness of the bandits to return and face the known severity of Wisconsin justice. They were convinced the men wished to get away before their local activities were examined too closely. Monczynski has been identified as one of four men who held up a tavern on Jan. 25, and it is suspected he may have been involved in other crimes.

Hostages Tell of Wild Ride.

Meantime the identity of the occupants of the fourth car seized by the robbers was disclosed yesterday. Although it had been reported from Wisconsin that two men and two women were in the car and forced to accompany the bandits, there was, in fact, only one couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis G. Brode of the Eastgate hotel.

Mrs. Brode said that she and her husband were riding north of Janesville, Wis., when they were halted by the trio and threatened with pistols. Two of the kidnapers took the front seat, while the third, his gun drawn, sat between the Brodes on the rear seat.

"They drove at 85 miles an hour through a snowstorm," Mrs. Brode said. "When they crossed the state line they all began to sing 'Isle of Capri,' but it was not very good singing. About 4 a. m. Thursday they let us out in Cicero, after robbing us of $20, with a warning that we would be all right and would get the car back if we didn't report to the police."

Possible U. S. Prosecution.

Brode, who is a salesman for a company manufacturing egg cartons, and his wife told their story to federal investigators after relating it to the police. Taking the couple as kidnaped captives across a state line coupled with the fact that $20 was taken from Brode makes the robbers subject to trial in the federal courts, it was said.

Monczynski's former presence at Mauston led to his and the other two bandits' capture. He had worked near the town as a farm hand last summer and a road grader who had known him then recognized him when he fled from the bank on Wednesday. The grader, John Meyers, reported this to Sheriff Rider, who learned the former Chicago address of the bandit. With this clue the sherif, department of justice agents, and Chicago detectives traced him to 4408 West 28th street, his sister's home, were he was seized. Monczynski confessed and implicated the other two, who also confessed.

BEAUTY DOCTOR SUED FOR $15,000 AFTER OPERATION

Woman Ex-Patient Names Dr. Fernel.

Dr. Jean P. Fernel, plastic surgeon of 677 North Michigan avenue, yesterday was named defendant in a $15,000 damage suit filed in the Superior court by Mrs. Marie Brown, 42 years old, 4627 Greenwood avenue, a widow and a former carnival actress. In her bill Mrs. Brown charges that the physician "permanently scarred her face and neck," and for six days during last October imprisoned her in his office.

She consulted Dr. Fernel for the first time last Oct. 16, Mrs. Brown related in the suit, when she asked him if he could remove the wrinkles from her eyelids, remove the lines from between her eyes, reduce her double chin and straighten her nose. He informed her this could be done and two days later she began treatments which were continued for sixteen days, she said.

Charges Work Unskillful.

So "negligently, unskillfully, and unprofessionally" were the treatments administered, she declared in the bill, that she soon afterward "suffered inflammation and infection of the face and neck and stiffness of the right side of the head." Her face became permanently scarred, she related.

The final count of the bill, which was drawn by Attorney Ernest R. Loewy, related that on Oct. 28 Dr. Fernel, "beat and struck the plaintif and imprisoned her for six days, preventing her from obtaining proper medical treatment which she needed."

Dr. Fernel is no stranger to Cook county courts. Records of the Circuit and Superior courts disclosed yesterday that he has faced three similar suits. In November, 1924, he was sued for $50,000 by Miss Marie La Dare, a vaudeville actress, who charged her beauty had been ruined by his treatments. In September, 1925, he was sued by Mrs. Jeane Orth, 4145 Monroe street, who asked $7,000 damages, charging his treatments had caused her eyes to become crossed.

Detective's Wife Sues.

Mrs. Agnes Callahan, wife of a St. Louis detective, filed suit against the doctor in February, 1926, asking $50,000 damages, and charging that he had cut two nerves in her arm causing her to lose control of the limb. All these suits, according to records, were settled without trial.

In June, 1926, members of the medical committee of the state department of registration and education revoked the license under which Dr. Fernel was practicing. A year later, after he had appealed to the courts, Judge George F. Rush ordered the license returned, finding a technical mistake in the state department's records.

Dr. Fernel went to Los Angeles in August, 1925, and instituted a $500,000 suit for alienation of affections of his wife, Ruth, against David G. Maxwell, millionaire president of a Hollywood motor car company. At the time Maxwell charged the suit was "a blackmailing scheme."

ITALY HINTS PLAN FOR MOBILIZATION OF MORE TROOPS

Also Organizes Army of African Natives.

ROME, March 29.—(AP)—Gen. Federico Baistrocchi, undersecretary of war, intimated today that a third division of the Italian army would be mobilized shortly, and said the class of 1912, constituting 200,000 men, was "on reserve."

Speaking before the senate, the official said 600,000 men who will be under arms by April would receive new, modern equipment this spring and that new artillery will be made and distributed.

"The people who repeat today with pleasure the names of Peloritana and Gavinana," Baistrocchi said, "will repeat tomorrow with pride the name of Sabaude."

Names of Divisions.

Peloritana and Gavinana are the names of two divisions already en route to Italy's east African colonies, and Sabaude would be the name of the third division.

The newspaper Giornale d'Italia said today an army corps of native troops is being organized in Eritrea, Italian colony in east Africa. The corps will will be comprised of 25,000 to 35,000 men, and will be under command of Gen. Pirzio-Biroli.

The paper said the native troops in the other Italian colony, Somaliland, will outnumber the white troops, and it was considered certain that at least another army corps of natives will be constituted there under the orders of Gen. Graziani, governor of the colony.

Five divisions of Black Shirt militia will be created for East African service out of nearly 150,000 volunteers who have asked to go, military circles said tonight. A minimum of 40,000 men would make up the divisions.

Plan to Shoot Profiteers.

MILAN, Italy, March 29.—(AP)—War time profiteers in Italy will be stood up against a wall and shot, Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, said today. The newspaper, after chronicling a serious rise in prices in the last few weeks, said:

"Those who have decided to launch themselves in wicked adventures are mistaken if they think there is any possibility today of renewing the greedy profits of the past. Rather it is better they should know formally that whenever the possibility of war profits arises, we will begin immediately to place some persons against the wall in the first two days, or, better still, two days before."

This statement coincided with an order sent out by the Fascist party secretary, Achille Starace, to all provincial secretaries to watch the increase in prices to ascertain how much is due to natural economic reasons, such as new import regulations, and how much to speculation on the European and African political situation.

Ethiopia Hires Germans.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, March 29.—(AP)—Recent additions have increased the number of German pilots and mechanics employed by Ethiopia and given rise to rumors of a secret official arrangement for assistance from Germany. The rumors were not confirmed.

It was also rumored that German experts were assisting the government in pushing the reorganization of its own cartridge factory in Addis Ababa.

When the German minister, Hans Kircholtes, presented his credentials March 18 to Emperor Haile Selassie, he received exceptional honors.

An Anglo-Ethiopian delimination treaty was signed last night regarding the frontier of Ethiopia and British Somaliland.

Gathercoal Quits as Head of High School Board

J. R. Gathercoal, 637 Illinois road, Wilmette, yesterday announced his resignation as president and a member of the board of the New Trier Township High school board. He gave ill health as a reason for his retirement. Mr. Gathercoal has been a member of the board for 16 years and president for two. His place will be filled at the township election of April 13.

Oak Park Village Employes Get $141,000 Pay Checks

Pay checks totaling $141,000, covering salaries for three months for 305 employes of the village of Oak Park, were distributed yesterday by Village Controler Theodore Leth. BARUCH WARNS AGAINST TAKING ALL WAR PROFIT

Fears Industry Might Be Stopped.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Uttering a studied warning that in making plans about war the "chief purpose should be to win it," Bernard M. Baruch today cautioned the senate munitions committee to take care against going too far in taking the profits out of future conflicts.

The veteran New York financier ended three days of debate with the committee late today far from agreement with their drastic plan for commandeering industry in war time. But he proffered his full coöperation in curbing war profits.

His final day on the stand found him first impatient and then vexed by questioning of 32 year old Alger Hiss, committee counsel, and finally bored with reading of records of the world war.

Denies Political Appointments.

But it was not for long. As the questioning approached an end, he flatly denied any political factors had influenced his appointments of individuals on the war industries board of which he was chairman under President Wilson, then flung at the committee a warning that too much choking off of profits might cost the nation defeat.

"There is such a thing as taking the profits out of war at the cost of losing the war by going too far," he said.

"I am willing to take part, with all my might, in any effort to break down prices," he said, "but we dare not go so far down that road as to stop production. That is an always present danger. You can not grab profits unless you first make munitions.

"In eliminating profits we must not eliminate munitions. We must not stop production.

Warns on Going too Far.

"Let me say to you, gentlemen, in all solemnity, that there is such a thing as taking the profits out of war at the cost of losing the war, by going too far.

"I am in favor of your plans, and this is merely a note of caution."

But he made it plain before the hearing closed that his experience in the last war had taught him that any effort of the government to take over industry entirely as a war measure would jeopardize success.

Equally emphatically, Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.] made it plain that he endorsed in major details the scheme worked out by John T. Flynn, economic adviser to the committee for stripping war of virtually all its profits through taxation and putting industrial figures under the disciplinary wing of the army.

Better to insure that, he urged a constitutional amendment to make certain the government had power for a general program of commandeering of industry.

"The government has it now," Baruch insisted.

The Lockwoods and three other Americans were imprisoned for ten weeks in the Palma Majorca jail for allegedly assaulting a civic guard. They were released only after the United States had made diplomatic representations to Spain.

Mrs. Lockwood, who charged cruelty and adultery, was granted a decree after a private trial before Judge Thomas F. Moran. They were married in New York City Oct. 15, 1929.

"L" FILES THIRD PLEA FOR FEEDER BUS LINE PERMIT

The Chicago Rapid Transit company yesterday filed with the Illinois commerce commission an application for a third feeder bus connection with its elevated system.

The petition calls for a new route starting at the California avenue station on the Logan Square branch, going west in Palmer street to Laramie avenue, south to the Laramie avenue stations on the Lake street and Garfield park branches, thence east to the Cicero avenue station of the Garfield branch, south to the 48th avenue station on the Douglas park branch, finally terminating at the Western Electric company plant in Cicero.

This new feeder bus route would connect with the proposed Foster and Kimball avenues feeder bus routes which tie up with the Logan Square and Evanston branches of the Rapid Transit system.

The latter two routes are now involved in hearings before the commerce commission. Both the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Motor Coach company are seeking authority to operate over the same routes.

Sodini, $237,000 Mail Robbery Suspect, Seized

Harry A. Sodini, who was indicted here with John J. [Boss] McLaughlin and 39 others on charges of conspiracy and possession of bonds stolen in the $237,000 mail robbery at Clark and Adams streets on Dec. 6, 1932, was arrested yesterday by police in St. Louis. He was held pending the arrival of postoffice inspectors who will bring him to Chicago. Sodini formerly owned a hotel in St. Louis.

SEEK THREE FOR QUIZ IN YOUTH'S MYSTERY DEATH

The Burnside police were searching yesterday for three men believed to have been the last persons to see Richard J. Flaherty, 20 years old, before his partly unclad body was found Thursday morning in a vacant lot north of 8343 South Michigan avenue.

John Waska, 19 years old, 3941 Van Buren street, and Frederick Taylor, 19 years old, 1019 East 62d street, were held at the detective bureau after they told police that they had been drinking with Flaherty Wednesday night. They said three men who appeared to know Flaherty picked him up in an automobile at 62d street near Stony Island avenue and said they would take him home.

PARIS STUDENTS MOB FOREIGNERS IN NEW RIOTING

Five Attacking Royalists Burned by Chemicals.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—Riots against foreign students again broke out in the Latin quarters of Paris today, culminating in a weird battle in a laboratory in which five students were badly burned by corrosive chemicals.

Renewing the protest strike of two months ago, 1,500 medical students of the University of Paris blockaded the Faculty of Medicine building and shouted, "France for the French! Down with the dirty foreigners!"

Royalists Badly Burned.

When a group of young foreigners sought refuge in the dermatology laboratory, five Royalist medics went in after them. They were met with a shower of bottles and retorts containing dangerous caustic solutions. The five Royalists were badly burned about the face. One or two of them were reported in danger of losing their sight. The victims were led to a nearby drug store for treatment.

The anti-Semitic note which underlies these demonstrations came to the surface when a mob rushed to attack Mme. Jeanne Levy, a professor, in the street. Police, who had hitherto kept their hands off the rioters, had to intervene to rescue her. A furious battle followed.

The immediate cause of the rioting was the failure of the chamber of deputies to vote legislation prohibiting foreigners from practicing medicine in France as demanded in their demonstration two months ago.

French Voice Grievances.

This afternoon a delegation of French students was received by Andre Mallarme, minister of education, who listened sympathetically to their grievances.

Student leaders announce that the strike will continue tomorrow and that efforts will be made by the medics to gain the support of other faculties. Medical students at Lille have already announced their adherence to the strike.

ECUADOR'S DICTATOR RULES FOES HAVE RIGHT TO CRITICIZE REGIME

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, March 29.—Freedom of speech, even to the extent of hostile criticism of the dictatorial régime, is still the jealously guarded prerogative of every Ecuadorean.

This admonition was voiced by President José Maria Velasco Ibarra after an army officer had complained that he had been roughly treated by police for criticizing the executive.

Even servants of the government, in the opinion of the president, are entitled to express their grievances. Guardians of the law, he warns, must not provoke disorders in attempting to suppress opponents of the existing régime.

BELGIAN PREMIER REVEALS NEW DEAL PROPOSALS

Asks Great Powers to Guide Recovery.

BULLETIN.

BRUSSELS, March 30 (Saturday).—(AP)—The chamber of deputies today approved the government proposal to suspend the gold standard and devalue the belga by 25 per cent. The vote was 107 to 53. The deputies granted the government special powers for one year.

BRUSSELS, March 29.—(AP)—Belgium's new premier, following in the footsteps of President Roosevelt, devalued the belga today, slipped its traditional mooring to gold, and asked power to carry out an extensive program of monetary and economic reforms.

A fervid admirer of the American executive, Premier Paul Van Zeeland, who is 42 years old, outlined an ambitious drive for economic recovery that marched side by side with the American New Deal at many points.

Proposals Are Listed.

He proposed to the parliament:

FIRST—A "maximum of 30 per cent" devaluation of the belga.

[The belga was established as Belgium's monetary unit in 1926. It is equal to five Belgian paper francs and is currently quoted at about 21 cents in United States currency. Yesterday it was quoted at 19.45 cents. The belga is used for foreign exchange, while the franc is the nation's internal monetary unit.]

SECOND—Abandonment of the gold st ndard pending an international agreement on currency policy.

THIRD—Large public works projects.

FOURTH—Favoring of industrial production by all possible means.

FIFTH—Guarantee of bank deposits.

SIXTH—Reduction of taxes.

SEVENTH—Resumption of diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia.

EIGHTH—Relief for unemployed and improvement of the nation's standard of living.

Quickly the premier—former minister, financial expert, close adviser of the late King Albert and brother of Marcel Van Zeeland, director of the Bank for International Settlements—won two preliminary victories in the parliament.

O. K.'s Request for Powers.

A bill for provisional credits was passed in the chamber of deputies, 135 to 11, while the chamber's finance committee approved the bill embodying the proposed monetary measures and Van Zeeland's request for extraordinary powers for one year.

Parliament meanwhile convened for an indefinite session that will continue until the new government's program either is accepted or rejected.

Long hours of debate were marked by biting attacks from some groups which contended the public was being penalized in favor of banks. Other members of the opposition contended that Belgium's internal debt would be reduced as a result of the devaluation at the expense of bank depositors.

The concentration cabinet's monetary proclamation in effect separated Belgium from the heretofore tight ranks of the gold bloc, which includes France, Italy, The Netherlands, and Switzerland.

Patterned After New Deal.

Van Zeeland's plan for economic recovery in many ways was patterned after Mr. Roosevelt's—he wrote a book not so long ago praising the American President highly—since he seeks the rise of wholesale and retail prices, cheap and abundant credit, and assistance for banks in temporary difficulties.

In addition he would establish an office for national recovery and a wage dispute settlement board which would bend its energies toward effecting an increase in wages and improved standards of living.

FRANCE TO BARE STAND

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—Yielding to pressure from inflationist elements in the chamber, Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin tonight consented to appear with Louis Germain-Martin, finance minister, before the chamber's finance committee next Thursday to redefine France's monetary policy in the light of the Belgian devaluation.

While there is no reason to suppose that Flandin is prepared to announce any change in the official doctrin, inflationists hail his decision as a great victory. The inflationist Petit Journal in tomorrow's edition will carry an announcement of Flandin's appearance before the finance committee side by side with the Belgian ministerial declaration under the common head: "Death Struggle of the Gold Bloc."

Back of the jubilation of the inflationists and the alarm of the conservatives that the French franc is headed along the same path as the Belgian belga is an entirely new factor in the European monetary situation—the staggering burden of armaments which some observers believe will force France to early devaluation.

Arms Race Big Strain.

In order to keep abreast in the armaments race launched in its latest phase by Germany's denunciation of the Versailles treaty, France must raise nearly $200,000,000 for new military expenses.

The treasury, according to many French experts, is unable to stand such a strain. This treasury crisis and the allied problem of deficitary tax collections has caused the chamber's finance committee to get panicky about possible repercussions of the Belgian devaluation of the belga.

No official change in French monetary policy can be anticipated this early, but it is certain that France will associate herself with any concrete proposal to hold a stabilization conference. If a conference actually meets, it would furnish a good pretext for devaluating the French franc perhaps as much as 25 per cent.

WOMAN, 2 MEN DIE ON GALLOWS AS MURDERERS

MONTREAL, Que., March 29.—(AP)—The hangman's noose decapitated Mrs. Thomasina Theolis Sarao, 46, today when she was executed for murdering her husband, according to a witness who attended. Newspaper men were barred from the execution by the Quebec attorney general's department.

A few minutes before Mrs. Sarao dropped through the trap, Leone Gagliardi, 30, and Angelo Donofrio, 19, were hanged on another scaffold for the same crime.

The trio were convicted of murdering the husband, a middle aged street cleaner, for the sake of the $4,500 insurance on his life. Mrs. Sarao was in the plot, but it was Gagliardi and Donofrio who beat Sarao to death with clubs last summer.

NRA DEMANDING CONTINUATION OF COAL MINE WAGE

Employes, Owners Given Day to Accept.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Continuation of existing wage scales in the nation's coal mines until June 16, expiration date of the NRA, was virtually forced on the United Mine Workers of America today by Donald R. Richberg, NRA chairman, to avoid a walkout of all miners on Monday.

Richberg, meeting with a committee of mine owners and union chieftains, gave them to understand that in order to prevent the wage controversy now raging from tying up all mines and other industries, notably steel and automobiles, on Monday, the government is prepared to extend by executive order the wage rates now prevailing in the NRA coal code.

New Law Effective June 16.

In the new NRA law, which is to go into effect on June 16 and which was introduced in congress today, Richberg pointed out, the coal mine operators will be assured of more effective price fixing. This should enable them to meet some of the wage demands after June 16, and the next move will then be up to them, Richberg inferred.

Miners and operators were given until tomorrow to answer Richberg's "offer." There is little doubt that it will be accepted. Operators want better price fixing and have from the first been agreeable to continuing existing wages. The United Mine Workers have the alternative of accepting or defying a government order.

Contracts Expire Monday.

Code wage provisions heretofore have always been based on the wage contracts between the United Mine workers and the operators. Both expire on Monday, and the current threat of a walkout arose out of the failure of the miners and the employers to agree on new contracts.

Richberg proposes to cut the knot by decreeing a continuation of the code wage sections regardless of what happens to the underlying wage contracts. His action means wage determination by government fiat rather than collective bargaining.

Beside holding out the prospect of more enforceable price fixing after June 16 in return for wage adjustments in the future, Richberg agreed to elimination another sore spot in the side of many of the smaller coal operators.

Price Cutting Charged.

Large coal mining companies have engaged in a subtle type of price cutting by contracting to sell coal on or after June 17, the day after the present NRA expires, at less than the code prices, some operators complained to Richberg. While those making these contracts have built up a backlog of orders, less alert mines have lost business and may not be able to meet wage demands, they said.

Richberg promised that NRA would invalidate these post-code contracts, declaring that to have made them while the present code was in effect was a code violation. Since Jan. 5 NRA has had an order outstanding prohibiting the practice, but many of the contracts were made before that date.

Richberg, moreover, is on shaky ground when he tries to extend NRA power beyond its expiration date. If Richberg's attempt to forestall a walkout Monday of the nation's 350,000 coal miners succeeds, he will still have hanging over him the more nebulous threats of strikes in the textile, automobile, and tire industries, employing another 870,000 workers.

U. S. RELEASES TWO WITNESSES IN PIQUETT CASE

On recommendation of the government, Arthur O'Leary, a former investigator for Attorney Louis Piquett, and Dr. Harold Bernard Cassidy, both witnesses for the government in Piquett's trial on charges of harboring John Dillinger, were released on their own recognizance yesteday by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. Both men have been in jail since last fall.

Dr. Cassidy's moment of freedom was short, however, as he was immediately arrested on a detainer from the La Salle county state's attorney at Ottawa, where he faces trial for perjury in connection with an alibi for a defendant in a robbery trial. Dr. Cassidy was also served with a writ issued by Superior Judge W. J. La Buy ordering him to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay alimony to a former wife.

Both O'Leary and Cassidy have pleaded guilty to harboring Dillinger, but Judge Woodward deferred imposing sentence on them until June 3. The government is expected to use them again as witnesses when Piquett is brought to trial on charges of harboring Homer Van Meter, slain Dillinger lieutenant. Piquett was acquitted in the Dillinger case.

Retains All Features Senators Fought.

barber shops and shine parlors, etc., could not conceivably come within the limits of interstate commerce and there is a provision in the bill to meet this situation. The President is directed to propose [1.] that such trades shall be covered by the code of "an appropriate" trade or industry or [2.] that they be covered by a general code for small industries, containing requirements specially devised for them.

Borah Charges Contradictions.

Senator Borah's charge of "contradictory" was occasioned by the sections of the bill relating to monopolies and to the anti-trust laws, each of which contains a "but" clause.

One section provides that the codes shall not be calculated to promote or sanction monopolies. "But," it says, "devices for controling prices, production or distribution may be applied" as found necessary by the President "to protect small enterprises against discrimination or oppression," to provide correctives for emergencies caused by excess production or destructive price cutting, or to conserve natural resources.

Another section says "nothing in this act shall be construed to amend or repeal any provision of the anti-trust laws of the United States" and then adds: "but the provisions incorporated in any code . . . shall be lawful if and only if such code or agreement conforms in all respects to the limitations and provisions of this title."

Provides Involuntary Codes.

Besides the provisions for so-called voluntary codes, to be approved upon application of representatives of the industry, the President is authorized to impose involuntary codes, which, however, must be limited to minimum wages and maximum hours, the requirements of section 7 [A] relating to collective bargaining, prohibition of child labor and of any trade practice, which is generally recognized as being dishonest, fraudulent, or otherwise unfair.

Provision is also made in the bill for the preservation of the existing NRA administrative structure, with its 7,000 jobs filled with deserving Democrats without regard to the civil service laws or the classification act governing salaries.

"They could have saved a lot of time and printing costs," one senator remarked drolly, "if they had sent up a simple resolution saying: 'The national industrial recovery act of June 16, 1933, is hereby extended until June 16, 1937.'"

Wife's Salary Larger than Husband's; Alimony Denied

Alimony was denied Mrs. Edith Wendt, 24 years old, 3631 West 82d street, when she was granted a divorce by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday from Joseph Wendt, 30 years old, 7759 Calumet avenue. Norman Becker, Wendt's attorney, informed the court that Mrs. Wendt's salary was about twice as large as that of her husband.

FIRE DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the fatal burns received on March 17 by Mrs. Hortense Smeed Davis, 38 years old, 1246 Hinman avenue, Evanston, in a fire in her home.

GREEK JURY ACQUITS 18 OF PLOTTING TO MURDER VENIZELOS

ATHENS, March 29.—(AP)—A jury tonight speedily acquitted eighteen persons accused of the attempted assassination in 1933 of Eleutherios Venizelos, then premier but now in exile as the alleged leader of the recent revolt.

The verdict ended a protracted trial which was interrupted and delayed by the uprising earlier this month. During its closing stages letters, allegedly from Venizelos to his secretary purporting to show prosecution witnesses had received large sums of money, were read.

Those acquitted included Bandit Chief Karathanassis, often called Greece's "public enemy No. 1," and Jianni Polychronopollos, former chief of the criminal investigation department. Eleven other former policemen were defendants.

JEWS FORMULATE FIVE YEAR PLAN FOR PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, March 29.—(AP)—A five-year program of planned economy, designed to check exploitation, control private initiative and stimulate the rebuilding of Palestine, is being formulated by the executive of the Jewish agency for Palestine, it was revealed her today.

The disclosure came at this morning's session of the actions committee or general council, the supreme authority in the rebuilding of the Jewish homeland in Palestine

Eliezer Kaplan, treasurer of the Jewish agency for Palestine, in making the announcement reviewed the fiscal position of the Jewish reconstruction administration in the country, asserting bankers regard so highly the work done thus far that the Jewish agency is planning to seek further large loans to expand agricultural settlement and urban activity.

He reported that the short term indebtedness of the Jewish agency executive had decreased from £571,000 last year to £61,000 today. [The pound is currently quoted at $4.83].

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

ANTI-BALM ACT IS PROPOSED BY TEXAS ASSEMBLY

Austin, Tex., March 29.—(AP)—The anti-heart balm agitation reached Texas today.

Referring to heart balm as "legalized blackmail," Representative Helen Moore—housewife and only woman legislator—introduced a bill to bar suits for breach of promise and alienation of affections.

New York Bill Signed.

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—[Special.]—Heart balm suits were abolished in New York state today as Gov. Herbert H. Lehman signed the McNaboe bill passed by the legislature.

The measure would outlaw suits for alienation of affections, breach of promise, seduction, and criminal conversation. Gov. Lehman, signing the bill, said:

"I am glad to sign this bill which abolishes the right to bring court actions to recover sums of money as damages for alienation of affections, seduction, and breach of contract to marry. The public is well acquainted with the many abuses that have arisen in the prosecution or threats of prosecutions of this type of action. For many years these actions have been used to extract large sums of money without proper justification. They have been a fruitful source of coercion, extortion, and blackmail.

"I wish to point out, of course, that this bill does not in any way curtail or eliminate the provisions of the penal law."

OFFICIALS OF 8 STATES CONFER ON TAX PROBLEM

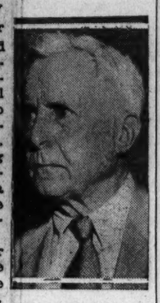
Tax representatives of eight states met yesterday in the Hotel Sherman and organized the North Central States Tax Officials' conference, which will have as its aim the solution of tax assessment problems.

Melville B. McPherson, chairman of the Michigan Tax commission, was elected chairman, and Albert W. Noonan, assistant director of the National Association of Tax Assessing Officers, with offices in Chicago, secretary. States represented in the new organization are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, and Wisconsin.

JAMES A. REED HITS NEW DEAL AND ITS CHIEFS

Policies Are Assailed as "Economic Insanity."

Kansas City, Mo., March 29.—[Special.]—"Economic insanity" was the term applied by former Senator James A. Reed today to the national administration's New Deal policies, and to the men responsible for them. He was speaking before the Optimist club at a luncheon at the Hotel Muehlebach.



James A. Reed. [Tribune Photo]

"But their tenure in office maybe short," he offered in solace. "Most of them could not earn a good living in private life."

"What the country needs," Senator Reed said, is a "rebirth of common sense."

"If we had a few more men with opinions of their own," he said, "we wouldn't be quite so near the border line of a dictatorship in the United States."

Assails Killing of Pigs.

"Killing 5 million young pigs was a crime," he said, "and it makes no difference who did it. Willful destruction of property has been a crime listed on statute books for many years. That destruction created a corn surplus.

"Consider the fallacy of paying farmers to let fertile lands lie idle, then spend millions of dollars to build dams to bring cactus land into cultivation.

"The trouble is that our leaders are following will-o-the-wisps, painted dreams. Ten years ago the man who would have said that our country would trail off on such economic policies as have been put afoot would have been termed a lunatic.

"Where did these ideas come from? They came from the Reds and they originated in Red Russia.

Attacks Monetary Policy.

"It is an age-old theory that there can be no prosperity unless the people know how and where they stand. Anything else destroys their confidence. Destroy their confidence in the currency and there will be no building, no expansion. When any group of men can get together and fix prices, how are we going to have confidence?

"The business of 125 million people cannot be conducted from bureaus in Washington. It could not be done even if the men in those bureaus were possessed of great intelligence and prudence. And God knows they are not.

"There has been no overproduction, but the government bureaus have cut down production, and people have to buy. Now they have to buy at double the former price. That is economic insanity.

"Do you know of any large enterprise begun or great expansion made in Kansas City in the last five years? You don't."

MRS. SEVERY DENIES SHE ALIENATED LOVE OF GRANT KIMBELL

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Edna Severy testified today that she and Grant Kimbell, who were known on the radio as "the Sweethearts of Song," liked each other in private life, but that was as far as it went.

Testifying in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her and her husband by Kimbell's wife, Mrs. Maud C. Kimbell, the actress-singer told of collaborating with Kimbell on stage and radio scripts in 1932.

Kimbell was separated from his wife, she said, and had come to live with her and her husband, Charles M. Severy. Her husband was not always there while they were working, she said under questioning by Mrs. Kimbell's lawyer.

"We were very happy working together," she testified. "He liked me and I liked him."

"Did you like him more than he liked you, or was it that he liked you more than you liked him?"

"We both liked each other," she replied.

After the plaintif's case was rested Mrs. Severy's husband testified that he had no objection to Kimbell using his home for rehersals with Mrs. Severy.

"I have never had any belief or idea that she was not a loyal wife," he said, "and I still have no such belief or idea."

Adjudged Sane, Woman Is Free of Supervision

Miss Marie Gerardin, 34 years old, 2714 Warren boulevard, was adjudged sane yesterday after a hearing before Superior Judge Joseph B. David. Judge David entered an order releasing her from the supervision of Dr. Daniel Handlin, 14 North Bishop street, and directing the County court to set aside its former order which adjudged her incompetent. Miss Gerardin declared that the previous court order had been the result of a conspiracy.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

BUSY ON THE JOB, MAYOR SWAMPED BY WELL-WISHERS

Voters Carry On as Work Replaces Politics.

BY PARKE BROWN.

One of the reasons Mayor Kelly is not doing more in the way of going before the people was revealed yesterday by a short visit in his office. There was unmistakable evidence that the people are coming to him in unprecedented numbers.

Aiming to attend to his regular executive duties during office hours he found himself interrupated so frequently by delegations and individual callers that, as on many days recently, he was compelled to "put in overtime," as he described it.

In addition he received a large number of telegrams, letters, and telephone calls expressing appreciation of his radio speech Thursday night in which he described his program for Chicago during the next two years, a program he said would put public works and improvements ahead twenty years.

He Works; Party Carries On.

With this situation on his hands, he said, he has been compelled to leave to others much of the campaigning he would like to do. Star speakers that ordinarily would be headlined at loop theaters and sectional massmeetings are working hard at ward meetings, large meetings in high school buildings and similar gatherings.

Gov. Horner, State's Attorney Courtney and others whose names alone would crowd a downtown meeting at noon are speaking at these numerous meetings, night after night, leaving the nominee free for engagements that he alone can keep. The entire organization is said to be functioning perfectly—the antithesis of what is left of the G. O. P. forces.

The marked departure from precedent in this campaign—the absence of ballyhoo, brass bands, and downtown demonstrations—is largely due to the lack of any serious opposition to Mr. Kelly, but it also is accounted for by the nopartisan sentiment for him, which brings delegations to his office and floods him with resolutions of commendation from home owners' associations and similar organizations.

Business Group Pays Tribute.

The largest delegation to call at the city hall—but there have been larger ones in recent weeks—was that of the Chicago Federation of Business Men's associations which represents 48 community units, about all there are of that character in the city.

The group of 50 was headed by A. H. Krom, president of the federation. Others who spoke were August J. Pritchard, president of the Sheridan Center association, William A. Dudley, secretary of the Greater Central association, and F. J. Lapin, chairman of the Building Recovery Committee of Chicago.

"The neighborhood business man," said Mr. Krom, "has been alive to your accomplishments. We know that you have much interesting work to accomplish during the next four years. It is the purpose of this federation to coöperate with you to help achieve whatever is best for Chicago during your administration."

Turns Back on Buncombe.

"I'm not going to make a political speech here," said the mayor in response. "The man who has a stake in this community is a student of political economy and is not fooled by political buncombe. This new interest in public affairs has put public officials on their mettle and that is a good thing.

"I urge you to increase your interest in city affairs and I guarantee you that I will be responsive to any plans you develop which are in the interest of the community."

Other delegations represented the Civil Service Laborers' club, A Century of Progress Police association, the Luxemburger club of Rogers Park, the Retired Firemen's association and the Kelly for Mayor Hungarian organization.

In addition there were a number of groups of two or three and countless individuals throughout the day.

The activity evinced in these visits alone provided an immense contrast to the dreariness and lack of interest found in the headquarters of other mayoralty candidates.

LAUNCH SEARCH FOR GUNMAN WHO SHOT POLICEMAN

Policeman George Lenzi of the Chicago Lawn station was recovering yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital from a bullet wound inflicted earlier in the day in a quarrel in Joseph McCormack's tavern at 8532 South Ashland avenue. The circumstances of the shooting were still a mystery last night and Capt. Dennis Malloy of the Gresham police, who is investigating, would not disclose the identity of Lenzi's assailant.

"I think I know who the man is," Capt. Malloy said, "and we're looking for him."

Questioned yesterday, Lenzi said he and his wife with Policeman George Tussey, of the South Park force had gone to the saloon on the way home from a party. He said he heard four shots as he entered and felt himself struck. He did not see the gunman, he said.

It was learned, however, that a police search is on for Hugh McCormack, alias Hugh Hitney, in connection with the shooting. Capt. Malloy would not say whether Hugh McCormack is related to Joseph McCormack. John McCormack, 32 years old, bartender of the tavern and a brother of the owner, was taken into custody and charged with being an accomplice before and after the shooting.

KILLS SELF IN HOME.

Jacob Schmeller, 62 years old, 1742 Humboldt boulevard, a color press foreman, shot and killed himself in his home yesterday. He was said to have been grieving over the death of his wife a year ago.

Bares Plot to Destroy All Canadian Camps for Jobless

OTTAWA, March 29.—(AP)—Grote Stirling, minister of national defense, told the house of commons tonight plans to destroy all unemployment relief camps in Canada had been laid by an organized revolutionary body working in the camps. Adequate steps to forestall the plot had been taken, he said. Its purpose was to throw single unemployed men back into "conditions of misery in the cities," where they would be more willing to participate in revolutionary activities, the minister asserted.

KELLY MAYORAL RIVALS LAUNCH LAST HOUR FIGHT

Wetten in Radio Attack; Jenkins Writes His.

Mayor Kelly's two opponents entered the final week-end of the campaign yesterday with highly critical words for the current administration of city affairs. Emil C. Wetten, Republican, made his attack over the radio, while Newton Jenkins, third party candidate, wrote a letter to the mayor and gave copies of it to the newspapers.

Candidate Wetten's two speeches over the air were largely concerned with condemnation of the mayor's proposal to build a large municipal convention hall in Burnham park on the lake front where the World's Fair buildings are now being wrecked.

"The mayor," Wetten declared, "has a stupendous plan for relieving want and distress by inviting the people to play, instead of giving them work and food.

Demands Community Parks.

"If twenty million dollars is to be spent on playgrounds," Wetten continued, "why not locate a number of them in various neighborhoods, particularly on the great west side and districts that need them, and not consolidate all efforts on one glorified Coney Island?"

The park suggestion shows "an utter and complete lack of appreciation of Chicago's needs," the mayor's Republican opponent insisted.

"If the mayor wishes to see construction work go on in Burnham Park," Wetten continued, "why not build the connecting link bridge [over the mouth of the Chicago river], for which our citizens voted millions of dollars many months ago, which bonds were sold and the money put into the south park treasury, then dominated by the mayor? Why not find that money and go to work? The people approved the link bridge; they will not approve a Coney Island."

To find funds for the growing unemployment relief, Wetten suggested doing away with overlapping governments.

Urges "Good Example" Be Set.

"It costs approximately 60 million dollars each year to operate under our present system," he declared. "We are annually issuing about forty-two millions in additional bonds by reason of our archaic 'overlapping' folly. There is no quicker nor surer way to reduce taxes than to immediately accomplish this purpose, but it can never be accomplished until Chicago has first established an honest, economical and businesslike administration of its own affairs so as to inspire the confidence of the entire metropolitan area."

Another of Wetten's suggestions was to enlist "fifteen or even twenty thousand ex-service men and organize them into a special night patrol in the residential districts in order to reduce crime and insure the safety of men and women, and to give employment."

Jenkins' Typewriter Attack.

The Jenkins letter to Mayor Kelly chided him for failing to appear at forum meetings to which both he and Jenkins had been invited. It also contained references to "false Jewish leaders" and said that Jenkins believed the mayor had raised "or permitted to be raised a racial issue in this campaign in an attempt to discredit me."

Other paragraphs dealt with the "whoopee" era in the sanitary district.

COURSE IN DOUBT ON CZARNECKI'S POLITICAL FATE

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—The political fate of Anthony Czarnecki, Republican holdover in the office of collector of customs at Chicago, was in doubt tonight.

The new treasury-postoffice appropriation bill allows the treasury department to determine whether all such offices on the Great Lakes shall be placed in charge of deputies or special representatives of central headquarters.

Czarnecki's term expires at midnight Sunday. Senator James Hamilton Lewis is said to favor letting the incumbent remain in office until a Polish Democrat is chosen to succeed him or the department determines to place its own representative in the office.

STORE MANAGER KIDNAPED.

David R. Jones, 36 years old, 3245 West 66th place, manager of a Woolworth store at 3108 West 63d street, was kidnaped from his home yesterday by three men, forced to give up his keys, and held prisoner until one of the men had returned from looting the store safe of $125.

Roosevelt Fishes as Aids Inspect FERA Art in Bars

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today cruised slowly in British waters 550 miles southeast of here on the fourth day of his annual fishing excursion.

The destroyer Farragut arrived at Matthewtown in Great Inagua Island after proceeding leisurely through the night. This morning the President transferred to Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal to tempt fish from his swivel chair in the stern.

From Matthewton the Farragut turn toward Man-O-War on the same island at 3:50 this afternoon. Again the President went aboard the Nourmahal.

In a radio message to newspaper men here tonight the President told of his visit to Mathewtown and of fishing later with considerable success. Various specimens were taken and fish traps were set to be left overnight.

While the President fished, the temporary executive office staf at the Miami-Biltmore hotel flew to Key West, which virtually has been taken over by the Federal Emergency Relief administration.

The FERA runs everything in the city except the police and fire departments.

The junketing party, headed by Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant White House secretary, and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lawrence W. Robert Jr. was greeted by a seven piece Cuban band on its arrival.

The party was told this band, paid for by the FERA, serenades every arriving and departing train, steamer, and boat.

The band is only one artistic move by which federal burocracy hopes to transform Key West into a rival of Miami.

Dozens of artists are engaged in painting murals for semipublic buildings, according to the FERA.

The party found "semipublic buildings" to FERA officialdom means barrooms, roadhouses, and restaurants, which also sell liquor. A FERA official explained that the bureau hopes to be paid for by the New Deal art at the rate of $6 a month if the drive to turn Key West into a planned economy spa is a success.

The murals startled the visitors. Those in the bars showed vivid topers beaming over futuristic drinks. A series of voluptuous panels on dancing in the roadhouse was climaxed by a heliotrope fan dancer.

Although the FERA has poured $500,000 into what is a venture in the real estate business since last July 15, there still are 80 per cent of the 11,600 inhabitants of Key West on relief. FERA officials are not discouraged and plan to expend $1,500,000 more in the next two years.

SPAIN'S CABINET FALLS FOR URGING MERCY TO REBELS

Lerroux Backs Radical Plea to Save Leaders.

MADRID, March 29.—(AP)—The quality of its mercy to rebels today forced Premier Alejandro Lerroux' government out of office.

Tonight President Niceto Alcala Zamora—for the twelfth time since the birth of the second Spanish republic—was sounding out political leaders in an effort to create another ministry able to cope with the nation's problems.

Socialists quickly stepped forward to claim their place in the political sun.

Socialists Seek Power.

The cabinet crisis was no more than announced than Socialist headquarters announced that the Socialists would continue to try to regain power "because all these governments including Catholics, conservatives and other historical groups are illegal inasmuch as they are swerving the republic from its original purposes."

Collapse of the Lerroux government, freely predicted since rightists and leftists took diametrically opposing stands concerning punishment to be meted out to some twenty alleged ringleaders of the October radical revolt, came without dramatics.

Rightists, the majority in congress, had insisted that death sentences imposed upon the Socialist Deputy Ramon Gonzalez Pena and others convicted of leading the bloody uprising be carried out. Leftists, reinforced by the center groups, favored clemency.

Issue Comes to Showdown.

The issue had its showdown at today's cabinet session. With further delay impossible, the cabinet majority voted to recommend clemency. Agrarian, Liberal Democrat and other adherents of the right, immediately fulfilled their threat to resign, precipitating the crisis.

While demonstrations in several parts of Spain, notably at Oviedo where Pena is imprisoned and where an indignant mob shouted "death to Lerroux," protested the clemency decision, Lerroux went to the palace and handed President Alcala Zamora, the cabinet's collective resignation.

First to call on the president was Santiago Alba, president of the congress. Others the executive planned to see included Manual Azana, leftist leader and the republic's first premier; José Martinez de Velasco, agrarian; former Premier Ricardo Samper, and José Maria Gil Robles, popular agrarian leader.

Prominently mentioned for the premiership were Martinez de Velasco and Gil Robles, the latter long regarded as the "coming man" of Spain's right. Both are bitterly opposed by leftists, however.

Grieving Evanston Mother Shoots Herself to Death

Grieving over the death of a daughter, Mrs. Bessie Altenburg, 73 years old, 2211 Maple avenue, Evanston, committed suicide at home yesterday by shooting herself in the heart. The body was found in the basement by a daughter, Mrs. Helen Wuest, with whom Mrs. Altenburg lived. Another daughter, Mrs. Lillian Uhle, died last September.

2 FARMER BOYS RIDE TO SCHOOL ON ARMY STEEDS

Volin, S. D., March 29.—[Special.]—Little 12 year old Leroy Johnson rode his new "pony" to school for the first time today.

Straddling Reno, one of the two former army artillery horses presented to him yesterday by officials of the United States army, Leroy made the 2½ mile trip to the schoolhouse, with his brother, Roger, 10, on the other horse, Judge.

The boys, who wrote to the war department asking for the team because "we have only one team of old mares and my dad says he can't afford to buy any more horses," have spent nearly every minute with their new friends since the arrival yesterday.

Roger's preference for the army truck, which brought the horses, dwindled after the army men left.

Field Work Will Wait.

No field work was prescribed for today, as the horses will be given a few days' rest before transferring their duties from Uncle Sam's service to corn fields.

Leroy curried and scrubbed the two horses last night. And today he was giving them every attention they needed.

Leroy's first question, when he had caught his breath after the arrival of the horses, was:

"Can you ride them?"

When told they were riding horses, he seemed relieved.

Charley Johnson, the boy's father, explained today how Leroy happened to write the letter to army officials.

Son Suggests Plan.

He and Mrs. Johnson were talking several weeks ago, he said, about the possibility of buying a new team—and its remoteness—when Leroy suggested asking the U. S. artillery.

"Why," said Leroy, "there must be plenty of old teams who have got too old to work. Maybe they wouldn't mind sending us a pair."

His mother laughingly answered, "Well, why don't you write and see?"

So Leroy did.

And army authorities thought it was a pretty good letter. And as a result Reno and Judge have a new home.

UTILITY COMPANY ORDERED TO CUT ELECTRIC RATES

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ordered the Illinois Northern Utilities company, which serves 18 counties in north central and northwestern Illinois, to reduce its electric rates an average of 10 per cent on the basis of a simplified schedule that is expected to save 32,500 customers in the 128 towns and villages affected an aggregate of $195,000. The company has agreed to abide by the commission's order.

By the terms of the order the electric rates for homes are reduced a total of $100,000 annually, effective April 16. A second reduction of $20,000 starts a year later, another of $31,000 in 1937, and another of $44,000 on Jan. 1, 1938. By 1938, said Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the commission, the total of the cuts will represent a reduction of 19½ per cent from the present rates.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Constant starting, stopping and accelerating waste your money if your gasoline hasn't these 3 different kinds of power

THE average car today is continually DASHING BACK AND FORTH within a few miles of home or office . . . going to the store, school, movies, club . . . and making business calls!

It's starting . . . stopping . . . warming up—time after time!

This calls for 3 kinds of power in your gasoline . . . POWER for quick starting, POWER for acceleration, POWER for steady runs.

Unless these 3 types of power are present—and in PERFECT BALANCE—your short runs can waste many dollars of your money!

That's why Super-Shell cuts down your driving costs IN THESE 3 WAYS.....

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "Cold" Start. In summer or winter, Super-Shell starts instantly, often warms up in half the time of ordinary gasolines. So there's less choking and you use less gasoline. 16 cupfuls saved, remember, amount to a whole gallon!

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 minutes of Hard Pulling. Because of its even volatility, you can accelerate rapidly or race your car up steep hills in high gear—on less gasoline! And what's more, you avoid that wasteful knocking which in a few minutes can waste up to 10 per cent of your power.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in one hour of Steady Running. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely at every engine temperature. In addition to saving on short trips, many motorists report mileage increases on long runs equal to a saving of a cupful every hour.

THESE THREE BIG SAVINGS of gasoline result in more mileage per tankful! Super-Shell is on sale from Coast to Coast at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations . . . at no extra cost! Stop at one today!

Now . . . the first truly Balanced Gasoline

SHELL engineers have led in perfecting gasoline ever since they conducted with Ricardo the original anti-knock research which led to the use of the high-compression principle used in over 95% of today's cars.

Shell co-operated, also, in perfecting the famous Dubbs cracking process.

NEW DEAL FOLK FIGHT TO MEET BRITISH RULERS

Presentation at Court Is Their Social Goal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—The New Dealers are fairly tumbling over each other to get their wives and daughters presented to the king and queen of England.

The privilege, considered by many to be the highest honor attainable in this mundane existence, was beyond the reach of most Democrats during the years the Republican party was in power when few but Republicans were favored. Now the Democrats are making up for lost time and with a feverishness that suggests some thought of the desirability of making hay while the Democratic sun shines, before the Republican night shall set in again.

Eight Are Presented.

Six American debutantes and two matrons were presented to their majesties at the court held yesterday. This was the first contingent of some fifty American women to be presented at St. James' court during the fashionable London season now beginning. It is possible that an even larger number of American women will be presented if their majesties in consideration of King George's silver jubilee, deign to add to the five courts customarily held during the spring and early summer.

For many years the selection of the American women to be presented at court has been made on a basis of political patronage. The influence it takes to get one of these plums from the political party in power is comparable to the influence required to land and ambassadorship or a cabinet position.

Queen Mary Fixes Limit.

This is all because the number of Americans their majesties are pleased to receive is so limited. Eight Americans at each court has for some time been the absolutely outside limit. Great pressure has been brought to bear at Buckingham palace to get the number of American presentees increased, but all to no avail. Queen Mary, who has the last say in this matter, has been obdurate. Eight Americans are enough, the queen decreed with positive finality.

There appears to be the making of a diplomatic incident in this situation, if the Roosevelt administration should care to raise the question of international comity in an aggressive manner, for it seems that more than eight women of several other nationalities have been received on various occasions.

Selected by Ambassador.

The American women presented are selected by Robert Worth Bingham, American ambassador to Great Britain. Upon him converge the lines of influence from innumerable sources. The White House, of course, is the most important influence. A mere hint from the White House is sufficient to get the coveted prize for an American woman, for it is from the White House that the American ambassador gets his job.

The New Dealer who is lucky enough to command the influence of the White House to get his wife or daughter on the list is in clover. Otherwise he must fall back on influence of the Democratic national committee or of a cabinet member or senator. A mere congressman is seldom able to deliver.

The wire pulling that has been in progress for several months to land presentations to the British courts this year has broken all records. New Dealers who made substantial contributions to the Roosevelt campaign fund naturally felt that a modest request for a court presentation was one that the administration must honor. But some of them were speedily disabused of this notion at the disbursing office of the Democratic national committee.

Cannot Accommodate All.

A New Deal job or a New Deal contract running into the millions, yes; but a court presentation, that's something else again. It simply was a physical impossibility to accommodate for this favor more than an infinitesimal fraction of the campaign fund contributors, even in the higher brackets.

Many applications for the honor are sent directly to the American ambassador in London. He customarily replies that it is necessary for the applicant to obtain the indorsement of her senator. That weeds out a lot who are so low in the political scale as to be unable to command the influence of a senator.

Democratic senators testify that never have they been so importuned for the favor as this year.

NINE MORE U. S. WOMEN CURTSEY FOR BRITISH KING

5 Debutantes and 4 Matrons at Court.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—Nine more American women made curtsies to their Britannic majesties, King George and Queen Marie, tonight at the second court of the season at Buckingham palace. The diplomatic corps was more numerously represented than usual for a second court and consequently the gorgeousness and grandeur of the occasion rivaled the diplomatic court of the night before.

Queen Mary, ablaze with diamonds, acknowledged with an unwearied nod and smile the salutation of each gentleman, each matron, and each debutante of the thousands who passed before her.

The queen wore a gown of gold lame embroidered with crystal on gold net. The train was of Belfast lace over gold lame. Her diamonds included the famous Kohinoor. The king wore the scarlet uniform of colonel-in-chief of the guards.

Five Residents of Europe.

Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, wife of the American ambassador here, presented the five American debutantes and four matrons—of the nine five are permanent European residents. They were:

Miss Virginia Bell, daughter of the late Edward Bell, formerly of the United States embassy in London and charge d'affaires of the American legation in Peiping, where he died. Miss Bell lives in London with her mother and stepfather, an official of the British foreign office.

Mrs. Maturin Livingston Delafield of Walton-on-Hill.

Mrs. Dudley G. Dwyre of Denever, Colo., wife of the senior American consul in London.

Mrs. Harry G. Seidel of Ravenswood, Kingston-on-Thames.

Mrs. T. Walter Seligman of New Jersey.

Net Over Shimmering Satin.

Miss Bell's gown was a charming frock of ivory tinted net over shimmering satin. A full fichu was draped gracefully around the shoulders and the skirt graduated in hand tucks from the waist to the hem. Trains of gored net over ivory satin were finished with a large bow at the hem. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and white freshias. To hold the prince of Wales ostrich feathers she wore a wreath of crystal flowers.

Miss McKinney, who spends her time alternating with one aunt, Mrs. Thomas P. Bryan of Richmond, Va., and another, Mrs. Lester Grant of London, chose a Lelong model gown of ivory faille with short puff sleeves falling off the shoulders. The skirt was cut in long graceful lines and gathered at the back to form a bustle effect. The train was ensuite with the gown but at the end was a design of stars embroidered with tiny silver sequins. She wore a small tiara and pearls and in contrast to the ivory of her dress carried a large jade green ostrich feather fan.

Educated in Europe.

Miss Osborne is the sister of May Henderson Stillwell, who was presented in 1933. She has lived most of her life in England, having been educated there and in France. She wore a robe de style modern inspiration conceived in pearl tinted satin with the court train in silver lame tinted to match and lined with ruched chiffon. A soft clinging effect was enhanced by a large ostrich feather fan tinted to match.

Mrs. Seidel wore a lovely gown by Reville of rose, pink, and silver brocaded lame. Her softly draped corsage had a long sash tied at the back of the silver lame. A heavy train repeated the rose and silver color scheme, which was also carried out in a large ostrich feather fan of shaded pink.

Mrs. Dwyre, who only recently arrived in London from her husband's Mexico City assignment, chose an ensemble of blue and silver lame. The train was an entirely silver cloth. She carried a white ostrich feather fan.

Traditional Debutante's Gown.

Miss Tweedy kept to the traditional debutante's gown of tulle, but with thousands of others she helped make it a "silver court" with a train of silver lame. She carried a white feather fan which has become as much an accessory of debutantes as of matrons.

Miss Prizer chose a Mainboucher model conceived in white crêpe cloque cut in simple classical lines with the train ensuite lined with white faille. The corsage had a deep decolettage in back and a V-neck in front, a slight draping in front being held with a diamante ornament. Over a bias cut a form-fitting skirt was worn, a short tunic lined with faille making a slight flare and being held with another diamante ornament at the back. This tunic can be detached and worn as a cape. She carried a white ostrich feather fan and in the chill of the wait in the palace for the court wore a white ermine coat with a white fox collar.

HUNGER STRIKE WON BY 112 MINERS; QUIT PITS AFTER 7 DAYS

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, March 29.—(AP)—More than 100 miners who launched an underground hunger strike at Warasdin seven days ago came out of the pits tonight famished but victorious.

A dozen of the 124 men who went down into the mines last week, asserting their intention to die there unless their demands were granted, had given up the struggle when the ordeal proved too much for them.

The rest, however, waited until word was sent down today that the mine owners had raised 200,000 dinars [about $454] to meet most of the strikers' demands. The men were haggard but smiling as they greeted their anxious families. Two were given medical treatment while the rest received vacations to recuperate.

GLASS ATTACKS USE OF PRESS AGENTS BY SECRETARY WALLACE

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.] — Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], today called attention to the wholesale employment of press agents in Secretary Wallace's department of agriculture and to a law on the statute books prohibiting the practice "without specific appropriation by congress." Senator Glass made his observations just before the senate passed the 125 million dollar agricultural department appropriation bill.

"A reputable newspaper man told me," said Senator Glass, "that more newspaper men are now working for the government than for the newspapers themselves. They even have bureaus that are getting out illustrated magazines.

"I personally know of a bureau that has a publicity branch and it has no more use for a publicity branch than I have for some people I know."

When Senator Glass read the law prohibiting press agents without specific appropriation, Senator Bennett Clark [Dem., Mo.], asserted:

"The senator knows that law is being violated."

"Of course it is. That's what I'm objecting to," Senator Glass said.

SCORES FLEE GAS BOMB EXPLOSION IN COURTHOUSE

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Welch of Lake county was severely burned and gassed, and scores of employes and litigants in the courthouse at Waukegan were driven to the street yesterday when a gas bomb was exploded in the sheriff's office.

The office, which is in the basement, had just been redecorated, and Welch was taking the bombs back to their regular case when he dropped one. The fall threw the firing lever, and dense clouds of black smoke and fumes which affect the lining of the throat and also produce nausea poured out.

Welch seized the bomb to throw it out, but by this time it was red hot. Gasping and choking from the gas, Welch staggered outside. He was treated at a nearby doctor's office.

In the meantime the fumes had spread through the upper three floors of the courthouse, and most of the rooms on the side above the sheriff's office had to be vacated for several hours.

ROCK ISLAND FERRY RESUMES.

Rock Island, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—The W. J. Quinlan ferryboat between Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport, Ia., will begin its sixty-third season of navigation tomorrow. River men regard it as operating on the oldest franchise on the Mississippi.

Wife Admits Her Charges False; Suit Is Dismissed

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday dismissed for want of equity the separate maintenance suit brought by Mrs. Louise Karban, 1645 Scoville avenue, Berwyn, against James Karban, president of a mortgage company at 1809 South Racine avenue. On the witness stand Mrs. Karban admitted that charges in her bill were false. She admitted that her husband did not earn $35,000 a year, as stated in the bill, and also admitted that charges of brutality were untrue. She was ordered to pay court costs.

COUNTY POLICE CHIEF PROTESTS NOISE ON ROADS

BY HAL FOUST.

Herbert H. Burns, new chief of the Cook county highway police, left his Morton Grove station early yesterday after a night of inspection of the unnecessary noises of trafic on rural and suburban highways. He was converted to the need for an amendment to the muffler requirements of the Illinois motor vehicle code.

During the hours when most of the countryside was trying to sleep, Burns was parked with his lieutenant, Joseph H. Welsh, and with Chief A. C. Stolberg of the Niles Center police beside Skokie road near the Glenview road. Mingled with the passenger car trafic of north shore residents returning from late engagements in Chicago and of Chicago residents returning from roadhouses, were trucks carrying merchandise on U. S. route 41, the main highway between Chicago and Milwaukee.

Noise from Freighters.

The freighters rumbled under heavy loads. There were low reverberating roars from inadequate or defective mufflers on laboring engines.

"This noise is certainly a public nuisance," said Chief Burns, "but there isn't anything that can be done about it under the state law as it now reads."

The only reference to mufflers in the motor vehicle law is as follows:

"No motor vehicle shall be equipped with or use a muffler cutout that can be operated from the inside of the car."

Remedial Legislation Pends.

Pending before the general assembly at Springfield is a bill to amend this provision. It was introduced by State Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago], chairman of the house motor vehicle committee. As amended the statute would read as follows:

"Every motor vehicle shall at all times be equipped with a muffler in good working order and in constant operation to prevent excessive or unusual noise and no person shall use a muffler cutout, by-pass or similar device upon a motor vehicle on a public highway."

The Chicago Motor club has indorsed the proposed amendment.

DELAY INQUEST IN DEATH OF BOY SLAIN BY POLICE

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 19; recovered, 15; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday].

The inquest into the death of Raymond Duchene, 17 years old, 4851 Iowa street, shot to death in a stolen car by Oak Park police Thursday night, was continued to April 18 yesterday by Deputy Coroner Louis J. Nadherny after brief testimony.

The continuance is pending the recovery or death of Duchene's companion, Jack La Rocca, 18 years old, of 2706 Wilcox street, who is at the Bridewell hospital with bullet wounds in his side and abdomen. At yesterday's hearing the slain youth's father, Alfred Duchene, a photo engraver, testified that his son had been in trouble with police before and had served eight months in the Bridewell for larceny of an automobile.

FEAR DOWNSTATE FOES OF DRIVERS' LICENSING BILLS

Proponents Meet to Push Program.

State Representative Edward O'Grady [Dem., Chicago] said yesterday that some strong opposition to the drivers' license and financial responsibility bills is developing downstate, threatening passage of these safety measures by the legislature. He is author of the license bill and Representative Mason Sullivan [Dem., Chicago] introduced the companion measure.

The representatives attended a luncheon meeting of the Illinois Conference on Highway Safety Legislation in the Palmer House yesterday noon to develop a program for overcoming this opposition. The house judiciary committee has a hearing on the bills scheduled for next Wednesday afternoon in Springfield. It was decided to rally for this session a large delegation of the Chicago and downstate civic organizations that have indorsed the bills.

Need Help for Passage.

"I am not nearly as optimistic as I was a few weeks ago about the final vote on the bills," O'Grady said at the luncheon meeting. "We need help to pass the measures. This help must come from down state because that's where the opposition is strong.

"Representatives of rural districts are objecting to the tax of 50 cents for a three year license. They mention the case of a farmer with a flivver for a family that includes seven drivers, each of whom would require a license.

"Persons with physical defects are writing to Springfield objecting to the examination feature of the bill. It's surprising how numerous are the automobile operators with defective eyes, ears, or limbs."

Must Show Driving Ability.

Sidney Williams, a director of the National Safety council, pointed out that these defects will not bar a driver from getting a license if he can demonstrate ability to operate a car. A physical examination would not be required of those who obtained drivers' licenses in the first year that the proposed law is effective, but would be required thereafter.

O'Grady suggested that emphasis should be made on the revocation provisions of the bill which suspend the driving privilege for those repeatedly convicted of recklessness or those convicted of more serious offenses such as driving while intoxicated.

The financial responsibility act would suspend the license of a driver after conviction in a civil suit for damages until the judgment was paid and an insurance policy posted to protect the public financially against future accidents that might be caused by the defendant.

STORE ROBBER SELLS SHOES TO CUSTOMER, ADDS $5.50 TO LOOT

New York, March 29.—(AP)—The customer may never know, but tonight an affable robber who had the regular clerk locked up in the washroom sold him a pair of shoes.

There were, in all, three armed robbers. They locked the clerk, Julius Costello, and his brother, Louis, in the washroom, and then emptied the cash register of $25.

While they were trying to open the safe a customer walked in. One robber, who apparently knew something about the shoe business, greeted him with a genial "good evening."

After several fittings, during which the emergency clerk's two confederates stood idly at the rear of the store, a sale was made.

"Five dollars and fifty cents," said the gunman.

Buys One City License in 12 Years; Fined $200

Martin Redner, 40 years old, who admitted he had purchased only one city license in the twelve years he has been operating a machine shop at 1450 West North avenue, was fined $200 yesterday by Municipal Judge Eugene Holland. Redner was arrested by the Racine avenue police on March 21 after he had resisted their efforts to inspect his plant and determine if he had a license. In court he said he bought a license in 1923 but had neglected to do so since.

dam power line. It was the generosity of the federal government that made possible construction of the dam. The order obtained by General Electric is a half million dollar job.

Transformers Cost Million.

In 1934 the company obtained contracts involving $1,000,000 for construction of 11 giant transformers for the Hoover dam development.

Other government business which the company received last year included a $775,500 order for motors, controls, switchboard and parts on the Fort Peck dam project in Montana which is being built with federal funds.

The navy department awarded the company a $900,000 contract for 14 double reduction gears for 7 United States destroyers. This contract was filled by the Lynn, Mass., plant of the company while the Schenectady works built the turbines for the destroyers.

Attractive Field Opened.

Entry of the federal government, through the Electric Home and Farm authority, into the field of electrical appliance financing opened an attractive field for the company.

General Electric was one of the first to realize the marketing possibilities of this government venture into the utility field which was a side line of the vast experiment in the Tennessee valley.

The company in June last year introduced a new line of "TVA" model refrigerators and ranges, announcement of which was made by David Lilienthal, head of TVA.

EHFA Finances Paper.

The government financing of consumer appliance purchases is carried out through utilization of the regular retail outlets. The appliances are sold on a time payment basis over a period of three to four years, the government agency paying the selling price and taking the paper signed by the purchasers.

General Electric helped supply the equipment purchased by the Pennsylvania railroad in its Washington-New York electrification project. The railroad obtained substantial loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to complete this job.

Doctor Fined for Driving Without Illinois License

Dr. M. Shuger, who has offices at 100 North Wells street, was arrested by Lincoln park police Thursday for having no Illinois license on his automobile. He pleaded that his home is in Michigan City, Ind., and that his car is licensed in that state. Judge John Gutknecht in the Trafic court fined him $4, but said he would vacate the fine if the physician gets Illinois plates.

ROBBED OF LIFE'S SAVINGS.

Portland, Ore., March 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry Albright, 60, reported to police today she had been robbed of $2,500, her life savings, by a young man who represented himself as a gas meter reader. She said she was tied with rope after the robber felled her.

DAVID Y. PATLAK FOUND GUILTY OF SWINDLE CHARGE

CRIMINAL COURT.

WALTER FILAR, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; MAURICE TAYLOR, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; LUTHER JONES, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller

Attorney David Y. Patlak, said to have swindled various victims of a total of some $200,000 by posing as a "tax fixer," was found guilty yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Walter P. Steffen and faces a term of one to ten years in the penitentiary.

He was tried on the specific charge of embezzling $1,223 from August F. Krieter of 734 Forest avenue, Evanston.

The trial came after an investigation of Patlak's release from the Illinois Security hospital at Menard, where he was sent in January of 1934, after being adjudged insane.

Last December it was discovered that Patlak had been paroled without notification being given the Cook county authorities. He was rearrested and brought to trial, the prosecution being handled by Assistant State's Attorneys Robert Donigan and John Phillips.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

CUTTER FIGHTING STUBBORN ICE TO REOPEN STRAITS

At Point 22 Miles West of Mackinac Island.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard U. S. S. Escanaba, March 29.—[Special.]—Cutting and ramming through ice ten to twenty inches thick on its mission of opening the Mackinac straits to shipping a month earlier than usual, this coast guard cutter reached a point shortly beyond White Scals light tonight, where it was stopped by 30 inch ice.

After several hours passed in trying to cut the huge cakes with axes and pike poles, it was decided to rest here for the night. The ship is 20 miles west of Mackinac Island.

The Escanaba was making progress of about one-half mile an hour all through the day, as her steel-sheated prow smashed again and again into the ice field, and Lieut. Commander Louis Perkins estimated that Mackinac Island would be reached by Sunday afternoon.

Weather Clear and Cold.

The weather was clear and cold today, as the cutter resumed work after spending the night in the midst of the floe some five miles west of the Waugoshance Island light. To make a single mile, the Escanaba must smash into the ice until stopped, reverse engines and back up, then smash forward again, repeating the process no less than thirty-four times.

Unless there would be immediate unseasonably warm weather, accompanied by gales, the ice fields through which the Escanaba is now plowing, would have held up shipping through the straits for at least another three or four weeks, in the opinion of ship's officers.

Reports from the coast guard station on Mackinac Island, headed by H. A. Peterson, officer in charge, were of clear water three miles east of the island.

Shipping Men Eye Progress.

In the meantime, trafic men in Chicago, and other shipping points, are awaiting eagerly the report that the Escanaba had cut a channel through the straits, and that shipping may start. The longer shipping season that the work of the cutter will allow, is expected to have a material effect on the efficiency of each boat plying this course, and consequently on shipping rates.

MORTON GROVE BUILDING CHIEF QUIZZED ON FIRE

Adolph Poehner, Morton Grove building commissioner, was questioned informally by the Cook county grand jury yesterday in connection with the Club Rendezvous fire last Sunday morning, in which seven persons lost their lives. The jury completed its month's work and was dismissed without making any recommendations.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney, prosecutor of the arson ring cases, and Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank Doherty continued their investigation of the fire, but indicated that no evidence which would warant grand jury action has been gathdred.

Inspection of rural roadhouses was continued by highway police, who recommended changes in a number of establishments to minimize fire hazards but found none that they thought deserved closing as fire traps.

Funeral services for Edward L. Healey, 121 South Home avenue, Oak Park, one of the victims of the fire, were held yesterday in the chapel at 521 Lake street, Oak Park. Mrs. Healey, who suffered severe burns, is still in St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

FINDS BROTHER SHOT AND DYING, HIS $250 MISSING

The mysterious slaying of Antonio Forcucci, 51 years old, a tailor of 1123 Lytle street, who was found shot to death in his sister's home at 10254 Avenue L yesterday, was being investigated last night by Lieut. Michael Vaughn of the East Side police.

The sister, Mrs. Madeline Sandonado, told Lieut. Vaughn that her husband and four of their six children were at work, and the two youngest children were at school, leaving her alone.

About 1 o'clock, she said, she went to a grocery and was gone about half an hour. When she returned she found her brother on the floor of the front room, dying from a bullet wound in the head. A revolver which ordinarily hung in a nearby closet was missing.

Forcucci's bank book, indicating he had just withdrawn $250, was found on the floor of this closet, but the money was missing.

Mrs. Sandonado explained that yesterday was her birthday. On these anniversaries her brother made a practice of giving her an expensive present, and giving $5 bills to each of the children, and to three close friends, she said.

SMITTY—'FRAID CAT!

TELLS MELLONS' STOCK DEALS AT INCOME HEARING

U. S. Tries to Show Tax Was Evaded.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon and his brother, the late R. B. Mellon, borrowed $2,000,000 in July, 1929, from the Union Trust company without signing a note, an assistant treasurer of the institution testified today before the tax appeals board hearing Mellon's protest of an assessment of $3,089,000 on his 1931 income tax return. He claims the government owes him a refund of $139,000.

The bank received 78,000 shares of Pittsburgh Coal company stock as collateral with a contract carrying authority to purchase 58,000 shares of the stock at $35 a share, said the witness, S. P. Gerst.

Tries to Show Evasion.

Robert H. Jackson, government counsel, was seeking to prove that the sale of the securities to the bank—on which Mellon claimed an income tax loss—and the repurchase of them later by Mellon's family holding corporation was part of a plan to evade tax payments.

Jackson brought from another witness over objection of Mellon counsel a statement that the bank purchased securities from customers other than Mellon and sold them back later. The government has been trying to get the records of Union Trust into the hearing in support of its charge that it operated "a tax evasion mill."

Loan Replaced by Note.

On Dec. 29, 1931, Gerst said, the contract giving right to purchase the stock and the shares was returned to the Mellons and replaced by a collateral note and 100,000 shares of Gulf Oil stock.

The evidence also has shown that A. W. Mellon took his share of the stock on the next day and, with another block he already had, sold the entire holding of 123,000 shares to Union Trust for $500,000, or about $4 a share.

The loan was repaid on June 7, 1934.

U. of C. Dean to Be Head of Library Association

Louis R. Wilson, dean of the University of Chicago graduate library school, is the only candidate nominated for the presidency of the American Library association, it was disclosed yesterday by George B. Utley, librarian of the Newberry library, chairman of the nominating committee of the association. The election is to be held in Denver in June.

LAUNCH TRIPLE EXTORTION QUIZ; GIRL OUT ON BOND

Tahlequah, Okla., March 29.—(AP)—A triple investigation into death threats against brown eyed Lois Thompson was launched tonight after the Northeastern Oklahoma Teachers' college co-ed had been freed under $2,500 bond in the shooting of a Chinese student.

"When we find the author of those death notes we'll find the answer to this baffling case," said County Attorney Sanford Martin.

[Acme Photo.]

An agent of the United States department of justice and Phil Isenhour, state crime bureau operative, have come to aid county authorities.

The 19 year old girl rested at the farm home of her widowed mother near here tonight. W. W. Miller, her attorney, issued a statement in which he quoted his client as saying "Shaw admitted to me he was a member of the gang" just before she fired two bullets into his body on the steps of the college administration building on Wednesday.

The attorney painted a picture of a fear crazed girl who fired "in defense of her life." For days, he recalled, she had received extortion notes demanding from $100 to $3,000 under pain of death.

Shaw continued to improve tonight. He told Martin he knew nothing of the case until the girl called him from the administration building just before she fired the shots and added he was "hardly acquainted" with Miss Thompson, a sophomore.

INSPIRES THEFT; GETS SIX MONTHS.

Charles Gaytas, 53 years old, 930 Belmont avenue, was sentenced by Judge Leon Edelman yesterday to serve six months in the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Paul Vitello, 12 years old, 850 Fletcher street, testified that Gaytas had induced him to steal a bottle of whisky.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Life of Thrills by John Hays Hammond's Pen

Autobiography Issued on His 80th Birthday.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

TOMORROW, to celebrate his eightieth birthday, the Autobiography of John Hays Hammond will be published. Two volumes of closely printed pages record a life unique among Americans alive today . . . a life which has had every degree of excitement from what all of his readers will feel is the thrill of the frontier to what most of us would feel to be the chill of Buckingham palace.

John Hays Hammond started life as a mining engineer. He is luxuriating in an old age of yarns. . . with the seafarers of Gloucester and distinguished visitors in the summer, with diplomats, old cowboys, retired bonanza discoverers, the elite of the upper and the lower crusts, in the winter. In between he has made millions of dollars and hundreds of friends like Samuel Gompers, who autographed his photograph "To the most conservative, practical, radically democratic millionaire I ever met, John Hays Hammond," and Charles A. Lindbergh, who invited him to fly with him to inaugurate the Central American airways. Mr. Hammond has known every President of the United States since Grant [with the exception of Chester A. Arthur], and he was so close to Taft that later when Col. House's relationship to Wilson was first publicized, Col. House was called the "John Hays Hammond of the Wilson administration."

He was as close to Cecil Rhodes as any American ever can be to an imperialistic Britisher [though Mr. Hammond has nothing but the most ardent admiration for those imperialistic policies] and he admired Porfirio Diaz extravagantly. He flattered Mussolini and he talked up to the czar of all the Russias. And he had a pretty hand in a snappy little revolution of his own in South Africa.

Of all the excitements in his autobiography, and there are plenty of them in his recital of his early days in the mining engineering business when he made his own deductions in dangerous pits, or managed Mexicans with an enemy's gun practically leveled at his heart whenever he stepped out without his bodyguard of Texas rangers; of all the thrills and the chills, the greatest is in his recital of the part he took in the famous Jameson raid in South Africa.

The first volume ends with the last words of the judge in passing sentence on him and his fellow conspirators ". . . and that you be taken to the place of execution to be there hanged by the neck till you are dead. May God Almighty have mercy on your soul." There aren't many citizens of these our United States who are still alive with a moment like that in their past.

But in spite of the thrills of his early life and the political excitements of his later years, the autobiography of John Hays Hammond is too mannerly, too restrained, too, shall we say proper, to be the classic that it might have been. He never says a harsh word when a mild one would do, and his criticisms are as his words. Me, I like a good, hard-fisted autobiography, not a too suave one. . . old Lord Fisher's, for instance, which struck out so viciously that a grand and gory-ous time was had by all.

Mr. Hammond may never have accepted political honors [he was invited by Harding to be the ambassador to the Court of St. James's just before that President's death] but he shows, in his autobiography, perfect political tact. Even tact, however, cannot take all of the glamor from the polite narrative.

TWO PHYSICIANS WRITE

Adventure, although in another and perhaps less obviously adventurous field, is in two books written by two doctors and published last month. They cover just about the same period as Mr. Hammond's memoirs. "Memoirs of a Small Town Surgeon," by John Brooks Wheeler, M. D. [Stokes], and "Fifty Years a Surgeon," by Robert T. Morris, M. D. [Dutton].

Dr. Wheeler's modest title hides, but not under a bushel, the memories of an eminent man who, as professor of surgery at the University of Vermont, was by the nature of his residence a "small town surgeon" and whose work was, by that very fact, and in a day when the world shunned hospitals, done more often than not in the farmhouse kitchen, with a kerosene lamp for arc light and an uncle or a son for anaesthetist.

Mr. Hammond's explorations in far places are no less exciting for most readers than Dr. Wheeler's explorations in humanity on the Vermont hillsides.

Dr. Morris, in New York, did less pioneering in the study of mankind perhaps than Dr. Wheeler but his memoirs have the thrill of scientific developments recorded by an excited participant.

EXPLORER OF MINDS

A half generation later than Mr. Hammond and Dr. Wheeler and Dr. Morris there grew up in France another adventurer in another field. . . . Ernest Dimnet, who was to become the first French abbé who in our day has captured the mass of American readers. There is scarcely any one who has not heard of "The Art of Thinking."

The Abbé Dimnet is that most intrepid of adventurers—the man who dares explore minds. . . . And by that I do not mean the science of psychology nor suggest that his book on the art of thinking is either the last or the best word on the subject. I mean the peculiarly fascinating study of mankind that sees into the human mind and heart. He, too, has written his autobiography, but in so diluted a form as to be a book about humans rather than a book about one human.

"My Old World" [Simon & Schuster] he calls it, and it is as much a subtle study of France and the French mind as it is the story of a little French boy who became the best known literary priest of his day. The first parts of the book—which tell about his childhood in Paris and his years as a school boy have the same irresistibility touching quality that made Anatole France's "Little Pierre" one of the books that no one forgets.

"My Old World" starts out somewhat formidably, but it very soon melts into such charm of memory and comment—adventuring into human relationships—that its lure cannot be denied. It is "literary" and philosophical, while the other three autobiographies considered today are factual. Taken together, the four of them tell us that the generation between sixty-nine and eighty has been a richly adventurous one, in whatever field.

Escapes of World War Prisoners Make a Thrilling Volume

Eleven thrilling prison breaks by world war soldiers make "Escape" [McBride], edited by Capt. H. C. Armstrong, who himself did a daring exit from a Turkish dungeon, one of the best books of its kind. The author has not confined himself to his own nationality, for there are only three English narrators.

Five Frenchmen tell of daredevil bravery in getting out of German prisons, and one German tells a harrowing tale of escape from a Siberian prison camp. An Australian flyer gets out of a Turkish prison and a Yankee air lieutenant succeeds in making an unofficial exit from the Teuton prison camp at Villingen.

Meetings and Lectures

At the meeting of the Society of Midland Authors this noon at the Hotel Sherman, Herma Clark of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will be the guest of honor.

On Tuesday at 6:45 p. m. at Fullerton hall, Art institute, James Weber Linn, University of Chicago, will begin a series of five lectures dealing with "Five Makers of English Prose." This week's lecture will be on "Macauley the Reasoner."

Dr. James J. Walsh, author of "Education of the Founding Fathers of the Republic," will discuss "The Mysteries of Science and Religion" on Thursday at 8:15 p. m. at the St. Gertrude Study club, 6218 Glenwood avenue.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

Those who enjoy the fantastic and picturesque will be highly entertained by Edwin Gile Rich's translation of the "Personal Memoirs of Vidocq" [Houghton-Mifflin]. The translator styles Vidocq the "first great detective," and certainly he was one of the greatest of rascals if he were not, as seems highly probable, drawing the long bow. The period of his exploits was that of the French revolution and the following Napoleonic era, and wherever the most was going on during this epoch of hectic goings-on there Vidocq was. His success as a secret agent, which he was, rather than a detective, would seem to be the result of a first hand knowledge of crime in all its branches, for Vidocq was brawler, grafter, thief and cutthroat.

If there was any peccadillo or crime which escaped his active attention it must be a latter day invention. In fact, the only real virtue that seemed to be his was utter frankness in regard to his utter badness and a naïve belief in his strange abilities. Mr. Rich's translation is excellent. He accomplishes that rare feat of transferring from one language to another the spirit as well as the letter, and these exploits, shaped by him into a queer sort of thriller, should be popular with delvers into the curious.

To the other books about Mexico now so suddenly numerous can be added "Vultures of the Sky" [Crime Club], by Todd Downing. It's all about that long and uncomfortable journey from the border to Mexico City—in this case made unusually grim by several murders and any number of conspiracies. I think you will find it one of those books you just have to absorb at a gulp, and whether you will feel slightly gypped at the finish is a matter of temperament.

A more unpleasant murderer than the one Valcour tracks down so doggedly in Rufus King's "Profile of a Murder" [Harcourt-Brace] would be hard to conceive. The only really pleasant person in the book is the first victim but there are a number of put upon individuals to whom you become rather attached in its grisly course. Mr. King's Valcour is one of the younger detectives to whom the murder story fraternity is rapidly becoming attached and he is entertainingly and capably exploited in this last story which is not so mysterious but what you pick the fiend in human form early. Valcour knows even before you do and neither he nor you waste any sympathy when the moment comes for cracking down.

"A Pioneer College" Marks Centennial of Marietta

"A Pioneer College" [privately printed], by Arthur G. Beach, was published in February on the 100th anniversary of the present charter of Marietta college and the 138th of the founding of Muskingum academy. Getting and imparting an education was pretty exciting in Ohio in 1835.

John Milton

THE brilliant biographer of those best-sellers, "Richelieu" and "Cromwell", now presents a fascinating portrait of a contemporary character world-famed in literature.

Mr. Belloc has such full knowledge of Milton's life in detail that he stands out living before the reader—a very human man. Yet Belloc is deeply appreciative of Milton's significance as a poet of genius second only to Shakespeare. Frontispiece, $4.

Sarah Millin Writing Life of Gen. Smuts

Noted Biographer Enjoys Subject's Approval.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—It was agreed upon all hands that Mrs. Sarah Gertrude Millin's biography of Cecil Rhodes was first rate. It was so good that Clifford Sharp [whose untimely death is a real loss to British political journalism] abandoned the writing of his book on the same subject. And now Mrs. Millin is working on and Fabers will publish an authoritative "life" of Gen. Smuts, another great South African figure whose place in the international scene is of up to the minute interest and importance.

The book will be in two volumes; and it will not be published until next year. But it is being written upon a basis of authentic material, with Gen. Smuts' knowledge and authority. It should be a work of outstanding international interest for serious readers.

Miss Winifred Watson, whose first novel, "Fell Top," will shortly be published by Methuens, admits that as she possessed no typewriter of her own she typed every word of the novel out of office hours upon the machine she used as a professional stenographer. Whether this is a good thing I cannot say, though I wonder whether other books have not sometimes been produced in similar circumstances without acknowledgment.

The fact, however, is enough to draw attention to this first venture on the part of a girl clerk in a Newcastle office who is now happily married and free for ever from stenography. It would have been a pleasant thought if her late employers had given her a typewriter as a wedding present. But perhaps her husband did that.

"Travel Symphony: the Story of a Journey Round the World" [Cassells] is the work of Wedgwood and Margaret Benn, who recently made a tour to investigate industrial conditions in every part of the globe. No doubt they gathered valuable material, some of which will be indicated in the pages of "Travel Symphony," but the book is also interesting as one more illustration of the indefatigable literary zest of this remarkable family.

Wedgwood Benn, who was once a light of the Liberty party [until it was torn asunder over the character of Lloyd George], became a convert to Labor. He occupied cabinet rank in the last Labor government, and is a quick witted speaker as well as a highly intelligent man. He is the younger brother of Sir John Benn, the publisher-economist, whose campaign for individualism is supported by a weekly paper under his own editorship. He is the uncle of a still younger Benn who was at Princeton and wrote a book about his American experience.

Authorship with these men is nothing but a hobby, for their interest is chiefly in business and politics, but with what industry and vigor they pursue their hobby! And how engaging the result is!

Slave Appears as First Man to Circle the Globe

In "Unrolling the Map: The Story of Exploration," by Leonard Outhwaite [Reynal & Hitchcock], one of the curious tales is of an East Indian slave called "Malacca Henry," who, from the assembled facts, seems to have been the first man to pass around the world. He was found in Malacca by Magellan on his first trip, taken back to Spain and Portugal, and seven years later sailed on the ill-fated Magellan trip, and, when he had again reached the Spice Islands [his birthplace], deserted. It's a thrilling tale, dug out of old records.

Wins $4,000

[Roelich Photo.]

Elizabeth Crowe Hannum of Chicago has just received word that she is the winner of the Atlantic Monthly textbook contest, which carried with it a prize of $4,000 and future glories untold. The contest was for "the best basal textbook for English to be used in high schools."

One hundred and fifty-one manuscripts were received from all over the world. One hundred and fifty of them gave place to "Speak! Read! Write!"

Mrs. Hannum was educated at the Eastern Illinois Teachers' college at Charleston, Ill., where her father is a professor of chemistry, and at the University of Chicago, where she received her Ph. B. She was in the editorial department of La Salle Extension university, as head of the department for two years, and she taught in the Francis Parker school until 1932, when she took examinations for the city high schools. She passed with the highest marks in the examined group, but before any appointments were made the economy system in the Chicago public schools was inaugurated—which put back to work discharged teachers before taking new ones—and she devoted the next year to the preparation of the prize winning book.

Discover Additional Letters Written by Brownings in Italy

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Parts of 22 previously unpublished letters by Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, written to her sisters, were disclosed today by the American Art association-Anderson galleries.

The letters shed new light on the romance of the two poets and their life in Italy, where they fled a week after a secret marriage to escape the wrath of her father and to recover her health.

Mrs. Browning's first letter from abroad explodes the myth that Browning did not see her during that week because he could not ask for her by her maiden name and dared not speak of her as Mrs. Browning.

Name Committee to Head Mark Twain Centennial

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Formation of a national committee of 80 widely known Americans to arrange for observances of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Mark Twain, which occurs this year, was announced tonight by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, who will be chairman. The ceremonies will reach their climax Nov. 30, the date of Twain's birth.

Proves Women Are Pioneers of Novel Writing

Miss Kaye-Smith Outlines Their Achievements.

SHEILA KAYE-SMITH was a distinguished Chicago visitor this week and when she talked on "Pioneer Women Novelists" she made her audience [composed mostly of women] realize that women had really had a guiding hand at the helm of novel writing.

She told about the first American woman novelist whom no one, probably, in her audience, with the possible exception of the erudite Thornton Wilder had ever heard of . . . Charlotte Lennox, born Ramsay in New York in 1720 who married an Englishman, and in an effort to make a life for herself when her marriage proved unhappy, wrote and captured the English reading public with a novel called "The Female Quixote." She was so popular that Dr. Johnson invited her to an all-night sitting of the Ivy club and crowned her with laurel.

But novel writing became such a racket, Miss Kaye-Smith said, with novels merely the contemporary scandals with the names changed, written in a week for a pound often by the attendants of the circulating libraries which peddled them, that the whole art of the novel seemed to be lost until Fanny Burney saved it.

Next, in the late eighteenth century, when the self-conscious often had ruins built in their gardens to give flavor to their newness, the novel of historical background was done by Harriet Lee and others—forerunners of Sir Walter Scott. And then came novels of purpose in revolt against the frivolousness of the historical romance, novels of "doctrine" as they were called which budded in the work of Maria Edgworth and flowered in perfection with Jane Austen.

Jane Austen, Miss Kaye-Smith pointed out was so honest, so real, so sincere that in the whole six novels which compose her life work there is not one conversation between two men, because she wrote about only what she herself knew or had observed or had participated in. It was Jane Austen, Miss Kaye-Smith said who broke the last shackles which bound novels to the marvelous.

Mrs. Gaskell continued in the realistic school by writing the first stories of the industrialization of the towns [in "North and South," not in "Cranford"] and George Eliot took the novel out into the country among farming people and laborers and was really the forerunner of Thomas Hardy.

She spoke of the Bronte sisters as pioneers who have had no followers, and agreed with those who declare "Wuthering Heights" the greatest novel in the English language.

Further pioneering was done by May Sinclair, she said, who studied with Freud in Vienna and put into the novel a new and intense interest in the human mind. Miss Sinclair communicated that interest to her fellow novelists, Miss Kaye-Smith observed, with highly deleterious results since most of them felt that the only mind worth writing about was their own.

Miss Sinclair adapted the new technique of Dorothy Richardson who saw outward things only through the mind. The supreme exponent of that brilliant, but difficult technique today, she said, is Virginia Woolf who has produced an intense emotional and psychological realism.

And thus she made her audience realize that women HAVE done a great deal to turn the novel into new directions.

SPY

By BERNARD NEWMAN. A most astounding spy story—adventures of a British agent attached to German headquarters on the Western front. Ten Successes and Failures of Stage Published

THEATERGOERS by instinct and desire who are kept away geographically from the delights of a financially moribund but artistically alluring art will welcome the news of the publication within the last three months of ten of the season's major successes and gorgeous failures and in-betweens and possibilities.

Those who are literary as well as dramatic in their tastes will rush to read Archibald MacLeish's "Panic" [Houghton Mifflin], a startling play in fine, vigorous verse of the day before the bank moratorium in 1933. It marks Mr. MacLeish's surprisingly successful leap into a new artistic milieu. The play as a play has had production twice only for the extra literate by the Phoenix theater, with no plans for a more extensive run, so far as I know.

Sinclair and Lloyd Lewis' "The Jayhawker" [Doubleday Doran] will also delight the literary minded.

And nobody, however thrilled by its drama, can deny the power of the writing in Robert E. Sherwood's "The Petrified Forest" [Scribners]. Two other New York successes, although not touching Mr. Sherwood's play literarily, have had so much discussion swirling about them that readers will hasten to know why. They are Noel Coward's "Point Valaine" [Doubleday Doran], which most of the critics claim is diluted Somerset Maugham, and "Escape Me Never," by Margaret Kennedy [Doubleday Doran], which is a dramatization of her other story about the irresponsible Sangers of "The Constant Nymph," "The Fool of the Family."

And then there's S. N. Behrman's "Rain from Heaven" [Random House], a Theater Guild play which has been labeled "a brilliant author's most brilliant play," and "Gold Eagle Guy" [Random House], by Melvin Levy, produced by the rival uplifters of the drama, the Group theater, the dramatic tale of the San Francisco water front from 1860 to the great fire.

And Norman Krasna's "Small Miracle" [French], a thriller of a melodrama. French has also published Paul Green's "Roll Sweet Chariot," which was produced in 1931 under the title "Potter's Field," and what is subtitled "An Immoral Comedy," a play called "Laburnum Grove," by J. B. Priestley, "The Good Companions" boy, which is scheduled for production.

DAUGHTER TELLS BEDFORD - JONES' FAMILY BATTLES

Surprise Defense Witness in Balm Trial.

Miss Helen Wallace Bedford-Jones, 20 years old, was a surprise witness for the defense in yesterday's session of the $200,000 alienation of affections suit, which her mother, Mrs. Helen Bedford-Jones, has brought against her stepmother, Mrs. Mary Bernardin Bedford-Jones.

The case is on trial in the federal court of Judge William H. Holly. It concerns the affections of Henry Bedford-Jones, adventure story writer. The plaintif, from whom he was divorced in 1929, charges the present wife whom he married the same year with theft of the writer's love. Bedford-Jones himself was a witness yesterday.

Miss Bedford-Jones, or "Wally," as her friends call her, is blonde and dimpled and rather plump. She appeared to be at home on the witness stand while answering the questions of her stepmother's lawyer, Earle Ewins.

Tells of Family Travels.

She was led back over a description of the family's home life during their domicile in California, Indiana, England, and France. It was ground that her father, who followed her on the stand, went over, corroborating much of her testimony.

Describing their life in England in 1923, when she was a small girl, Miss Bedford-Jones said: "We were turned over to the servants. Mother wanted to be a social somebody. We children had to learn to be cultured. We were not human, but were merely brought on for show."

She declared that she learned to play the harp as compensation for her lack of beauty. "My sister was beautiful and my brother was a cute kid," she testified.

"Wally" told under questioning of her parents' differences during their travels in Europe.

Marital Discord Told.

One incident was the visit of the first Mrs. Bedford-Jones' cousin, Miss Emily Gatch of Evansville, Ind., during their stay in France. The writer was accused of being too friendly with the visitor.

"There was quite a row about that," the girl testified. "We heard about it all summer. Mother told dad he was gullible, a fool, and that he was sort of crazy anyway, and that Aunt Emma was a shameless creature."

In France, the girl testified, the children were made "miserable" through their mother's insistence that they be elegant and wear French clothes. Upon their return to Ann Arbor, Mich., they had to continue wearing the French clothes, she said. There her mother accused her father of showing undue attentions to another woman, the girl said.

Cool Toward Mother.

When the girl left the stand she brushed past her mother, who followed her toward the rear of the courtroom. The girl went directly to her stepmother, the defendant, with whom she lives in Palm Springs, Cal., after she submitted coolly to her mother's kiss.

Bedford-Jones related on the stand instances of his wife's jealousy and violent temper after their marriage in 1913, and during their life abroad while the husband was writing.

In Santa Barbara, not long after the marriage, he testified, his wife "drank a great deal," was violent, and went into rages that lasted for several days. She reviled him, nagged him, and he threatened to leave, he said.

Charges Wife Drank.

In Bonville, France, they were visited by her parents, Attorney and Mrs. J. E. Williamson of Evansville, Ind. On one occasion, the witness said, his father-in-law reported that "Helen is drunk." Bedford-Jones expressed disbelief, he said, but his wife's father insisted it was so, weeping as he did so.

At this point the writer bowed his head and when he lifted it showed signs of weeping.

The writer testified that in the early years of their marriage, when he was turning out "a million words a year or more," his wife used to correct the spelling and grammar in his manuscripts. Later, he said, he continued to let her read his manuscripts, but ignored her suggestions.

Bedford-Jones will resume his testimony at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Jimmy, who is 14 years old, explained that he had just arrived on the Overland Limited and was on his way to Fall River, Mass., because he has an "upside down" stomach which Dr. Philemon Truesdale is going to turn right side up, as he did recently for Alyce Jane Henry of Omaha. Miss Brian gave Jimmy her picture and autograph.

TREE RINGS PUT LIGHT ON HISTORY OF NO. AMERICA

Trace Indian Buildings to Tenth Century.

Lawrence, Kas., March 29.—(AP)—Scientific sleuthing into the secrets held by tree rings has pushed the horizons of American history back to 700 A. D., Dr. Andrew Ellicott Douglass, leader of the National Geographic society tree ring expeditions and director of Steward observatory at the University of Arizona, told the Kansas Academy of Science today.

Years of drouth, years of plenty, storm and fire all are imprinted in the annual rings—as accurately almost as if some historian had left them in words, he said.

Bore Into Old Timbers.

After examining living trees, the scientists went into southwestern Indian ruins, bored into dusty timbers and peered centuries further into the past.

Rings in timbers there proved to the scientists that the communal dwelling was under construction in 919, that the settlement reached its heyday in 1067, and still was occupied in 1127.

The scientists were able to establish their "tree ring calendar," by arranging beams in their proper sequence—so that the inner ring entries of each one dovetailed into and matched the outer entries of its predecessor.

Drouth Years Shown.

"We can point to certain years, such as 1632, 1379, 1067, and 840, and say definitly that they were years of excessive drouth in this region," Dr. Douglass said.

"Having established such facts, the transition to archæology is easy, for if the rings in a prehistoric roof beam can be dated by these known drouth years, then surely it is easy to tell when that tree was cut by the Indians for purposes of building."

JAILED FOR PLOT TO GET $3,000 BY 'FIXING' A CASE

Martin Salzman, 46 years old, 1412 South Central Park avenue, was sentenced to one year in the county jail and fined $500 yesterday by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. A co-defendant, Attorney Julius Reznik, was found not guilty in a directed verdict ordered by the judge.

The state charged that Salzman went to relatives of Rudolph Pisani, who is serving a 25 year sentence for his part in the Chicago kidnaping of Harry Welch, Toledo clothier, and demanded $3,000 to "fix" the case in the state Supreme court. When he returned for the money he was arrested.

Reznik was alleged to have sent Salzman to the Pisanis, but the state failed to produce proof of his connection with the case. Reznik is now under conviction in another case for subornation of perjury, appeal from which is pending in the Supreme court.

Walter Robert Coey, alias Robert Marsch, 44 years old, 1320 Waveland avenue, who insisted that all his seven wives "had got divorced sooner or later," was held to the grand jury in bond of $10,000 on a charge of bigamy yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court.

Mrs. Vera Marsch, 32 years old, 6317 Ingleside avenue, said she married Coey under the name of Marsch on July 17, 1931. Last Aug. 31, she said, her husband left home to go to a grocery and never returned.

She traced him to 1320 Waveland avenue, Mrs. Marsch said, where she found him living with another wife under the name of Coey. As she waited with police in front of that address, Mrs. Marsch said, her husband appeared with his new wife and an armload of groceries—not the order which he had gone for seven months before.

Marsch was asked if he had anything to say.

"Well," he said, "my first two wives had me placed in an insane asylum."

GOOD POLICE WORK.

Arrest of the three Mauston, Wis., bank bandits furnished an excellent example of the coöperation between law enforcement officials which is essential to the suppression of crime in this age of the automobile getaway.

Sherif Rider of Mauston found a witness who recognized one of the gunmen during the unsuccessful attempt upon the bank. He hurried to Chicago with his information, to State's Attorney Courtney's office. The state's attorney's detectives, accompanied by a federal department of justice agent, arrested the man who had been identified and he was speedily persuaded to name his accomplices, who were also taken.

It is especially encouraging that a department of justice agent, for once, was found coöperating with local officers. It is to be hoped that this is a sign that that department has abandoned its policy of keeping local officials in ignorance of its moves, a policy which in the last eighteen months has made fiascoes of a number of its raids and sometimes brought its agents into disrepute.

HONEST ROAD BUILDING.

In their low cost, light trafic highways, as described in THE TRIBUNE by Mr. Foust, Jo Daviess and Du Page counties have set an example in honest road building which unfortunately is almost unique in America.

In the first place, the roads are honest technically. They offer a firm surface on which the farmer can get his produce to market. They are not intended to accommodate heavy trafic, and money has not been wasted in the construction of a surface designed for that trafic. Here is a lesson for politicians if not for engineers who have wasted millions of dollars building highways designed for nonexistent trafic loads.

Furthermore, the roads were built under largely local supervision. The admitted fact that through routes require state planning and aid and even some measure of federal coördination is no excuse for interfering with purely local road projects. The county superintendent or township supervisor, working under the eyes of his neighbors, who foot the bills, has neither the inclination to nor the opportunity for the rascality which in too many instances has dictated the policies of politically governed state highway departments.

NEW DEAL OR RAW DEAL?

In debates on government ownership of railways incited by Senator Wheeler's declaration that he would shortly introduce a bill to provide for the transfer of these properties to the United States it has become customary for the proponents of the measure to assert that the railways cannot be supported indefinitly by RFC loans. THE TRIBUNE has never been an uncritical supporter of the railways and their tactics, but the charge that the government is already supporting the railways has no place in an honest discussion.

Our rail carriers are not the greatest borrowers from the RFC, but they are the only ones whose applications for loans must first have the approval of a regulatory body—viz., the interstate commerce commission. Of the total outstanding loans of the RFC Jan. 31, 1935, only 379 millions, or 14 per cent, were on railway account, which is not disproportionate to their value as an industry. Further, the loans to railways even now are no more alarming than the advances of the railway administration after the war, when the total reached 350 millions, 90 per cent of which, by the way, was liquidated during the prosperous twenties.

But it is not in loan values that the injustice of these inferences exists. Ever since the New Deal put in its appearance the railways have been called upon to contribute to its success. Let us not forget the coördinator act with its tax burden of first $1 and then $2 per mile for the services of a new government official who was to assist them in reducing expenses without curtailing personnel. "Hang your clothes on a hickory limb, but don't go near the water," is the apt comment of one railway man.

Nor can we forget the drouth that produced the necessity of moving live stock from dry sections to feed areas. "You will assist us with some low rates for this humanitarian service, won't you?" asked the government, and the railways generously responded with a bounty from their scanty revenues. Next in order came the operations of the AAA with its plowing under, acreage reduction, and pig slaughter. Here were ton miles of freight being destroyed to create scarcity and reduce carloadings with never a thought of the dire effects on the railways. And we now hear that the government is exercising to the last strained limit its control over the revenues of such roads as accepted land grants in the early days of railway construction. Rates as low as 50 per cent of the level offered to the public and for every possible mile of travel are being applied to all government shipments that can be maneuvered within the scope of these ancient land grant agreements. With one hand the New Deal exhausts the lifeblood of the railways and with the other accepts their bounties and rebates.

Some time ago THE TRIBUNE suggested that if the farmers were to be paid for not raising grain the railways should be similarly reimbursed for not hauling it. That assertion, though facetious, has a core of justice.

Discussion of the socialization of 20 billion dollars' worth of private industry is not an occasion for misrepresentation, demagogy, and ballyhoo. The step suggested by Senator Wheeler is or ought to be unthinkable, but now that the issue has been raised no unjust distortion of the position of the carriers should be tolerated.

A BAS LE RECIPE.

The managing director of three smart London hotels is offering cups and medals for the best recipes for vegetable soup. Next month, we may presume, he will be advertising for a recipe for love. Vegetable soup, sir, is made with what you have at hand.

But if the British hotelkeeper can by his contest stimulate interest in soup, all power to him, and may he have American imitators. For American cookery is sadly weak as respects soup—as weak as too much of its soup.

Much of this is due to the very formalism with which our British friend is seeking to invest the art, as any cook can testify who has been discouraged by the elaborate ritual prescribed by cook books for preparing even a simple soup. More serious, however, is the failure of the average American housewife to cultivate the herb garden and the stock pot. Herbs may be had at the grocery, fresh or dried. But replacement by gas or electric stoves of the steady heat of the coal or wood burning range, with its facilities for endless hours of simmering, has made preservation or revival of the stock pot a difficult problem.

Yet the stock pot is the mother of good soup. A catchall for every stray scrap of meat, and vegetables, too, it furnishes the essential base for that concoction which is neither ambrosia nor nectar, yet possesses the qualities of both. Also its constant maintenance reduces the time in preparation necessary to any soup worthy of the name.

Though any meat will serve, its best fodder is honest beef. True, the Scots, in apparent commemoration of the sheep stealing forays of their ancestors, are partial to mutton, but then they also have a passion for bagpipes and a delusion that barley is palatable in its solid form.

May the day come soon when all of us share the good fortune of the late Ring Lardner. Viewing the world on his 35th birthday, he wrote that one of the comforts of attaining that age was that he could eat at home instead of in public, and so could have two plates of soup with his dinner.

HANDBILLS AND POSTERS.

Whatever may be the merits of the injunction suit against the handbills being scattered about the city, the defendant may maintain that their broadsides are no worse a nuisance than the cardboard and paper signs fastened upon lamp posts and trolley poles by some of the smaller daily newspapers. The latter practice is in direct defiance of a city ordinance providing fines for those guilty of the practice. Indeed, the attorneys for the defendant might suggest to the court that the real complainant against them, as distinguished from the nominal one, is not coming into court with clean hands.

Editorial of the Day

THE REVOLT FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

[The Carnegie magazine, Pittsburgh, published in the interest of the Carnegie institute, the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the Carnegie library.]

President Roosevelt's policy is beyond question drawing us every day nearer to what he has shaped in his own mind as a benevolent dictatorship. Yet every move that he has made toward this end bears eloquent testimony that his most philanthropic aims have resulted in nothing but confusion and disaster. It is so with his gold muddling; it is so with his agricultural policy; it is so with all the alphabets in the soup kettle; it is so with his banking, his brokerage, his business, his labor, his foreign trade, and his tarif; it is so with his social experiments in West Virginia and elsewhere; and it is so with his attempts to relieve distress through political agencies, where favoritism and graft have absorbed so much of the funds allotted for the mitigation of human suffering. His course has shown that we cannot buy, tax, or inflate our return to prosperity.

President Roosevelt can no longer shelter himself behind a fictitious brain trust. It is true that he has yielded his judgment to nearly every Utopian dreamer that has entered the White House, and the Utopian dreamers constitute the brain trust. But Mr. Roosevelt is the responsible servant of the nation, and he must answer for the consequences of his credulity. People have ceased to speak of his charm; they are no longer carried away by the magic of his voice; they no longer applaud his picture in the movies; the vision of the nation following him out of the wilderness has proved to be a heartbreaking mirage; and let him say what he will, the rabbit will not come out of the hat.

I voted for him—my first and perhaps my last vote in that party—because he was brave enough to declare himself for the correction of a measure which in its promotion of intemperance and crime had become the paramount question in American politics. Under President Hoover there was no courage, no vision, no choice of a path of promise, and mediocrity was in the saddle. And even today there is no opposing leadership behind which the country can mass its opinion on a return to normal conditions as revised by the necessities of experience. But the revolt from Mr. Roosevelt is growing like a snowball rolling down a Swiss mountain. And well it may, for after five years of suffering and despair every detail of our social and business position in this country is worse than it was at the President's inauguration. Unemployment has not been relieved; industry is paralyzed; the banks are overloaded with money which no responsible man will borrow; we have entered into the broad vestibule of inflation where every householder feels the grip of rising prices with a diminishing value of his income; stocks, bonds, insurance policies, educational endowments, money itself, and all the obligations of the national treasury have lost their first qualification of security; the sky is growing darker and no man knows what the weather will be tomorrow.

Yet Mr. Roosevelt's insistence upon an expansion of his own power into a practical dictatorship goes constantly on without interruption, while the courts, the congress, and the people are more and more insistently declaring that their confidence in him is dead. But in this whole broad land there is nowhere a leader to consolidate these forces of recovery and inspire them with the faith of victory. Are we in an age of little men?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THAT FARM BOY out in South Dakota who wrote to the government for a couple of old artillery horses and got 'em gives me an idea. After all, the government will give you anything you ask for. So here goes: "Dear Government: I take my typewriter on my lap (don't be silly) to inform you that I would like to have six new neckties with sassy stripes, a new streamlined 1935 automobile, six pairs of silk socks, a nice new Scotch tweed spring suit, and a new benny. Also I could use a couple of hundred thousand dollars and a carton of cigarets. Please send at once, as I need these things. Also a bottle of Scotch and a quart of gin, two dozen fresh eggs, and a pound of imported German Limburger cheese, and a gas mask to wear when I eat it. Thanking you for your kindness and assuring you of at least one more vote in the next election, I remain, Y'rs Tr'ly, et cet. (x x x x x x x Love and Kisses.)"

I HAD JUST DIED, MERCUTIO.

And so it came to pass that the gnome-men found me,
Irrevocably strange and still—in the gorse at Twelve Corners
(Those gnarled and weathered little men). "See,"
The old one whispered, "we are his sole mourners—
He was of our stamp of blood. Come, oh my brothers,
And let us quickly off with him. The orchid day
Will shortly spill its morning song upon those others
Now sleeping in the village houses. Out of the flame's way,

Out of the wind's way carry him—before the dawn
Discovers him and gives him all men's pity.
His was the failures' star—Antares—he is gone
Into that long-forgotten dreamed-of city
Where poets go. And bear him tenderly, my brothers,
Though he is crowned not with bay,
And heap the yew-roots on him—He had visions, oh my brothers—
But he was clay."

SATURDAY—today—do I go to the country in my gas buggy this week's end or not? I hate to start out, but it's always disconcerting when I get back to have Frank, the cheery boss of the garage, say, "Well, well! So you got back all right again!" I say yes and knock wood, but it makes me a little nervous. Getting back safe from an auto trip seems to be quite an achievement these days. This will be the third trip I've returned safely from (knocking wood again) this year. That ought to give me a medal or a silver cup or something.

CULTURAL THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—MARCH 30. No notables of any consequence picked out March 30 to be born on and fewer still decided it was a good day to die on. So there isn't very much conversational stimulus from those sources. You might mention to your hostess that you're glad March is coming to an end, because there have been so many terrible duststorms out west. The hostess ought to say: "Oh, isn't it terrible? Mercy, is the whole country going to be turned into a desert?" You can say you hope not, as deserts are so terribly dry, oh, terribly dry. Yes, indeed; it makes one dry just to think about it. Your hostess should certainly take the hint and offer you another cocktail. Then, being on the subject, the hostess will say that her grandfather was lost in the desert once for days and days and didn't have a drop of water to drink. You pull a shudder and say that anyhow he probably had a flask of cocktails and nobody would drink water if he had such a fine cocktail as the one your hostess has just given you. She may go right on talking and not get the hint at all and she'll say, "Poor grandfather! I shudder to think of it," and she'll ask you if you were ever lost in the desert. Then you can tell her you were in Evanston once one day in July and how you suffered for a drink. That ought to get her unless she has a heart of stone. "Oh, how perfectly terrible!" she'll say, and offer you another cocktail. Maybe you can find something more cultural regarding March 30, but I doubt it. As a topic for ennobling and educating conversation March 30 is a washout.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION.

EVERY one should know the principles of first aid and various groups now receive systematic training in this field. Policemen, firemen, electrical workers, public service employés, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and many others function with gratifying efficiency when life is at stake and when some simple first aid practice may save it.

A person apparently drowned must have breathing restored. One who has inhaled carbon monoxide from automobile exhaust or who has been poisoned by opium [morphine] will require aid in continuing respiration. The same is true in cases of electric shock.

In the absence of a mechanical respirator, or when quick removal to a nearby hospital is impossible, some one must undertake artificial respiration. The method is simple and easily remembered. The plan proposed by Henry Robert Silvester is considered the best, and the steps in the procedure are as follows:

1. Using the forefinger, remove quickly from the mouth mucus, food, and all foreign material, including dental plates.

2. Bring the lower jaw forward by placing the fingers at the angle of the jaw just below the ears and pressing toward the chin. This may be done by an assistant and the jaw held in that position. The head is turned to one side to allow saliva to flow out of the mouth, and the tip of the tongue is grasped between the folds of a handkerchief and drawn outside of the teeth. An assistant, if available, may hold the tongue.

3. A flat, folded garment or blanket may be placed under the back, reaching from the neck to the buttocks, and the body should lie perfectly flat, with no thick rolls under the shoulders or the middle of the back.

4. The movements of respiration are begun by forcing air into the lungs and not out of them. The operator crouches behind the patient's head on one knee. Bending forward, he grasps the patient's arms at the elbows so that his thumbs are in the bend and his fingers on the back.

5. The arms are then drawn upward, backward, and downward until the elbows touch the ground above and beside the head. After two seconds in this position the arms are moved back in the same manner, bringing the elbows together over the front of the body near the end of the breastbone, at which point gentle pressure on the chest is made. After a lapse of two seconds the operation is repeated.

6. If oxygen is available [garage, hospital, welding establishment, or dental office may have small tanks of oxygen], it may be given with each inspiration.

7. Under no circumstances should any pressure be made on the abdomen.

The movements must be timed carefully. The number of artificial respirations per minute should not exceed fifteen; in fact, a slower rate is recommended. It may be necessary to continue the procedure for an hour or longer, and this frequency will not tire the operator. Many rescues have been effected by persistence. The method should be tried out with some one timing the movements in order to acquire the sense of rhythm. Although the first impression will be that the movements are entirely too slow, remember that fifteen per minute is the maximum.

According to many authorities the Silvester plan gives the greatest intake of air per breath as well as per minute. This has been shown by experiments to be from two to ten times as much as with other methods.

Caution is offered against the rough application of any type of artificial respiration. The movements should be firm and regular, but gentle. Because of the congestion of the heart and the liver in an asphyxiated individual rupture of the latter organ sometimes occurs if the method employed is too vigorous and if much pressure is exerted.

SEE A SURGEON.

B. L. writes: About five years ago my physician removed a small growth from my nose with radium. About two years later another appeared, and this was removed in the same way. The physician said they were small fleshy moles. I now have a third one, in the same place, and would like to know if there is any other safe way to remove it, as I cannot afford radium at this time.

REPLY.

A simple excision by a competent surgeon is probably the best plan, even better than radium. If this is a gland cyst it may be possible to destroy it by the electric needle. Whatever method is used the material removed should be examined under the microscope to determine its character.

PROPERTY DESCENT.

Iron River, Mich., March 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Fifty years ago a (1) father died without leaving a will. A wife and three children survived. Two daughters, A and B, married; the third, C, lived with the mother in the house for twenty years. Then the mother died and on her deathbed deeded the property to C. Shortly after this C married and died recently childless. She left a will giving all she had, including this property, to her husband. Now A and B claim that C never really owned the property, as the mother had no right to deed it to her as she only had one-third interest in it, as her husband, the father of the children, left no will. Hence C could not will it to her husband. 2. Are A and B right? 3. A claims it is too long (fifty years) since the father's death to do anything about it. B claims something can be done as she is anxious to keep the property in the family. Which is right? 4. If B is right what would be the thing to do? S. C.

1. We assume that the property originally belonged to him. If so, then it would descend in accordance with the laws of the state in which it is situated.

2. It is true that if the mother had only inherited one-third she could not convey more than one-third to C.

3. As between close relatives or co-owners the statute of limitations would not be clearly applicable until some definitly adverse action had been taken.

4. Go over the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

WHOOPEE!

A friend of mine was chased and rammed in midair by a drunken pilot once. If you have ever been approached on the road by a drunken driver you have some idea of the predicament he found himself in when this guy started chasing him. Of course, he didn't know this guy was drunk, but he knew he was either drunk or crazy.

My friend was an army pilot. He was flying an army pursuit ship from Selfridge field, Michigan, to Chicago and was circling the field at Chicago preparatory to landing when he was set upon by the drunk, who, evidently, still living in the memory of his war days, was trying to egg my friend into a sham battle, trying to get him to dog fight.

He saw this DH, which was a mail ship of those days, approach him first from above and head on. He had to kick out of the way at the last moment or he would have been hit on that first pass the guy took at him. The guy pulled up and took another pass at him. He kicked out of the way again and started wondering since when had they turned lunatics loose in the sky. He didn't have much time for wondering, because this guy kept taking passes at him. Finally the guy took to diving down under him and pulling up in front of him. He seemed to think that was more fun than just diving on my friend, and he kept it up.

My friend saw him disappear under the tail of his ship this time and he didn't know what to do about it. He didn't know which way to turn, because he didn't know which way the goof was going to pull up.

Suddenly he saw the nose of the other ship. It came up directly in front of his own nose. He knew the guy had overdone it this time and come too close. He pulled back on his stick, but felt the jar of the collision just as he did. It threw him up into a stall and when he came out his motor was so rough he had to cut his switches. He had raked the tail of the other ship with his propeller and it was bent all out of shape. He had also cut the tail off the drunk's ship.

The drunk was evidently too drunk to get out of the cockpit because he cracked up with his ship. My friend managed to get his ship down without jumping. It was only a wonder, plus some neat flying on my friend's part, that he wasn't killed, too.

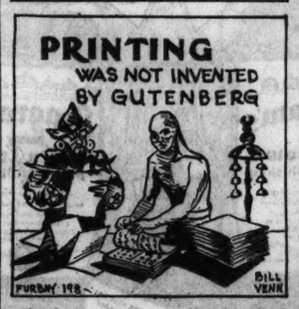
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



As far as is known, the first book printed on paper was in China, by Wang Chieh, who published a book May 11, 868 A. D., to commemorate the lives of his parents. Paper had been used in China for a thousand years before this. Chieh's book was printed with blocks. The first printing by movable type was also done in China, by Pi Sheng in 1041. He made the individual characters from clay, which hardened into type. Five hundred years late Gutenberg first used movable type in Europe and printed the famous Gutenberg Bible at Mainz, Germany. However, he was probably totally unaware of the use of movable type for printing in China.

DECORATIONS.

Chicago, March 26.—A few days ago I read that a bill has been introduced to prohibit acceptance by American citizens of foreign gifts and foreign decorations. Almost at the same time appear articles stating that eighteen United States women will be presented to the royal court of England and senators and representatives are responsible for interceding with the state department to grant the women that social privilege. I often wonder what benefit is it to the women, except to gossip at social functions about their experiences, and of what good it is to the United States. Will these women intercede for the payment of the war debt? Is it worth the time and effort of the leaders of the country to intercede for women who are of no use whatsoever to their community except to be society playgirls? Out of the eighteen women is there one whose deeds will be looked upon by the future generations?

It may be so that receiving decorations and gifts from foreign countries can be frowned upon, but doesn't the even more ridiculous, meaningless, and spendthrifty bowing in the courts of royalty deserve sharper rebuke? Do the British society women clamor for the honor of being presented to the President of the United States?

THE COURT PSYCHIATRIST.

Chicago, March 21.—The psychiatrists of Chicago who know Dr. David Rotman and who know the work of the Municipal court's psychiatric laboratory esteem the work of the laboratory and admire Dr. Rotman for his scientific knowledge and his social application of it. This is no defense nor approval of the recommendation in the case mentioned in your editorial, "Who Was the Psychopath?" But in general, he is doing a good piece of scientific work and is of vast help to the legal and social agencies dealing with individual delinquents. He is capable, I believe, of doing more work and more accurate work if he were given more support and more assistance and assistants. HAROLD S. HULBERT, M. D.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT BONDS.

Maywood, Ill., March 22.—In today's editorial on the distribution of tax money no mention is made of special assessment collections. All assessment bonds draw 6 per cent interest until paid. After the payment of special assessments to the county treasurer by property owners, who stands the 6 per cent interest for the delay in payment to the special assessment bondholders? Villages often delay the payment of such collections after receiving payment.

Formerly special assessment paper was very salable, but on account of deferred payment of interest and bonds owners are obliged to sacrifice at unreasonable discounts. If special assessment funds were turned over each month, and villages in turn paid their interest and bonds, such paper would again be a safe investment.

Why should there be a delay in turning over assessment funds? No litigation is holding them up. B. MATTES.

WHO KNOWS ABOUT BOWLING GREEN, ILL.?

Chicago, March 22.—Could any reader give me any information of the former town of Bowling Green, Ill.? This town is shown on maps and indices of Illinois towns about 1890. I would also very much appreciate any information as to the founder or founders of this town. My information is that the founder was my paternal ancestor, a physician who married a Susan Clark, and was the father of fourteen children. One of them was a Charles H. McClanahan, who was an Illinois volunteer during the civil war under his brother-in-law, Asa McDonald.

BISMARCK'S LINEAGE.

Chicago, March 20.—Apropos Mr. Hitler's contention of the great danger to the Aryan race from crossing with non-Aryan elements, allow me to call your attention to Mme. la Marquise de Fontenoy's book on William II. and Francis Joseph. On page 252, second volume, she says:

"It may not generally be known that Bismarck himself had Hebrew blood in his veins, his maternal grandfather, Menkel, having been a converted Jew. Bismarck, moreover, remains on record as having frequently asserted that from a physical and intellectual point of view there was no finer cross than that between the Teuton nobility and the Hebrew race." COST OF RELIEF FOR APRIL SET AT $13,383,000

Expenditures Continue on Downward Trend.

State relief requirements totaling $13,383,166 for April were approved yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on the basis of an estimate that there will be 311,369 families on the aid rolls. The expenditures will thus continue the downward trend which unexepectedly developed during the present month, when around 316,000 families were supported instead of the record breaking number originally predicted, 325,000.

Cook county is scheduled to get $7,389,187, including $4,085,060 for direct relief and $2,350,000 for work relief wages. Also included in the Cook county total are the following: $621,345 for administrative overhead, $50,000 for work relief materials, $74,282 for educational activities, and $208,500 for paying nonrelief persons whose special ability is needed on work relief projects.

Seek $10,000,000 from U. S.

To meet its needs the IERC expects to get $10,644,329 from the Federal Relief administration to supplement new state funds and an estimated unallocated balance of $162,818.

The relief commission members authorized drastic action yesterday in answer to numerous complaints from farmers that they are finding it difficult to get farm labor because of the comparatively high work relief wages now being paid. A. R. Lord, administrator of the IERC work division, explained that at the rate of 40 cents an hour paid for from 60 to 80 hours work a month on projects in farming communities, many clients are reluctant to accept jobs on farms at $1 a day and board, especially since the change means at least 200 hours of work a month.

The commission unanimously adopted a policy declaring that all farm and farm work clients shall be placed on direct relief and their budgets be reduced to within the maximum monthly earnings available at farm work. It was also decided that farmers should be told to notify the local employment office when help is needed, so that the program can be carried out.

Advertise for Farm Hands.

"In my territory," said Omar H. Wright of Belvidere, a commission member, "farmers have to advertise in the newspapers to get farm hands."

State Treasurer John Stelle, another commission member, objected against the new policy at first, contending that it would differentiate between farm labor and other classes of labor, by giving the former less relief.

"If there wasn't any depression the farm laborer would be getting less than the city laborer," said Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, a third commissioner. "You would not say that was our fault. What we have done is to raise farm labor to a common level and lower some other classes of labor to the same level."

Irregularities in the purchase of lumber and other relief supplies, including the splitting of requisitions to avoid public competitive bidding, will be investigated by an outside agency, the commission decided.

Two Committees to Investigate.

It was voted to invite the Purchasing Agents' Association of Chicago to send two committees of its members to investigate past and present procedure in the relief purchasing department. One committee will examine transactions with the Berwyn Lumber company of Berwyn, which received the lion's share of $106,000 business without ever having to submit a public bid. The second committee will go over the general purchasing procedure.

Another echo of the recent revelations about relief purchases was heard when it was found that $1,648 worth of local coal had been purchased from the East Bell Coal company of East St. Louis without advertising for bids. The fuel, which has already been consumed in East St. Louis relief shelters, was bought last November on instructions of Business Manager F. A. Deniston to the transient division.

"Our whole buying system is wrong," State Treasurer Stelle remarked. "No one is responsible for anything—they all pass the buck."

No Kiss from Sexton.

"It's about time the staf got in step with us," said Corporation Counsel Sexton. "Are we going to give them a kiss every time they disregard the policies of this commission? I won't cater to the staf's inefficiency."

With Mr. Sexton voting "no," the commission moved that Budget Controler C. S. Bond should pay the bill for the coal if he determines the prices were correct. Mr. Bond will also submit a report on the failure of the staf to comply with the state law requiring public bids.

CLARK EXPLAINS PLAN TO TAX ALL BANK ACCOUNTS

Equitable Assessment Method Pledged.

Bank accounts are to be assessed as personal property henceforth, but under a plan intended to make the assessment equitable for all, County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday.

Residents of Cook county are to be asked to list on their personal property schedules all money they have in the bank, on their persons, or in hiding, after making certain allowable deductions, Clark explained.

The remainder, after the deductions, is to be assessed at its full value, to which will apply the "equalization factor" of 37 per cent. This will mean that the tax levy will actually apply to only 37 per cent of the assessable cash in the taxpayer's possession.

Deductions Described.

Deductions include current expenses and other immediate debts on the day the schedule is filled out. This embraces, in the case if individuals, any household bills such as those for coal and for groceries, as well as money personally owed. In the case of corporations it embraces all current liabilities.

Mr. Clark furnished an example. If a man has $200 cash, he said, and owes $40 for groceries and $60 for rent, he may deduct $100, declaring only $100 on his personal property schedule. Then the assessor will apply the 37 per cent equalization factor, which will mean that the man in question will be taxed on only $37 of the cash he has on hand or in the bank.

Taxpayers "On Their Honor."

Clark admitted that taxpayers will be "on their honor" in the matter, since the banks have refused to furnish the assessor with lists of the names of their depositors and the amounts on deposit. The assessor pointed out, however, that improper declarations of money owned on the tax schedule will amount to false testimony under oath. Tax schedules turned in are presumed to have been sworn to.

The plan to tax bank balances and other cash holdings was recommended to the assessor by the special advisory committee he appointed two weeks ago, headed by Col. A. A. Sprague, to formulate a plan that it is calculated will add about three million dollars in trust funds, securities and other assets held in banks to the personal property rolls. The committee will make its full report next Wednesday.

FIND DYNAMITE DUD NEAR MAIN POLICE BUILDING

A bundle of 26 sticks of dynamite, with the attached fuse burned clear down to the cap, was found yesterday on the roof of the one story garage building at 1118 South Michigan avenue, used by the Crerar Clinch Coal company.

The address is scarcely more than a stone's throw from the police building at 11th and South State streets. The explosive was seen by workmen on a building next door and police were called.

LOOT FACTORY OFFICE OF $5,940.

Securities worth $4,000, $1,900 in checks, and $40 cash were taken by burglars who invaded the office of Oscar F. Carlson & Co., machinists' manufacturers, at 2600 Irving Park boulevard.

MORRO CASTLE RADIO OPERATOR ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIMSELF

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—George I. Alagna, 28-year-old wireless operator, who was the center of bitter controversy during the Morro Castle inquiry and unemployed since the disastrous fire at sea last September, tried to kill himself today, police said.

He turned on the gas in an apartment where he lived and sat down to write a suicide note which described the ship disaster and the experience of death.

The note was unfinished when the building superintendent entered with a pass key, turned off the gas and opened the windows. The note requested his friend to thank Hoyt S. Haddock, president of the American Radio Telegraphers' association for his kindness and to ask him to "expose" George W. Rogers, the Morro Castle's chief radio operator.

BOOKLET BARRED BY CCC DIRECTOR BEING PUBLISHED

Still barred from the curriculum of Civilian Conservation corps camps, the booklet "You and Machines" by Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University has been published for general distribution by the American Council on Education, it was learned yesterday. It will soon be on sale in book stores for 12 or 15 cents, Prof. Ogburn said.

Robert Fechner, director of the CCC, struck the pamphlet from the list of approved study books given to the woods workers last November. His only explanation was, in effect, that the booklet would not foster optimism in the youths and young men in the camps.

The Rockefeller Foundation advanced $40,000 to publish the booklet and a number of others for use in the camps, expecting to regain most of the money from the sale of the items. Fechner's action halted this plan for "You and Machines" until the council on education took over the publication. Prof. Ogburn said he has not received any pay from the Rockefeller Foundation and does not expect to be given any royalties from the sale of the booklet.

BIDS FOR AUTOS THROWN OUT BY COUNTY BOARD

The county board yesterday threw out the bids submitted for four automobiles which are to be purchased for the staf of Sherif Toman, and decided to readvertise in the hope that several automobile dealers will submit proposals.

This action was taken after the board, meeting as the public service committee, was informed that James Levy, brother of Gov. Horner, who was one of the two bidders to submit tentative contracts under the original advertisment, had asked to be allowed to withdraw his bid. Levy's bid had been low, the other bidder being Emil Denemark, cousin of Edward Denemark, who is first assistant sherif.

When several commissioners asked why Levy had withdrawn from the bidding, Commissioner Dan Ryan explained that Levy was not regularly a dealer in the make of automobile wanted by the board. After he had submitted his bid he learned that he would be unable to obtain the cars he proposed to sell to the board. The decision to readvertise was then made.

FEDERAL RELIEF EXECUTIVE HITS ROOSEVELT PLAN

Howard O. Hunter Attacks Security Program.

Howard O. Hunter, regional representative of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, an appointee of Harry L. Hopkins, FERA administrator, last night joined two admitted "leftists" in an attack on the recovery and security programs of President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Mr. Hunter was one of three speakers appearing before a joint meeting of six welfare and social workers' associations in the Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Sharing the platform with Mr. Hunter were A. Wayne McMillen of the University of Chicago school of social service administration, and Jacob Fisher of New York, youthful editor of "Social Work Today." Handbills and other literature of communist organizations were circulated among the several hundred welfare workers attending the meeting.

Sees Revolution as "Distant."

Frankly critical of the President's 5 billion dollar works program and his proposed legislation for "economic security," Mr. Hunter declared that present day unemployment is not the result of the depression and will continue "even though the wheels of industry move at their pace of 1929."

"There is no question but that for the next twenty years our social economy will be that of private profit—or capitalism," Mr. Hunter said. "There can be a change only by legislation or by revolution, and I cannot see our legislatures making these changes now. Revolution is likewise distant. In the meantime we must get along as best we can until new views find acceptance with the people.

Says 5 Million Are Ignored.

"The government has the responsibility of providing relief for the unemployed. The people have the right to expect the government to take care of them. The work program fails to take care of one and a half million unemployables now receiving aid and ignores the 5,000,000 persons now unemployed and who are ready to come onto relief rolls in coming weeks."

Mr. Hunter declared the theories of unemployment insurance "fallacious" and asserted that the works program presents almost insurmountable administrative difficulties.

McMillen and Fisher were even more critical of the New Deal social program, the former terming the President's plans for economic security "a seductive mirage upon a very distant horizon.

Michigan Wildcat Oil Well Is Successfully Capped

Crystal, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—Montcalm county's first oil well, which came in as a gusher last night, was capped successfully today. The well, a wildcat drilling on the farm of Otto Durbin, blew in with a flow estimated by oil men from 15,000 to 24,000 barrels a day.

BUYER INDICTED AS OHIO RELIEF QUIZ CONTINUES

Former Aid Is Accused on Three Counts.

Columbus, O., March 29.—[Special.]—Ohio's relief scandal was punctuated today with the indictment of John A. Lee, a former employe of the state relief administration, on charges of forgery, obtaining money under false pretense, and being interested in a public contract.

The indictment, returned by the Franklin county grand jury sitting here, directly resulted from Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' charge of political corruption in the administration of relief in Ohio.

Former Hay Buyer.

The indicted man, Lee, who was a former hay buyer for the state relief administration, has been missing for ten days. However, federal investigators hold an affidavit in which Lee asserted he withheld $1 a ton from a dealer on the purchase price of ensilage, and that he obtained payment of about $3,000 from firms selling to the relief administration.

The charge of obtaining money under false pretenses was based on Lee's affidavit regarding the purchase of ensilage. The indictment charged that the former relief buyer paid $4.50 a ton for ensilage used in feeding cattle on a state relief ranch south of Delaware, O., but that he represented he paid $8.50 a ton. The alleged misrepresentation was said to involve $10,255.

The indictment also asserted that Lee represented he was purchasing the ensilage from Earl Pyle of Clarksville, O., when in fact he obtained it from the Roxanna Canning company.

Forgery Is Charged.

The forgery charge resulted from Lee allegedly placing Pyle's name on a check for $1,439 which was made out to Pyle. Pyle, it is charged, acted as agent for Lee in dealing with the Roxanna company and received $1.50 a ton.

The charge of being interested in a public contract was based on the assumption that when Lee represented to the state department that while he was purchasing ensilage from Pyle, he was actually purchasing it from himself.

MORRO CASTLE FIRE LOSS TO U. S. IS $700,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—The United States government lost $700,000 on the steamship Morro Castle, destroyed by fire off the New Jersey coast last Sept. 8 with a loss of 134 lives.

This was shown by figures obtained from the United States shipping board today. The government, through the shipping board, advanced $3,262,500 for construction of the Morro Castle hull and $159,681 for equipment, making a total of $3,422,181. Of this amount approximately $2,000,000 remained unpaid when the ship was destroyed.

All of the unpaid balance was covered by insurance, but $700,000 worth of the policy had been written by the shipping board's own insurance section. Thus only $1,300,000 will be recovered from private underwriters and the government will be out the $700,000.

GAY, STREAMLINE EFFECTS LATEST STYLE FOR MEN

Clothes to Be Brightly Hued and Comfortable.

That is the keynote of the spring and summer men's styles as expressed yesterday by Simon Bergman, chairman of the exhibit of the Chicago Cutters' club at the Palmer house. The characteristics of the new clothes, in addition to gala shades and comforts, are lighter material weights and the lengthening of coats to give a streamline effect.

The Norfolk jacket—a pleated coat—will continue to be a favorite for afternoons in the country. This year, however, tailors will stress the half belt in the back and wider shoulders in the jacket with a trim, comfortable waistline.

Gay Note to Jackets.

One of these coats on exhibition has a light gray background with a blue and black overplaid and is worn either with trousers or knickers.

This garment also features a bi-swing pleat at the shoulders and is to be worn with plain tan trousers.

For summer formal occasions, the style experts decree dark blue or black cuffless trousers of tropical weight. If waistcoats are worn with this outfit they must be bright colored, but instead of waistcoats a wide high "cumberbond" belt of black or blue silk, to match the trousers, is proper.

What's New in Coats.

The coats will be of white serge or silk with shawl lapels—the lapels are of silk or satin. Single or double breasted coats are a matter of choice.

Light blue, gray, gray blue and tan will predominate in business suits with double breasted models in greater favor. In topcoats, raglans are expected to increase in popularity along with a continuing heavy demand for camel's hair polo cloth materials.

Lavender and dark blue are favorite choices for lounging pajamas.

Shirts have also departed from conventional shades and will be riots of color, and ties will not lag behind in bright sartorial display.

BARBARA MDIVANI HERE ON FLYING JOURNEY TO RENO

Barbara Hutton Mdivani, heiress to the Woolworth fortune, was a visitor in Chicago last night for ten minutes —the time it took her to change from one chartered airplane to another, and continue her trip to Reno, Nev.

There she will institute divorce proceedings against her polo playing pouse, Prince Alexis Mdivani.

The United Air Lines plane in which she had left Newark, N. J., after dodging news photographers and reporters, landed at the Municipal airport at 9:05 p. m. It taxied to the air lines' hangar where the relief ship was waiting, its motors already warming up.

Barbara got out, followed by her mother, Mrs. Franklyn Hutton, and her lawyer, Millard Tompkins Jr. There were a few flashes from news cameras. Mr. Tompkins acted as spokesman.

"We had a nice trip—fine weather," was his whole conversation.

The party entered the second ship, piloted by Allen Smith, and at 9:15 it was in the air, headed toward Omaha, the next stop. A dispatch from that city said the heiress stopped there 9 minutes and headed for Cheyenne, with bad weather conditions before her. However, she reached Cheyenne early today despite the treacherous Nebraska weather, through which she flew.

W-G-N BUILDING EXTERIOR WORK NEARLY FINISHED

Work on the exterior of THE TRIBUNE'S new radio studio building—the future home of station W-G-N—was nearing completion yesterday. Concrete was poured for the floor of the ground level studio theater and within a few weeks the roof will be built. The $500,000 edifice will stand just north of the Tribune Tower.

Leo J. Weisenborn, the architect, said the entire construction job is two-thirds finished and that work on the interior will be started about April 12. It is expected that the building will be opened on Aug. 1.

More than 100 men are now employed in the construction work. The building will be three stories tall and will include the large studio theater, three other studios, a music library, sound effect rooms, property rooms and all other features of an up-to-date radio station.

MISS EMMA SHAW FUNERAL TODAY; NOTED AS SINGER

Funeral services for Miss Emma Maria Shaw, 87 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel, who died of heart disease Thursday after an illness of three months, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today in St. Paul's Episcopal church chapel, 50th street and Dorchester avenue. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery.

Miss Shaw had lived in Chicago 73 years. She was born in Brooklyn and spent her girlhood in Anoka, Minn. She was the daughter of Dr. Samuel Wheeler Shaw, early Chicago physician who died in 1909.

As a young woman Miss Shaw was noted locally as a singer, a pianist, and a composer. She was also a leader in church work, and even in recent years was active in the guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The only surviving member of her immediate family is a brother, Attorney Warwick A. Shaw of Chicago.

$55,000 ESTATE LEFT TO WIDOW OF PHYSICIAN

The will of Dr. Wilbert Shallenberger, leaving an estate estimated at $55,000 to his widow, Mrs. Grace G. Shallenberger, 5499 Hyde Park boulevard, was admitted to probate yesterday by Edward Luczak, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell. Dr. Shallenberg died March 17 at the age of 60.

The following other wills were also admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

DANIEL ZOBEL, died March 17. Estate, $50,000, to brother and two sisters. Michael Zobel, brother, executor.

JOHN F. MORAN, died March 17. Estate, $30,500, to widow and sister. Johanna Moran, widow, executrix.

AMELIA GALISZ, died Oct. 14. Estate, $13,800, to four sons. John Kalisz, son, executor.

VICTOR C. PUTMAN, died Jan. 15. Estate, $10,200, to son and daughter. Hazel P. Barton, daughter, and Alfred E. Putman, son, executors.

FLORIDA WOMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM 8TH FLOOR

Mrs. Helen Macy, 44 years old, of Miami Beach, Fla., fell to her death yesterday from a window of the eighth floor apartment of her sister, Mrs. Marie Kurtz, 1117 North Dearborn street. Mrs. Kurtz told police that her sister had suffered a nervous breakdown several weeks ago and was despondent.

Mrs. Macy was the wife of Ray Macy, owner of a Miami Beach café, and was the mother of four children. Mrs. Kurtz left her sister alone for a few minutes to answer a telephone and when she returned, Mrs. Macy had disappeared and a window had been opened. The body was found at the bottom of an airshaft in the rear of the building.

George Brown, Ex-Sherif of Henry County, Is Dead

Cambridge, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—George H. Brown, 64, twice sherif of Henry county and three times a deputy sherif, died of heart trouble here last night. At one time he served as supervisor of parole of Stateville prison. With the exception of his three years in that office he had always lived in Henry county. He was a leader in the Republican party.

William Forsyth, Noted Indiana Artist, Is Dead

MRS. E. F. CHAPIN FUNERAL TODAY; WIFE OF BROKER

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hall Chapin, a resident of the Chicago area for the last 21 years, will be held at 3 o'clock today in her home, 318 Vine avenue, Highland Park, where she died Thursday night. She was 87 years old.

The Rev. Von Ogden Vogt of the First Unitarian church of Chicago will officiate at the services. Burial will be in the Lake Forest cemetery.

Mrs. Chapin was the daughter of the late Rev. Nathaniel Hall, well-known Unitarian minister in Dorchester, Mass., and the wife of Edward F. Chapin, retired grain operator. When Mr. Chapin retired from the Chicago Board of Trade in 1928 he was the oldest operator on that exchange.

Besides Mr. Chapin, Mrs. Chapin is survived by four stepchildren, Edward F. Chapin Jr. of Duluth; Mrs. J. L. White, Upper Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. Lawrence Greene, Ancaster, Ont., and Mrs. Irving Telling, Milwaukee.

'DE LAWD' LEAVES $20,000; FAMILY WILL GET ESTATE

Richard B. Harrison, De Lawd in the play "The Green Pastures," left an estate estimated at $20,000, it was revealed yesterday when Probate Judge John F. O'Connell granted letters of administration to a son, Laurence Harrison.

The 70 year old actor died intestate in New York on March 14. Judge O'Connell approved the claim of his widow, Gertrude, against his estate for $2,056, representing the cost of funeral services in New York and Chicago.

DR. S. PHILLIPS' FUNERAL TODAY; VETERAN OF WAR

Funeral services for Dr. Sheldon Phillips, 43 years old, who died Wednesday in his home at Allegan, Mich., will be held this afternoon in the home of his mother, the Rev. Mrs. Alice Aldrich, 4650 North Kilpatrick avenue. Dr. Phillips never fully recovered from the effects of gas poisoning during the world war and retired three years ago. His mother is widely known for her activities as a social worker and as one of the founders of the women's branch of the Municipal court.

Wm. B. Meagher, Attorney, Dies After Heart Attack

Attorney William B. Meagher, 31 years old, with offices at 228 North La Salle street, collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, yesterday in the office of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley in the Criminal Court building. Mr. Meagher had gone there to discuss a case with the prosecutor. He was pronounced dead by Dr. William Knudsen, who was summoned from the county jail. Meagher lived at 8207 Jeffery avenue.

Aurora Physician Dies in Fire Laid to Cigaret

Dr. M. E. Rudolph, 36 years old, 238 Western avenue, Aurora, died of suffocation early yesterday in a fire that is believed to have started from a cigaret he had ben smoking in bed. Dr. Rudolph was home alone at the time, his wife and small son being on a vacation trip to Florida. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Rights to broadcast the Kentucky Derby on May 4 have been sold to a Louisville cigaret concern, Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, announced yesterday. The sponsor has elected to present the turf classic over the Columbia system, which will make WBBM the local outlet.

Price paid for the exclusive broadcast privilege was not revealed. Col. Winn had sought $25,000, but it is reported that he failed to get the top figure. If the sponsor paid half or more it's just about a record for a half hour broadcast. Time charges, of course, are additional. The broadcast is tentatively set for 6 to 6:30 daylight time. Thomas Bryan George, well known turf commentator, will be at the microphone.

Bessie Davies, sister of Edward Davies, Chicago baritone, will hear her brother sing for the first time since he has risen to radio stardom when he broadcasts on the Internationale Week-end Revue hour at 10:45 this morning over WMAQ-NBC. Program will be relayed to England, and his sister will be listening in Rhymney, Wales, Edward's birthplace.

Gen. Hugh Johnson's broadcast over NBC at 9:30 o'clock tonight will have no local outlet, WMAQ has a commercial at that hour; WENR is off the air; WLS is busy barn dancing, and WCFL yesterday declined to take the general's talk. Oddly enough, Gen. Johnson will be speaking in Chicago's NBC studios.

Lum and Abner helped hang up a new attendance record at the Taft theater, Cincinnati, the last week. Making a personal appearance there, the W-G-N-MBS comics outpulled Joe Penner, who was the attraction the previous week. Another station, WTIC, Hartford, is to be added to their present hookup of sixteen stations next week. And their contract has been renewed for twenty-six weeks more.

Ed Wynn's mind is weighted with worries instead of wit these days. "I have more troubles than any other man in the world," he sighed the other evening after his broadcast. "Right now there are 136 lawsuits against me. I am in court several times a week." Most of them have to do with the Wynn network that flopped.

DeWolf Hopper will celebrate his 77th birthday today by flying to Kansas City for his broadcast tomorrow afternoon with the Rhythm Symphony orchestra. . . . Kay Kyser's newest number, "Let's Waltz," is a composition of Mrs. Otto Roth, wife of the proprietor of the Blackhawk. Herbie Kay also plays one of her compositions titled, "A Lovely Dream."

Richard Himber is considering Lynn Cole, tenor, formerly with George Olsen, as a successor to Joey Nash on his Champions broadcasts. The Nash name doesn't suit the South Bend motor company sponsoring the Champions. Babs Ryan and her brothers, formerly with Fred Waring, will make a guest appearance with Himber at 8:30 tonight on CBS. Cole is appearing on a local show, "Be Ready for Romance," the contract on which expires soon.

BODY OF YOUNG DONLEY FOUND ON MICHIGAN SHORE

Discovery of the body of a young man, washed ashore from Lake Michigan at South Haven, Mich., yesterday apparently solved the mystery of the disappearance last Feb. 18 of Miss Betty Harlan, 20 years old, and Alan Donley, 21 years old, both Oak Park High school graduates.

The body was identified as that of young Donley by relatives. The body of Miss Harlan has not been recovered.

Donley moved to Douglas, Mich., with his parents late in 1934. Miss Harlan was visiting in that town in February with a sister. She renewed acquaintances with her old school friend, and on the 18th the couple started out skating.

Their skates later were found beside a crack in the ice several hundred yards off shore. For a time it was believed the young couple had eloped, and were still alive, but as days passed, this hope vanished. Miss Harlan made her home with another sister, Mrs. Janet Timms, 1349 Greenleaf avenue, Chicago.

RUSSIAN NOBLES ATTEND RITES FOR FORMER CONSUL

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—A solemn mass for Prince Nicholas Engalitcheff was sung today at the Russian Orthodox cathedral. About 200 persons attended the rites, including many of the once Russian nobility.

The prince, who was the Russian consul in Chicago for several years under the czarist regime, died Tuesday night in his apartment at the Hotel Barclay of a stroke of apoplexy which occurred on March 6. He was 61 years old.

His widow, his third wife, the former Suzzanne Bransford Emery Delitch, was ill in Pasadena and did not attend the funeral. The mass, a special one because of the Lenten season, was celebrated by the dean of the cathedral, the Rt. Rev. Michael Illinsky. Hymns were chanted by a special mixed choir.

SCATTER ASHES OF FLYER COLLINS FROM AIRPLANE

New York, March 29.—(AP)—The ashes of Jimmy Collins were scattered today from the window of a cabin plane as it soared over the spot where he was dashed to death a week ago in a test dive.

The widow, Mrs. Delores Lacey Collins, boarded the plane with the urn, but was overcome by emotion and was unable to go through with the ceremony of scattering the ashes.

Phil Rosenbaum of New York, who was taught to fly by Collins, carried out the ceremony. Another passenger was Mrs. Collins' sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Joyhard of Kansas City.

Afterward Mrs. Collins, dressed in deep mourning, said she would accompany her mother, Mrs. Agnes Lacey, to the latter's home in Lamont, Okla., in a few days.

REV. F. L. MOORE SERVICES SET; CHURCH OFFICIAL

Funeral services for the Rev. Dr. Frank Lincoln Moore, secretary of the Congregational church extension board, will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the United Church of Hyde Park with the Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton officiating. Dr. Moore, who was 68 years old, died Thursday at the Presbyterian hospital of pneumonia. Dr. Moore lived at 5724 Blackstone avenue. He was born at Kalamazoo, Mich., and following his graduation from the Chicago Theological seminary became a missionary in Colorado. He also held pulpits in Oak Park, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Surviving Dr. Moore are his widow, two sons and a daughter. The Rev. Drs. M. Russell Boynton, Robert W. Gammon, and James F. Walker will assist in the funeral services.

Two Winnetka Girls Will Be Brides Today

But One Ceremony Will Be Held in Town.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO Winnetka girls will be brides today, Miss Barbara Bastien and Miss Betty Gillies. Miss Bastien is not being married to Frank H. Armstrong II. in Winnetka, but she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien, lived in the north shore town until recently, so she still is considered a Winnetka girl, and her future husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong, are among Winnetka's most prominent residents.

Miss Gillies, daugnter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gillies, will be married to Dr. Wallace Dundas Mackenzie tonight in the Winnetka Congregational church, the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Harkness, reading the service at 8:30 o'clock. A small reception at the Gillies residence in Oakley road will follow.

Mrs. Edward M. Harkness [Cynthia Kohlsaat] will be Miss Gillies' matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Patricia Nash, Miss Mira Lee Benoist, Miss Frances Bell and Miss Helen MacDonald. Ruth Gillies will be a flower girl, and so will a little friend of hers, Katrina Wolcott. Dr. Charles Crowe will serve Dr. Mackenzie as best man and ushering will be the bride's brother, James Perry Gillies Jr., who is at home from Yale for the spring vacation; Winthrop M. Robinson, Walter Teich, Dr. Robert Grier, G. Malcolm McConnell Jr., and Bruce D. Swarte.

Dr. Mackenzie, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Dundas Mackenzie of Auckland, New Zealand, and his bride will be at home after May 1 at 1212 Central street, Evanston.

Bastien Wedding at Bride's Home.

Dr. Harkness also will officiate at the Bastien-Armstrong wedding, which will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Bastien apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue. Only the families and a few intimate friends will witness the service. The bride will have no attendants, but her sister, Nancy, who is at home from Dobbs Ferry for the spring vacation, will hold the bridal bouquet while the service is being read. Edward B. Smith will attend to the duties of best man for the bridegroom.

Mr. Armstrong and his bride will spend their honeymoon cruising to the South seas. They will spend a fortnight in New Zealand, and a week or two in Honolulu. Upon their return they will live in Ann Arbor, Mich., where the bridegroom will attend summer school, making up the work in his law course that he will miss by taking time out for a wedding trip.

At home especially for the Bastien-Armstrong wedding are Miss Marjorie and Miss Patricia Kelly, daughters of the Carl Kellys of Winnetka and cousins of the bride.

Miss Marjorie, who will be a debutante this coming season, returned home from Florida, where she went to recover from a siege of flu which interfered with her debut last fall, and her younger sister is here from her senior year at Westover. The elder Miss Kelly will resume her studies at Sarah Lawrence for the spring term.

Hold Art Exhibit at Wayne Tomorrow.

Wayne will be turned into quite an artists' colony over the week-end with an exhibit of paintings, etchings and water colors hanging in the Dunham Woods club as the chief attraction tomorrow afternoon. Many of the nearby residents have contributed their ar-

A FLORIDA grandmother, Mrs. Anna Lebert, came to town last week to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Brannon. When she arrived at the I. C. station she looked about for her children, and, not seeing either of them, scanned the faces of the crowd for some one she felt trustworthy enough to watch her baggage while she went to look for her daughter. Seeing two clergymen, she asked if they would mind keeping their eyes on it for her. They consented, and when she returned after a ten minute search of the station they were standing dutifully beside her bags. The next morning at her daughter's home, when she was looking through THE TRIBUNE, she learned the identity of the gentlemen who had watched her luggage. She recognized a photograph of them, and the caption read:

A SCOUT comes riding with the news that a new game or a new version of an old game is being played by University of Chicago students. Tired of bridge between classes, some one suggested fan-tan. You remember how it's played—all sevens turned up in the center of the board upon which the players build up and down; the winner taking a chip for each card left in the loser's hand. The students had no chips, so instead of collecting chips the winner was permitted to spank the loser for each card in the loser's hand. They called the new version—if you please—"Tan Fan."

Tribute.

The next day Jean started out to look for a job but had no better luck. He had spent so much money looking in advertisments of papers. Yovonne was terribly sick, and not expected to live. The docter had ordered her to a hospital but Jean said they couldn't afford it. Yovonne said in her weak voice not to have a docter that she would rather die. One day the docter wasn't in town and Yovonne was unussely ill. The docter was in a far away town, finelly the doctor did come and exclaimed she was to have a baby in about a year. Yovonne was terrified because she knew she could not care for a baby, but if the baby was coming it would have to come. Jean was looking all over town for a job because he knew that now was the time he needed it baddest since a baby was coming.

"Nothing gives me a deeper satisfaction than to pay public tribute to those people in this business who are decent and constructive. So I doff my hat to a man who has contributed far more to the welfare of the picture industry than most of us realize. I refer to Martin Quigley. . . . Mr. Quigley—as many of you do not know—has gone far beyond the ordinary limits of decency in running his motion picture papers. . . ."

Publish Color Photos of Paris Hits Tomorrow

Tribune Prints Faithful Reproductions.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Scaloni of Paris, famous color photographer, will be represented in tomorrow's rotogravure sections of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. His reproductions in natural colors of a group of sensationally smart costumes from the recent fashion openings fill two full pages.

Since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary there have been girls, and gowns, and colors, all of surpassing beauty in the French capital, and creative genius to merge the loveliest elements of that trilogy. The consistently enchanting fashions resulting from this combination have for generations inspired the rest of the world of women to go and look likewise.

It wasn't, however, until Scaioni waved his magic wand [literally, operated his color camera] and watted such resplendent prints across the ocean to THE TRIBUNE that those who couldn't go abroad could visualize the maximum of attraction displayed in the crowded salons as the mannequins promenaded, pivoted, and posed in the newest inspirations of the greatest designers. Now they know!

They know—they see—the favorite styles from the outstanding collections nominated for these pages by the couturiers themselves, and pictured exactly as they were glimpsed originally by the favored few.

Each photograph shows graphically the harmonies and the contrasts achieved in the use of colors and fabrics which even the most skilful black and white reproductions fail utterly to suggest.

To the tiniest detail of a flowered sprig, to the smallest section of belt or bow, the glow of color is repeated with complete fidelity. There is no need to speculate, or to try to vision mentally what the effect of a gown would be in any given hue. It's all there, vividly apparent.

Supervision of these photographs, from their selection because of outstanding style features to their descriptions in the caption space, was in the hands of Bettina Bedwell, who for sixteen years has been Paris fashion editor of this newspaper. Miss Bedwell's long residence and wide acquaintance among the fashion dictators facilitated the work of assembling and photographing the favorites of each house. Her judgment is highly esteemed among the designers.

Most notable of these gems of the springtime and summer season are the evening gowns originated by Marcel Rochas [a devastating, embroidered blue organdy garlanded with hollyhocks]; and Mainbocher [a diaphanous pink dotted net with quaint cape and hood, and a slim, straight evening suit of flowered silk crepe]. All three of these costumes scored emphatically and were immediately the talk of the town.

Sunday's display of fashions in color from Paris, however, is only the first of a series of three. Another page is scheduled to appear in the rotogravure section on April 7, and still another on April 14.

After years of presenting accurate and exciting color style pages this newspaper retains a leadership in the field unchallenged by any other publication for its extent and skill, for the authority of the fashions shown, for the beauty of the ensembles and for the scheduling of the exclusive photographs direct from the seasonal openings. It represents in all its phases the most complete coverage of the two most important events in the year in the city that sets the style pace for the rest of the world.

Good Morning!

You could have heard a pin drop in the theater!

Sergt. Stone [Wallace Beery] had just been dishonorably discharged from the army which he had honorably served . . . .

This is only one tensely dramatic scene in an actionful picture that's full of 'em.

"West Point of the Air," is a two-fisted movie. It offers a good, human, father and son story, and it shows you how army flyers are made from their start as rookies to the proud day when they get their hard won graduation papers. It is a film strongly and truly made with authentic backgrounds and "business," fine acting, and, I thought, remarkably astute direction.

Mr. Beery, as Sergt. Stone, is a tried and able instructor at Randolph field. From the time his motherless son is five years old, Big Mike and Little Mike have both had but one great ambition—to make a great flyer of Little Mike. Little Mike's pals, Skip and Phil, are the children of Gen. Carter, between whom and Big Mike exists a strong tie of understanding and respect. . . .

The two boys go to West Point. . . . Here Little Mike becomes a football hero and gets an exceedingly swelled head. By this time he and Skip are sweethearts—and you can imagine her thrill at seeing him win for the army a game that's been—apparently—in the bag for the navy.

You can imagine the thrill of another sort she receives when she learns of his infatuation for a beautiful divorcee, Dare, who—— —Follows him to Randolph field and is indirectly responsible for a series of ensuing tragedies. . . .

The tale is told without frills, and stresses the fact that discipline and discipline alone, is, after all the only thing that CAN really matter to the man who is to be one of Uncle Sam's air aces.

You're a heap harder boiled than I am if your eyes aren't wet a good part of the time this film's unreeling. But the tears you shed are the sort you LIKE to shed, and the laughs you get are good ones.

On the stage lovely Mary Brian is the attraction. She and two clever boys, y-clept Arena and Hines, present an informal and tricky dancing act. Miss Brian's beauty, ease of manner and grace, make her an instant favorite. She is introduced by the pretty girls of the Evans ballet, who are another bright spot on the program.

You'll make no mistake in spending a couple hours of your time at the Chicago this week.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Gown from "Roberta," hair style from the beauty salon of a Chicago shop. Definitly Grecian, but not severe, it has feathery ringlets in a classical arrangement.

Everywhere we turn lately, at least in purely feminine groups, we hear signs of admiration and envy about the gowns worn in the movie "Roberta." As you probably know, a loop store has copies of all these breathtakers. They're proudly showing them off today, first during the luncheon hour in their tearoom and then in their beauty shop. You can all look to your heart's content.

You'll look at the clothes, of course, and be mad about them. But we're issuing a special plea that you look at the hair styles, too. They've all been created by a visiting hair stylist who has perfectly grand ideas about hair arrangement.

A sculptor, all of his coiffures are distinguished by a picturesqueness of line that we find enchanting. But what's probably more important, he has an unerring eye for bringing out the best in you—at least the best style, if not character.

Above you see one of his hair styles he thought most suitable with the "Roberta" gown of candy striped chiffon with a ruffly fichu neckline. While there are ringlets galore, it has a suavity and simplicity of line that is completely different. The curls are feathery soft and grouped in an arrangement that's positively classical. The whole coiffure has a definite suggestion of the Grecian, which is the highest hair style at the moment. It isn't severe at all.

Before you think about your Easter bonnet you'd better give some serious thought to how you'll wear your hair this spring. More than ever before the harmony of hairline and hatline is of prime importance. The fashion people insist that the smartest of chapeaux can be an absolute dud unless the hair beneath it is arranged in a fashion that shows both it and hat to the best advantage.

Look at these coiffures, by all means. Who knows but that you'll find your own favorite there?

Season Offers Rare Bargains in Fur Capes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's no living without some kind of a suit this year, and having a furless suit is the best possible excuse for grabbing some of the bargains in fur pieces.

A few surprises await you when you shop for furs nowadays. For instance, you can buy yourself one of those long wished for silver fox capes, have a cape of either two or three tiers or bands for a one piece tailored dress for street wear, and use it again for evening. What could be more practical?

Twin sweaters kept you broke last year. This year it will be the twin fox skins fastened together side by side. Or the pointed biblike fox collars that tie under your chin, an arrangement that is just as good with a suit as it is with a coat or simple wool dress.

Another good trick is the long fur collar tied with a big spanking bow of taffeta. It's good because you can use last year's single fox skin by decapitating the well worn head and tail. Dig up your old furs, take them to a good furrier and see the magic he can do with them.

If you buy a fur cape now, when prices are so moderate, you'll buy something that will protect you from wandering spring breezes that aren't so hot, and use the cape again next fall with perhaps a huge muff to match.

Some of the best cape buys are of baby lamb as beautifully moired as silk and just as supple. These are in hip length or elbow length. For less money you can have a sleek, shiny beauty of black galyak in either length and they are stunning tops for one piece wool dresses as well as suits.

The chinchilla bunny capes are going out fast. They are unquestionably the most flattering feminine capes you can buy. Frankly, just rabbit skins, the delicate gray shadings are so much like priceless chinchilla they would fool an expert. They are gorgeous tops for fashionable gray outfits.

Take a look at the shoulder capes or tippets made of silver fox tails. The price tags will make you gasp. Even the smallest budget will stand for one of these, and besides that you get the swank of silver fox flattery and color at prices just a fraction of the silver fox skins.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. Before leaving London Miss Venables' widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest, from Ste. Brigitte, who was visiting in London. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. Beryl Tomlins, who had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjory Barrows, is taken suddenly ill and dies. Dr. Gilcrest states an intestinal hemorrhage caused her death. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. Shortly after Sarah is awakened by her agonized call. She dies within the hour, after declaring to Sarah that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest, who has been left a substantial income by Miss Venables, that it is up to him to demand a post-mortem. Harry returns. He objects to the post-mortem. The local commissaire conducts an investigation.

INSTALMENT XLII.

A LONE CHAMPION.

Eyes on ceiling, finger tips fitted together, the judge pursued in the same coldly reasonable strain, "Mademoiselle Venables was unmarried, of a critical age, and possessed of neurotic tendencies which, on one occasion at least, led her to make extravagant and unfounded assertions. I refer to the regrettable accident which befell her friend, the English major, last year. Publicly discredited, filled, let us say, with humiliation which grew to a rankling sense of personal injury, she quitted this town, at the same time, no doubt, casting about for some means of striking back at the law which had shown her up in a foolish light. If justification was her aim, how better achieve it than by herself receiving threats presumably from the agents whom she declared had murdered her compatriot?

"In any case, just such threats began to arrive, and were forthwith handed to the police as clinching proof that she had been right and they wrong. That the police, after careful investigation, declined to accept her theory, disappointed and annoyed her, whereupon, to bolster up her pretense of evading a real pursuit, she spent her time wandering about Europe. Tiring of this and wishing to settle down again, she carried on the deception by engaging a companion-protectress. You did not see her physically affected by the letters? Nor did any one else. That detail was invented, but she had, throughout, been troubled by an internal weakness likely to recur. It did, unexpectedly, recur, in an aggravated form, and taking advantage of it she made a dramatic declaration. Never supposing she was about to die, she told you she had been poisoned and demanded an inquiry. It was a final gesture, perfectly in keeping with the whole. Do you not see how well it falls in with all her behavior?"

Though every instinct revolted, Sarah had listened, appalled by the uncanny adroitness with which all her objections had been silenced. Now she was free to speak she sought vainly for one single argument to refute what still seemed to her a monstrous, insulting suggestion.

"Suppose it's true," she said in a dry voice. "Surely it was odd to keep the thing so secret? I repeat, she didn't want it known. She didn't tell even her closest friend, the Baronne de Bellesnaves."

She saw the commissaire hide a smile.

"Since her chief object would have been to impress the police," returned the judge shrewdly, "it was natural she should try to offset her hysterical conduct of last spring by a dignified reticence. She was clever enough to know that to be ridiculed by her friends would only add to her mortification. However, let us consider whom she selected as her three confidants. First, her physician, for his own sake unwilling to endanger his position by opposing her; second, her nephew, equally reluctant to offend one on whom he was dependent for certain luxuries; and third, yourself—a paid dependent most unlikely to dispute her statements, no matter how wild. Briefly, she imposed her fraud only on such individuals as, so to speak, she held in her hand."

About to blaze a furious retort, Sarah stopped again, blinded by the light suddenly flashed on her brain. Gilcrest—Harry . . . Was she alone a credulous simpleton?

The cool voice went on, "Mademoiselle, your loyalty does credit to your heart, if not to your understanding. I will say no more, but if the coming post-mortem reveals nothing abnormal, the reason for that circumstance will be clear."

It was over. The five sets of footsteps were receding toward the lift, and Sarah, the blood pounding in her temples, was making headlong for Harry's room. In the corridor she met Harry himself, and brusquely put her question.

"Harry! I've got to know. Did you think all along that she was responsible for those letters?"

He jumped, turned red, and whispered painfully, "My God! Have I got to answer?"

He had answered her. She grew very still.

"And I never guessed . . . You feel certain about it?"

"How could any one be certain of anything?" he muttered reluctantly. "I felt a swine to imagine such a thing, even though it was a relief, in a way, to believe she wasn't in danger. I couldn't tell you. I was too fond of her—and besides, I couldn't prove it."

"What made you think she wrote the letters?"

He considered, evading her accusing eyes. "It was an inspector down here who first gave me the tip. I came near bashing his head in. Then, little by little, I began noticing things. My stepmother had always said—not that I'd go by Gracie's opinions—that she was a bit odd. She had a name among us for being—well, excitable. And she kept things to herself. We never quite knew . . . O, I say, can't we drop it? She's dead, you know. What's the good?" In a sort of dumb agony he mopped his moist brow.

"So you thought the whole tale was made up. No, I'm not blaming you. And Maj. Frampton——?"

"Tumbled down the shaft because he was screwed. Wrote that rigmarole for the same reason. Been brooding over what those Turkish chaps had said, I suppose, and may have run into some dark-skinned scoundrel who reminded him of them. Anyhow, he was screwed—to the gills. I know, because I was with him just before it happened. Gilcrest knows, too. Ask him."

Suddenly, without any excuse, she hated Harry, almost as much as she hated those impervious Frenchmen. With a rush of tears to her eyes she left him, closing her door in his face.

A tap at the door startled her. Were the police back again? But no, it was a waiter, bearing a huge bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, hidden in which was a note from the baroness. Shrinkingly she opened the message, which further confounded her. What! She was invited, nay, begged, to come as guest to the Casa Giallo? She could not believe it—and then she remembered that except on one small occasion, possibly due to some worthy excuse, Maddalena de Bellesnaves had treated her in the most charming fashion. At all events the latter could not guess what went on in her mind.

"We shall not be leaving for Arles just yet, as Henri refuses to desert his friend during this trying time. It is not gay chez nous, for Henri is still in a sad state, sadder than ever now this great loss has come to us; but I think perhaps it will be pleasanter for you to be with us than at the hotel. Christine would have wished it. Will you not come, at once, and remain at the villa as long as you are in Ste. Brigitte? It will give me much pleasure, and it may supply a new distraction for my husband."

It sounded genuine. Quite possibly the invitation did spring from bona fide kindness of heart, in which case . . .

"I like the baron—and I know I shall be miserable every minute I'm forced to stay in this hotel. They're turning against me here, from Jolivet downward. I can see it. There's only Harry, and even he . . . after all, if the letters weren't real threats, then what is there left to go on?"

She picked up a sheet of paper and a pen. For several seconds she paused, wavering first in one direction, then in the opposite, unable to decide. At last, pushed by nothing better than an unconquerable dislike which might mean only jealousy, she wrote thanks and—a refusal. She sat looking down at the somewhat wabbly characters which were the best her weak wrist could manage. Then she sealed the note up and put a stamp on it.

No more now, except to await the verdict from Nice. If a negative result was declared, then two delayed funerals would take place, and Sarah MacNeil, a wrong-headed meddler, must pack her trunk and purchase a railway ticket back to obscurity.

Charlie Stanton, son of the Henry Stantons, who has not yet entered his teens, is the youngest exhibitor. Miss Jane Dunham's contribution promises to be an interesting one, for she has done a portrait of her fiancé, Leonid Remisoff, by memory, and no one has seen it yet. Mr. Remisoff is entering a few still lifes.

Dickinson Sisters to Give Cocktail Party.

Miss Alice May Dickinson and her younger sister, Miss Dorothy Dickinson, who is a student at Smith, will entertain at a small cocktail party tomorrow afternoon. The younger Miss Dickinson, who is as blonde and lovely looking as the popular Alice May, will return to Smith on Tuesday. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Preston are taking a group of young people to the Empire room at the Palmer House tonight to dine and dance. The party is for their daughter Margery, who is at home for the holidays, and her guest, Miss Posy Jackson of New Haven.

Oxford-Cambridge Reunion Friday.

On the eve of that famous rowing classic, the Oxford-Cambridge boat race, next Saturday over the Putney to Mortlake course on the Thames in England, Oxford and Cambridge men in and about Chicago are going to gather for their second annual reunion dinner.

Invitations have just been issued for the affair by William C. Parke. It is expected that at least 50 former students of the two famous universities will attend.

The dinner is to begin at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the college room of the Harvey restaurant and will be informal. Similar dinners will be held simultaneously in New York City, San Francisco, and Montreal.

Durand Smith, son of Franklin P. Smith, who has been vacationing in Palm Beach with his father, will be at home the early part of next week in time to help complete plans for the dinner. Gaylord Donnelley is chairman of the committee in charge and other members, besides Mr. Parke and Mr. Smith, are John McDonough, and Sheldon Befft.

Many Visitors at Palm Beach.

The Bath and Tennis club in Palm Beach has been enjoying its gayest period of the whole season, Mr. Smith writes, with many families there with their children who are free on spring vacations. Among those who have been enjoying the club the last few days are Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, her daughter, Jean, and her son, John, and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, her daughter, Mary, and her son, John; Mrs. Donald R. McLennan and her children, the Cyrus Adams family, Mrs. James M. Hopkins and her daughter, Kay, and the Harold S. Smiths with their daughters, Elizabeth, Anne, and Joan.

Spring vacation on Useppa Island is the choice of Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour, who have their school going sons and daughters with them. Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Witt Shumway are others on the island. They have with them their daughter, Grace.

Number Leaving for Foreign Shores.

Even though springlike weather slowly is creeping upon Chicago, there are many here who would rather change places with a handful of Chicagoans who are sailing this week-end from New York for foreign shores. Among the travelers are the Frank E. Wilhelms, who sail today for Italy on the Rex to be away two months.

Mrs. Edward Hymers and Miss Jane Hymers of Evanston are on board the same boat, while Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and Mrs. Ezra D. Warner are leaving a few hours later, bound for Italy too. Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Warner will travel through Italy for eight weeks.

Headed for Germany are Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, and Joseph T. Ryerson. Mrs. Baum is sailing today on the Stuttgart and she will not return until shortly before Christmas. Mr. Ryerson and the Lowdens are going to Baden-Baden for the cure, and will return at the end of six weeks or two months. While Mr. Ryerson is abroad his wife will be enjoying California sunshine. She is leaving a week from tomorrow for Santa Barbara.

Phoenix Visitor Tells Engagement.

From Phoenix, where Mrs. Guy C. Shepard is spending the winter, comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Marian Wilcox Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Curtis Clark of Pittsburgh, Pa., to Fayette Gleason Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Connell Shepard of Evanston. Miss Clark is a graduate of Miss Dow's school in Briarcliff, N. Y., and Mr. Shepard is a Cornell graduate.

Juniors of the Alliance Française have issued invitations for a delightful afternoon next Wednesday at the Chicago Historical society. Meeting at 3 o'clock, they will hear Mrs. James Ward Thorne describe her miniature rooms which have been given to the historical society, and then a lecture on period furniture by Mrs. John Storrs. Miss Jean Wilhelm, as president of the juniors, will preside.

Clay Judson will preside today at the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations luncheon in the Palmer house. The speaker will be George Antonius, former assistant secretary to the Palestine government, who will discuss "The Arab Problem." At the speaker's table will be Mrs. Judson, Mrs. Walter Lichtenstein, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Sprengling, Mr. and Mrs. George Packard, Samuel Harper and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field.

Dr. Walsh to Speak.

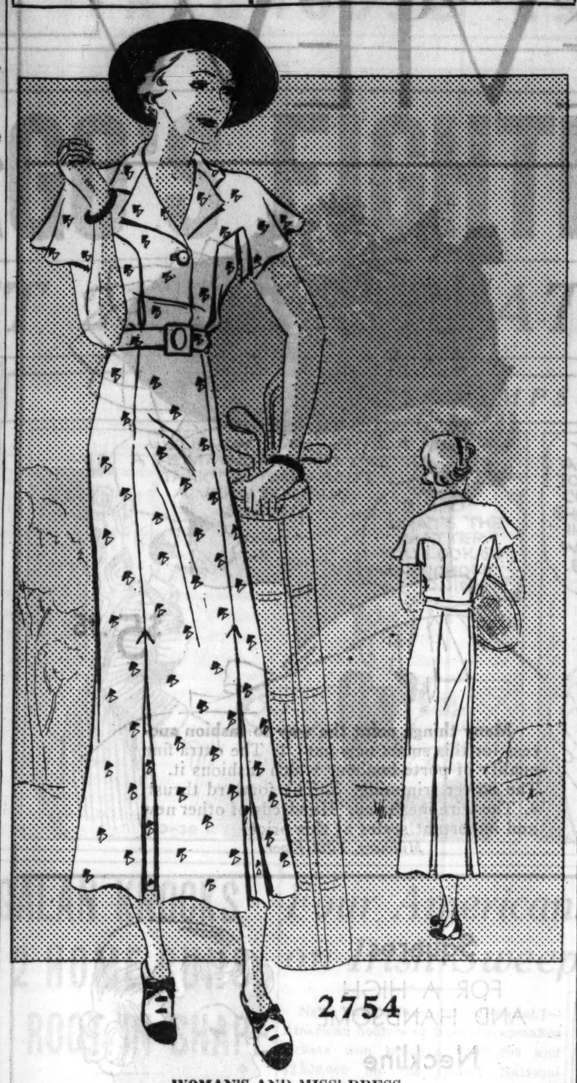
Dr. James J. Walsh, New York City, will speak at Rosary college in River Forest at 8 o'clock tomorrow night on "The Eucharistic Congress as a Background for Affairs in Mexico."

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Herbert W. Drew of Evanston announces the engagement of her daughter, Patricia, to Dr. Howard L. Alt. Miss Drew, who was educated at home by private tutors and at the Marywood school, has assisted her mother every year in giving a mammoth party for poor children of Chicago on the lawn of the Drew residence on Sheridan road. Mrs. Drew gave the first of these parties over ten years ago in memory of a little daughter who had died, and every summer she and her four other children and friends provide an afternoon of fun and entertainment for between 500 and 1,000 children, many of whom are orphans.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hork of 521 Belmont avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Myrll, to Harold J. Brod of Los Angeles, Cal., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Brod of Philadelphia, Pa.

Chic for Sports Interludes



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Sports clothes seem to have become a habit with smartly dressed women, and it's no wonder, for they are flattering and smart, and so easy to wear. The tailored dress sketched today is distinguished by its youthful caped shoulder line. The original model was made of one of the gayly striped cottons.

The pattern, No. 2754, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

Perspiration Is Especially Offensive in the Springtime

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Right now is the time to begin an intensive drive against a certain beauty destroyer whose unpleasantness is exaggerated in the springtime: excessive perspiration, any odor, slight or gross, that might influence against feminine charm, in fact.

At this time of year it is apt to be more unpleasant in character than in summer, for the simple reason that one's summer diet is lighter and one drinks much more water. Where the trouble exists, its disagreeableness is emphasized in spring because of the accumulated waste and poison in a system that is complaining of general fatigue.

In connection with this well known charm destroyer, b. o., women should get wise to one great aid. Water drinking. Simple enough help, isn't it? Perhaps that's what's wrong with it, too simple.

You women haven't all gone into tubbable dresses yet, nor tubbable blouses. You often use this intermediate period for a few last wearings out of the winter woolen frock or sweater suit, or sweater with skirt. If there is a slight taint to perspiration it gets into the woolen things and clings.

There are such good products on sale today at moderate prices that there just isn't any excuse for the offense. But, of course, before the local application, there are two fundamentals to oversee, inside cleanliness and meticulous bathing.

Culbertsons Swell Lead in Bridge Play

Ely Recovers from Tiff Over Etiquette.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson increased their lead over Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims to 9,380 tonight in the fifth day of their 150 rubber match at Crockford's club. Thirty nine rubbers had been completed at the close of the evening session.

On the last hand tonight the Culbertson team scored a grand slam in spades, vulnerable, which with rubber bonus and honors was worth 3,260 points. When the play is resumed Monday the new official scoring will be in effect.

The Culbertson partnership clicked on most occasions, although at times Mr. Culbertson had a tendency to overlook partial scores, or "advanced scores" in the strict sense, and once confused his wife by a departure from the strictures of his system, as set forth by him on the previous afternoon.

Mr. Culbertson approached the table for the afternoon meeting with a determination to improve his game. His first move was to cut out of his breakfast menu the spinach which has caused him difficulties in the bidding on previous days. Today he had string beans.

Mr. Sims brought with him a little card on which were written some of the niceties of bridge table etiquet. Mr. Culbertson read the card and looked quizzically at Sir Derrick Wernher, author of it.

"I object," he said, "to these anglicisms."

"Derrick," said Mr. Sims, "you shouldn't have to take any criticism from a Tartar."

This sally had the effect of putting Mr. Culbertson immediately off his game, for he doubled the first contract of the day, a small slam by Mrs. Sims, and she made it without difficulty.

The Culbertsons settled down then and took that rubber, although their margin on it was a mere 20 points, increasing their lead from the night previous to 2,550. They won the next rubber, too, winding it up with a small slam played by Mrs. Culbertson, after Mr. Culbertson had opened the bidding with 2 spades, the first forcing two bid of the match. Their edge increased to 4,060.

When the Sims family had scored a game early in the next rubber, and the Culbertsons had a substantial part score of sixty points, the following hand was dealt:

Mrs. Culbertson [North]

♥A-Q-J-10-8-7-4-3
♦J-5
♣J-10-8

Sims [West].	Mrs. Sims [East].
♠K-9	♠8-7-4-2
♥K-2	♥9-6
♦A-K-9-7-4	♦Q-8-6-3
♣9-6-4-3	♣7-5-2

Culbertson [South].
♠A-Q-J-10-6-5-3
♥5
♦10-2
♣A-K-Q

The bidding:

WEST.	NORTH.	EAST	SOUTH
Pass	1 Hearts	Pass	1 Spades
Double	2 Hearts	Pass	3 Spades
Pass	4 Hearts	Pass	4 Diamonds

[Insufficient]

Mr. Culbertson, engaged in a discussion of a previous hand, failed to hear Sir Derrick intone the score during the deal. Hence, when Mrs. Culbertson reached two hearts all they needed to complete their game, he forced with a jump bid in spades. When she again attempted to end the bidding, he interjected his "request for information" bid, the only difficulty being that a bid of "four diamonds" was insufficient to overcall "four hearts."

Mrs. Sims was quick to halt Culbertson, and Ely made it five diamonds and there it stuck.

"Beautiful, darling," remarked Mrs. Culbertson, as her famous husband was set six tricks for a loss of 300 points.

Mr. Culbertson had the last word, however.

"Anyway," he said, "the loss is not so great. I intended bidding slam, which we could not have made."

School Art Exhibit.

A preview of the Chicago public schools art exhibition, displaying the abilities and inspirations of the school enrollment from kindergarten up to normal college, was held yesterday afternoon at Marshall Field & Co. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster was hostess to a group of art lovers, critics, and school superintendents.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE PART-SCORE ANGLE.

I feel sure that in general the players in this country attribute too much value to a part score in rubber play, and that this tendency is not confined to those who are inexperienced in tournament play. The duplicate figures give a truer valuation of part scores than do the arbitrary valuations of 200-300 points placed on it by various authorities. In duplicate, a bonus of 50 points is given for bidding and making a score of less than game. Thus, if you bid three spades or less and make three odd, you score 90 plus 50, which makes 140 points. Consequently it would pay your opponents to take the bid away from you if they could limit their penalty to 100 points. Should they bid, say, four clubs with this intent, and you double them and they go down one, they would beat you by their bid if they were not vulnerable, since you would score 100 instead of 140. However, if they were vulnerable, you would beat them if you doubled [200 against 140] whereas you would be beaten on the hand if you did not double [100 against 140]. One cannot overbid more than one trick, you see, to save a part score in duplicate with profit, and not even that when vulnerable and likely to be doubled. One is far more likely to be doubled at three than at two, another defensive bidding factor of great weight. I feel that even in rubber play one should not overbid to a greater extent with this object, especially when vulnerable. Often you have to go down two when you could reasonably expect not to be more than one down, judging from the bidding. Actually you will find that TO POSSESS A PART SCORE is not very helpful against careful players who refuse to lay themselves open to large penalties in order to prevent you from completing your game requirements. If the next hand is evenly divided between the two sides, neither of you can afford to get very high and they can defend cheaply at the level to which you are able to drive them. If one side has the preponderance of cards, the part score will not be a factor as they can override any defensive bidding at a reasonable level. If both sides have good partnership bidding permitting spirited competitive bidding, they would bid against each other anyhow, regardless of the part score either side might have. I am not advising you to give up to easily against low contracts, I am only urging that you regard a 500 penalty incurred to save a part score as a disaster, and one of 250 as an error.

PLAYING AGAINST A PART SCORE, you generally have a second partner to reënforce your side. His name is GREED, a human weakness which thrives on part scores. Few players are really sound and perfectly logical on this point. Mostly they resent your attempts to block them from playing the hand at two odd when 60 points will give them game, and will overbid and take a set at a higher level, though, if they remained calm, they would know that they had already bid their limit at two while you had overbid your limit one or two or three tricks, perhaps, in driving them to three. It is remarkable how easy it generally proves to instigate, by means of a little opposition bidding, overbids which the same players would never consider making if they were not lured on by their own part score. So try to profit by this when the opponents have a part score and are greedy for their game, and restrain yourself from falling into the same errors when your side has the score. Never shade your opening bids because you have a part score to your credit. Modify your responses and rebids, but do not let it affect your opening bids. In fact, lean distinctly toward soundness in opening the bidding for, when you have a doubtful hand, you need the coöperation of your partner just as much when you only need 40 points for game as when you need 100. If your partner can open despite your pass, you can rely on the opponents to defend, and now if you have leaned back a bit in passing originally, you can double them at a low contract, if they bid into your hand, and often score far more than the value of your game.

Superb Group of Old Portraits on Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A superb group of portraits by the English painters who just preceded Reynolds, Raeborn, and their confrères, is current in the Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan avenue. In fact one of them, Thomas Hudson, was Reynolds' master.

Three paintings of men are of prime importance. Allan Ramsey is represented by a beautiful portrait, and beautiful is the right adjective even though it does apply in this case to the portrait of a man, of Lord North, who later was the second earl of Guilford and prime minister to George III.

"David Hartley," by Francis Lemuel Abbott, is a sober faced gentleman, a great politician of his period to whose astute powers are entrusted the negotiations with Benjamin Franklin regarding the peace terms at the close of the American revolution. The third important man whom we find portrayed is Sir Francis Bourgeois, painted by Sir William Beachey. R. A. Bourgeois was himself an artist of good repute in those days.

Sir William Beachey is represented again in the portrait of the lady "Martha Vanderscom," rather a decorative figure but not as piquant nor pretty as "Mrs. Hamilton," whom we discover near by, painted by William Owen, R. A. "Two Children with a Rabbit," by Owen is something in the mood and tempo of a similar canvas by Reynolds, but for all its familiarity it is attractive.

A splendid Turner, "Blight Sands, Sheerness," painted before the artist lost his values of color through the dimming of his sight, turns our attention from the portraits. This marine is most impressive. The cloud effects and the water with the sun striking across and lighting the sails make it one of the finest pictures of its kind.

A landscape by Gainsborough, signed in full [a rare occurrence, Gainsborough preferring to initial his work as a rule], is a fit companion-piece. It is beautiful in color and composition, a gorgeous canvas.

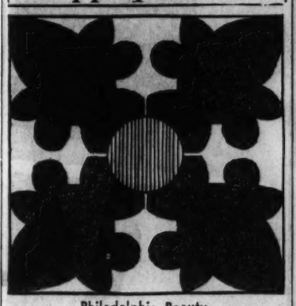
Quilt Is Among Most Ancient of Applique Blocks



Philadelphia Beauty.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Philadelphia Beauty" needs no identification as to its place of birth. It is one of the most beautiful of really ancient applique patterns. The earliest quilts of this design were made of red and white. Modern usage allows two shades of any solid color appliqued on a white ground.

Rockford Alumnae Teas Will Launch Building Campaign

The Rockford College association of Chicago and suburbs will hold three simultaneous teas at 3 o'clock on April 6 at which plans will be presented for raising a $7,000 fund to aid in the erection of a new auditorium and student building at Rockford college. Mrs. John M. Compton of Glencoe is chairman of the ways and means committee that has devised the plans, and serving with her are Mrs. Logan McMenemy of Lake Forest, Mrs. David Lasier of Highland Park and Mrs. Hendrick Dahl and Mrs. Robert Neier of Chicago. The teas will be given at International house, 1414 East 59th street; the First Congregational church house at Lake street and Kenilworth avenue in Oak Park, and at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Varied Queries About Cookery Are Answered

Noodle Oyster Loaf Is First on List.

With her second book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY MARY MEADE.

Question marks appear to be a favorite form of punctuation this week. Here are a few of them, just as they tumbled out on the desk:

"Can you send me a good recipe for oyster loaf?" queries Mrs. A. P. Yes'm, here's one, made with noodles, that we think is pretty nice:

Noodle Oyster Loaf.

1 14 ounce package noodles
¾ cup milk
3 eggs, slightly beaten
½ pint oysters
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook the noodles in boiling water for fifteen minutes. Drain, combine with the milk, beaten eggs, and oysters. Season and pour into a buttered pan which has been dusted with flour or sifted crums. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Unmold on a platter and slice. On each slice, for serving, place a lengthwise cut half of hard cooked egg and mask with a hot, well seasoned cream sauce.

From Mrs. R. H. W. comes this one: "When I mix raisins into a cake batter they always stick to the bottom, even though I flour them well. Is there another method for preventing this settling?"

Well, there are various methods, of course, like creaming the raisins in with the shortening and dropping them in after the batter has been turned into the baking pan, and the flouring which Mrs. R. H. W. mentions. However, here's yet another that usually works pretty well. Steam the raisins until each is fat and puffy. Then when they go into the batter the fact that they're puffed up with hot steam will help them to keep their heads up. Also they may be hot enough slightly to coagulate the batter that coats them, thus reducing further the chances of their drowning.

"Is it possible to make mayonnaise from the hard cooked yolks of eggs?" inquires Mrs. T. B. "I've heard about it some place, but I don't know exactly how it's done."

An excellent mayonnaise may be made from hard cooked eggs, Mrs. B., or from hard cooked yolks and raw ones, half and half. The procedure is this: Rub the cooked yolks to a floury state and then add all the rest of the ingredients—seasonings, vinegar or lemon juice, and oil—just as your favorite recipe demands. If you use one cooked yolk and one raw one, pound the cooked one first, add the raw slowly, stirring vigorously, and from there on proceed as usual.

Many Ways to Assist Child Slow in School

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Yesterday we were talking about the boy or girl who does not "pass" in school, and whose parents, by their attitude, put bitterness into the cup which is hard enough for him or her to drink in any case. Today let us see what we can do to help this child who is in trouble.

First, the parent and the teacher must try to find out what the child's ability is and then see that he goes into a grade in which he can manage the work adequately. He should do this with no sense of inferiority himself and no sense of shame on his parents' part. His parents owe him this. They bore him and it is not his fault that he does not shine in academic work. Many successful men and women have not. Sometimes it means that a child is a little below normal, but sometimes lack of achievement does not mean this. All children may not be geared to academic work. Often their talents lie in other realms—the manual, the mechanical, the artistic, the scientific—and even extra tutoring and other props do not seem to be of much help academically. The education of these children should be planned along lines more related to their capacities. [Education is, unfortunately, too bookish.]

It may prove to be necessary to place the child in a little lower grade, after which his work is done with ease.

Or, his school difficulties may be due to a physical cause, such as being under par, or an illness that has meant absences. Taking the grade over, in this case, may lessen the physical strain and later on when health is fully regained this loss can perhaps be made up.

Or the inability to get along with his work may be due to some personality difficulty with the teacher.

THE GOAT IN THE CASE

Has considerable to do with the fine, soft, luxurious cloth selected for these sports back suits. He's a Cashmere, found in India and Thibet, with the reputation for producing the finest down in the world, which when woven with the proper amount of good wool results in a fabric of beautiful texture and feel that's not lacking in wearing ability. A fabric especially well suited to clothes that expect to take both business and sports wear in their stride.

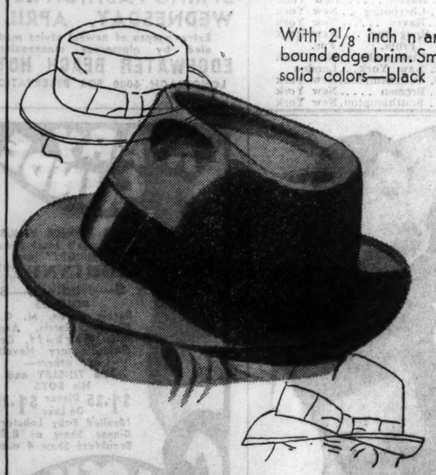
Our New Wider Spread, Shorter Point Collar Shirt $2.50

We've named it the Sheffield. It's a striped domestic oxford cloth that for softness and firmness of weave more expensive qualities would be hard to beat. But—to get back to the collar. It looks as well pinned as unpinned, and if you go in for loose and larger than average size knots in your necktie the collar of the Sheffield plays right into your hands. It takes its knots large and small without losing any of its smart spread and fit.



With 2 1/8 inch narrow bound edge brim. Smooth, solid colors—black band.

THE BRAXTON—THERE ARE THREE WAYS OF WEARING IT $5

For sports and country wear, it takes the English "Pork Pie" shape. When you get back within the city limits, snap the brim and pinch the front. In the lower right corner you see the Braxton in a moderated Tyrolean. Medium grey, light grey, brown, and seal brown.

ROOKIES LEAD ATTACK WITH THREE HOMERS

Washington Slaps 2, Hafey One.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tucson, Ariz., March 29.—The White Sox made additional progress today in their effort to get back on a presentable basis in their spring toil with Pittsburgh's Pirates. The achievement was brought about by some reckless thumping against a pair of enemy pitchers. There also was considerable high powered hitting against a trio of Chicago pitchers which accounts for the Chicagoans finally winning by a football score of 16 to 11. The Sox now have won three out of nine starts against the Pirates.

Of more importance to Manager Jimmy Dykes than the result of the game was the fact that much of the choice hitting was furnished by fellows in whom he has marked interest. One of these was Vernon George Washington, prospective regular right fielder, who provided a pair of home runs and a double which involved seven runs. Bud Hafey dented Bill Swift and Mace Brown for a homer and two doubles. Next in line was Rip Radcliff, also a prospective outfield regular, who horned into various rallies by producing three singles and a double.

Traynor Helps with Error.

Manager Pie Traynor helped to make profitable the four run incident in which the Sox indulged in the first inning. He made a two base wild throw on Dykes' grounder. Dykes scored ahead of Hafey, who lined a homer past Baby Waner in center. Bonura poked a single over the infield and continued to the plate when Washington turned loose his first homer.

Sam Jones retired two men before trouble broke loose in the second. Swift started it with a double to right. Baby Waner lined safely to center. Hafey was in front of the ball, but it took an unexpected hop and rolled to the fence, Waner meanwhile following Swift home.

The Pirates scored again in the third. Jones handed a pass to Vaughan, who went to third on Traynor's single to center. Traynor moved to second on a passed ball by Sewell. Jones started to climb out of the predicament by getting Suhr on an infield popup. Lavagetto walked, loading the bases. Vaughan scored while Dykes was making a fast play to get Padden at first base. Wright tossed out Swift to conclude the inning.

Sox Increases Lead.

The Sox recovered their original four run lead by scoring three men in the third. Hafey led off by striking out, but Bonura bounced a single past Vaughan and scored on Washington's second homer. Appling doubled and scored on a single by Wright.

Five Pirates got to base in the fourth, but only one scored. Baby Waner opened with a single and Jensen walked. On a hit and run sign, Herman fanned and Waner was doubled at third. Vaughan doubled, scoring Jensen. Traynor then survived on a fumble by Appling and Suhr walked, but Lavagetto obliged by popping to Dykes. The Sox followed with three in their half, the ingredients being a double by Radcliff, a single by Dykes, and doubles by Bonura and Washington.

Vance Stays an Inning.

Vance took a one inning workout in the fifth and the Pirates frisked him for a run on hits by Padden and L. Waner. Just for that the Sox proceeded to give Brown a thorough going over in the second half of the fifth. Four scored on a homer by Sewell, singles by Radcliff and Dykes, and a double by Hafey, and Bonura's fly.

When Phelps showed up in the capacity of Sox pitcher in the sixth a run resulted immediately on a double by Young, and an error by Mauldin. The Sox bounced back in their half with their last two runs. Hits by Wright, Shea and Radcliff did this.

GALAN KNOCKS 2 HOME RUNS; ROOT IN SHAPE

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—Augie Galan, who had already surprised many by grabbing off the Cubs' left field job some days ago, drove a couple of clinchers this afternoon when he rammed two homers out of the park to furnish the heavy work in an 8 to 2 Cub victory over the Hollywood Stars in the opening of a three game series. Augie had started the game with a single and it went to waste, but the homers both were good for more than their face value. Two were on when he made the first one and one was on when he slammed the second one.

Charley Root improved on his shutout performance of last Sunday morning when he withdrew after holding Oakland to two hits in five innings. He scored a shutout today in six innings. He was succeeded by Clay Bryant, who was all right except for his well established unfamiliarity with the location of the plate.

Stars Replace Angels.

The Stars will furnish the opposition tomorrow and also Sunday, though the schedule calls for a contest with the Angels Sunday. Pursuant with their snooty policy, the Angels are denying their charms to the Los Angeles public for a grand and triumphant entrance on April 6, the opening date of the Coast league season.

A single by Galan, an error, a walk to Klein and a single by Herman, all before any one was out, were not enough to give the Cubs a run in the first inning, because of a forceout at the plate and a double play, but the second inning was something else.

Singles by Cavarretta and O'Dea and the first two of Myatt's batch of errors put one run home and had two runners on base when Galan stepped up and drove the ball out of the park, a smack which went over the bleachers in right center. He scored behind O'Dea and Root. Herman walked, but Klein fanned and Lindstrom grounded out.

The next Cub outburst was in the fifth. Demaree was safe on Myatt's third error and stopped at third on Lindstrom's double to left. Cuyler doubled to right, coring Demaree and Lindstrom.

Galan Connects Again.

The sixth again saw Galan in the driver's seat. Klores, batting for Root, was safe on Holt's fumble. Then Augie socked homer No. 2. Like No. 1, it went out of the park. Herman fanned and Demaree and Lindstrom were easy putout victims.

Four Americans Hold Tickets on Irish Sweepstake Winner

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—American holders of Irish Sweepstakes tickets won between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 on the Grand National Steeplechase, run at Aintree, England, today.

Four Americans, including one New Yorker, held tickets on Reynoldstown, the winner, which pay $143,475 to each of the holders; three New Yorkers held tickets on Blue Prince, second place horse and paying $71,757, and three held tickets on Thomond II., third, paying $47,825 to ticket holders.

Those holding tickets on Reynoldstown were:

Mrs. Ray Gold, the Bronx.
Ann Goldberg, Philadelphia.
Mabel Litzelman, Olney, Ill.
"Five Glasses," Philadelphia.

Those holding tickets on Blue Prince:

Carmelo Ursino, Brooklyn.
A. I. Weiss, the Bronx.
Mae Smyle, Queens, New York.
"May 15," Bridgeport, Conn.
"Susie," Los Angeles.

The ticket holders on Thomond II. were:

J. Thomas Roski, New York.
"Clear Sailing," New York.
"Erin Go Bragh," Buffalo.

Other Prizes Total $1,075,000.

In addition to the money won on the race, approximately $1,075,000 was divided in consolation and residual prizes. Each ticket holder drawing a horse received $3,975 each, whether his horse ran or not.

Sidney Freeman, British sweepstakes ticket broker, lost heavily on his American purchases in this race. He spent $400,000 and collected $119,582, having succeeded in buying only a half interest in one ticket on Reynoldstown and two half tickets on Thomond II.

CHICAGOAN GETS $21,500.

Louis Boettcher, a chauffeur living at 3314 Lake Shore drive, was richer by $21,500 yesterday. As holder of a ticket on Blue Prince, second horse in the Grand National steeplechase run in Aintree, England, yesterday morning, he took the $20,000 second place money in the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans' sweepstakes. As the salesman of the ticket, which he sold himself, he earns a bonus of $1,500.

Boettcher will receive his $21,500 some time next week, when officials of the Canadian Army and Navy sweepstakes arrive in Chicago for the payoff, which will be held in the Palmer house. Five other Chicagoans, having drawn starting horses, will receive $1,000 each, and as many ticket sellers a bonus of $150 each.

FIND FAKE TICKETS.

Troy, N. Y., March 29.—(AP)—Federal and state authorities said today they had uncovered a fake sweepstakes lottery racket of nation-wide proportions with the arrest and arraignment of W. S. Fitzgerald, Waterford, N. Y., on a charge of sending lottery tickets through the mails.

Fitzgerald pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner Clark Cipperly, and April 29 was set as the date for a hearing. He was released under $1,500 bail.

Olney, Ill., Woman Wins $142,500 on Sweeps Ticket

Olney, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mabel Litzelman, one of the four Americans holding tickets in the Irish hospital sweepstakes to win the grand prize, this evening continued her work of supervising the kitchen of the Litzelman hotel, which her husband, Yank Litzelman, operates, after receiving word that she won $142,500 as a grand prize.

She was in the kitchen of the hotel when a clerk entered and told of her good fortune. Mrs. Litzelman, who took the news calmly, was attending church when the race was run. Returning to the hotel, she refused to listen to the radio and went about her work.

Zean Gassman and William Houser will receive $5,000 each as sellers of the winning ticket. Mrs. Litzelman kept the secret, even from her husband. A liberal gift will be made to the St. Joseph Catholic church, Mrs. Litzelman said. Then she will purchase an automobile.

"Will you and your husband sell the hotel?"

"O, no," she replied. "My husband and I have made our money out of the hotel, and we will continue to operate it."

Mrs. Litzelman, who is 40 years old, was born and raised in Olney. More than 20 years ago, she went to work for Litzelman, then a hotel manager, as a chambermaid. She finally took charge of the dining room and by her industry won the admiration of Litzelman, who married her.

She has continued to work in the hotel every day, although she and her husband are well to do. They have no children.

Four Blackhawk Members Signed for Next Season

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, late holders of the world's professional hocky championship, announced yesterday that he has already enlisted four members of his 1934-'35 band for next season's Stanley cup campaign, and a more valuable four could not be rounded up.

First of these, of course, was Clement Joseph Loughlin, who made good from all angles in his first year as manager of the Hawks. Maj. McLaughlin, after announcing Loughlin's retention, said that three others had signed to play with the Hawks next year. These include Paul Thompson, the team's leading scorer; John Gottselig, the best stick handler in the league, and Lorne Chabot, winner of the Vezina trophy for goal tending this season.

Loughlin left last night for Toronto, where he will witness tonight's play-off game between Toronto and Boston. He will return here early next week to have four teeth extracted and eventually will head for his farm at Viking, Alta.

LOUIS FLOORS, POUNDS BROWN; WINS DECISION

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—[Special.]—Joe Louis, young colored heavyweight, swept aside another obstacle in the path of a match with Champion Max Baer tonight when he won a 10 round decision over Natie Brown of Washington. Louis won every round.

The 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion knocked Brown down for a nine count in the first round and hammered him unmercifully from there to the final bell. In the second round he opened a cut over Brown's left eye and smacked him with a right in the fourth round that caused a deep gash over the other eye.

Brown Covers Up.

Stalking Brown, Louis appeared to be over cautious until the seventh round when a series of long lefts and rights had Brown on the verge of a knockout. Brown, schooled well in covering, crawled into a shell and weathered the storm.

Louis won the fight in the first round with his widely heralded left hook. The former Golden Glover's hand, moving a few inches, caught Brown flush on the chin and he dumped him in a heap. At Referee Slim McClellan's count of five Brown got on his hands and knees, straining to hear the count. McClellan yelled in Brown's ear and at the count of ten Brown barely managed to regain his feet. He did not recover from the blow throughout the fight.

No. 17 for Louis.

Tonight's victory was Louis' 17th since he turned professional seven months ago. Thirteen of the 17 have been won by knockouts.

There were many fight critics at the ringside to watch Louis for the first time. It was their opinion that his left is as mighty as any in the game and that his right is equally as dangerous. They could not understand, however, why he did not finish off Brown.

Brown was on the defense from the opening bell. He did not land a telling punch in the ten rounds and it was obvious after the first round his only concern was staying the limit.

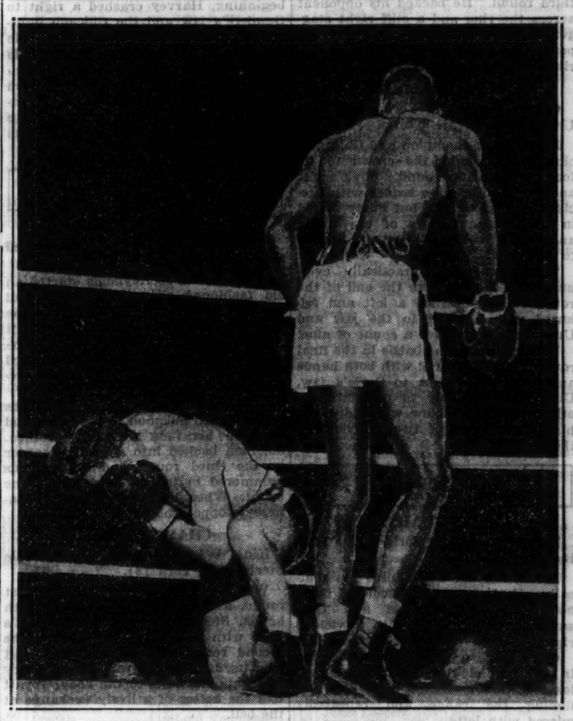
Results of the preliminary bouts:

Lefty Gwynne of Toronto beat Babe Triscaro, of Cleveland [5]; Billy Trieste, of Batavia, Ill. beat Oscar Schmeling, Canton, O. [5]; Al Diamond, of Newark, N. J., beat Gene Stanley, of Mount Clemens, Mich. [8]. and Roy Lazer, of Newark, N. J., beat Adolph Wiater of Green Bay, Wis. [8].

OLD DAZZY VANCE IS RELEASED BY ST. LOUIS CARDS

Bradenton, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—Arthur [Dazzy] Vance, veteran National league pitcher, today was given his unconditional release by Manager Frank Frisch of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. Last season Vance won only one game for the Cards and has pitched poorly in spring training this year. In 1925, while a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Vance was voted the most valuable player in the league.

NEW YORK SIEGE GUN FIZZLES



The finish of the bout that gave Chicago its ninth victory and clinched the intercity title. Phil Ragozzino, New York 175 pounder, 1931 champion, goes down after receiving a punch from Clinton Bridges in the first round. The referee stopped the bout a moment later.

Heavyweights Win by Knockouts.

Pop Knickerbocker will be a very disagreeable old cuss at the breakfast table this morning. He traveled out into Chicagoland and last night put on the gloves with Father Dearborn at the Chicago Stadium. He no doubt is of the firm conviction that Father Dearborn carried a brick in one hand and a stick of dynamite in the other.

For Father Dearborn hit Knickerbocker a thousand times, blacked both of his eyes, and sent him out of the ring bruised and limping.

It all happened in the eighth annual Golden Gloves intercity battles between Chicagoland's champions, who represented THE TRIBUNE, and New York's champions, who were presented by the New York Daily News.

Year's Largest Indoor Crowd.

A crowd of 21,753 which dropped $43,447 into the counting room watched Father Dearborn knock Pop Knickerbocker flat on the seat of his pants. It was the largest crowd that has looked on at an indoor sports spectacle this year.

The onesided victory put Chicago ahead of New York, 4 to 3, in the intercity Golden Gloves series which started eight years ago. The first match ended in an 8 to 8 deadlock. Then Chicago won three and the New Yorkers rolled up three triumphs.

Fight Uphill Battle.

The Chicago boys fought a game uphill battle. Jesse Levels put them in front when he won the first bout of the night by a narrow margin from Bernie Reitman, New York flyweight.

The crowd, which was wildly partisan, then had occasion to become a bit gloomy. In rapid fire order Chicago's flyweight champion, Patsy Urso, was whipped by George Coyle, the New York champion; Troy Bellini of Chicago was smacked all around the ring by Ray Olivo of New York, and Johnny Brown, the most popular member of the Chicago team, had a third round technical knockout verdict registered against him by Charley Villareale, an Italian youngster from Gotham.

The score was 3 to 1 and it didn't appear as if the Chicago boys were ever going to get going. New Yorkers in the huge throng were wild with joy.

Scrap Way Into a Tie.

Chicago's heavy punching featherweights were the next to go into action. Al Nettlow of the Chicago team whipped Phil Siriana, another Italian lad from Manhattan, and Andy Scrivani, Chicago's champion in this division, punched the stuffin' out of John Cabello, the New York champion.

This threw the score into a deadlock at 3 points for New York and 3 points for Chicago.

The New Yorkers swept to victory in the two lightweight matches. Murray Kravitz caught the eye of the judges and was awarded the decision over Lorenzo Lovings of Chicago and the veteran New Yorker, Sedgewick Harvey knocked out our Chicago champion, Mike Gambiere.

An Unpopular Decision.

The decision which went to Kravitz was the most unpopular of the night. It brought a round of booing which lasted for 15 minutes.

The excited crowd, or at least 90 per cent, was of the opinion that Lovings had won by a wide margin. The hooting and howling continued on through the remainder of the program, but, of course, that did not change the verdict. Still it must have made the officials blossom out in a rosy red blush.

These two rapid fire victories gave New York a 5 to 3 lead. All was gloom in the Chicago rooting sections.

Then came the intermission period. The spectators had a chance to smoke or get a sip of beer or brandy or ale. They booed and hissed the judges between drinks because of that Lovings decision. Chicago rooters were so nervous about what was happening that they shook most of the drinks over the tops of their glasses.

Old Pop Knickerbocker surely had

Hold Stirring Ceremonies.

There were stirring ceremonies during the intermission. New York's flag was unfurled to the strains of Sidewalks of New York. Chicago's banner rolled up to the roof of the Stadium while the crowd sang Illinois.

Old Glory went up to the same high ceiling and the crowd for the minute forgot about the New York-Chicago battles while it sang the Star Spangled Banner.

The big boys then began parading into the ring. Chicago's welterweights, King Wyatt and Elwood McReynolds, swept the class. Chicago's middleweights, Charley Wozniak and Dave Clark, slashed their New York opponents about viciously and were easy winners.

These four rapid fire victories put the Chicago team into a 7 to 5 lead. Then Pop Kickerbocker's knees began to buckle.

He was pale around the eyes and he was gasping as if completely out of breath when Chicago scored two more victories in the light heavyweight class.

Bridges Stops Rogozzino.

Joe Bauer got the decision over Dominick Scappatura and Clinton Bridges of Chicago scored a technical knockout over Phil Rogozzino, alias Phil Dardell, of New York in the first round.

Otis Thomas of Chicago added to old Pop Knickerbocker's miseries when he knocked out Larry Green in a minute and ten seconds of the first round. A mighty right to the stomach did the business. The last heavyweight battle between the Chicago champion, Lorenzo Pack, and Jimmy Howell of New York was a hard punching affair. It was a landslide for Chicago by this time and Pack got the decision.

High Goal Polo Teams Clash in Semi-Finals

Battling for the title in their division, the Chicago Riding club and Chicago Ramblers high goal polo teams will meet tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, in the senior semi-finals of the national indoor polo tourney, western division.

Also clashing in a semi-final in their bracket will be the Lincolnshire Country club and 124th Field Artillery low goal teams. This game, the first of the evening, will start at 8:30 o'clock.

In the Lincolnshire-124th Field Artillery game tonight, all four goals belonging to Lincolnshire are credited to Lieut. Larry Ladue, who will have Eddie Hirsch and Al Bairnsfather as team mates. The artillery trio's goals are shared by Lieut. Chris Schuh with three, and Capt. Bill Everett with two. Lieut. Jim McAnulty will round out the team.

TROOP TO PLAY

The Riding club and the Black Horse Troop will battle for first place in the Troopers' league in the polo final at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street, this evening.

In the opening contest the 106th Cavalry will battle the Centaurs.

OKLAHOMA BID FOR BIFF JONES AWAITS RULING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—No definite decision has been made on the transfer of Capt. Lawrence [Biff] Jones from Louisiana State university to the University of Oklahoma, according to an announcement today by Maj. Gen. James F. McKinley, adjutant general of the army.

Oklahoma has asked for the transfer so that Jones may coach the Sooners' football team next season, but Maj. Gen. McKinley said that no agreement had been arrived at, pending statements by the officials of the two schools and Jones himself.

Jones resigned as head coach at Louisiana State a few months ago after a lengthy dispute with Senator Huey P. Long concerning the method of coaching. The war department enters the situation because Jones was also military instructor at L. S. U. and still has a year to serve in that capacity at some institution.

If he is transferred to Oklahoma it is expected that he will remain there for only one year.

Levinsky Pays Dallas Hotel $980; Off to Fight

Dallas, Tex., March 29.—[Special.]—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight who won a ten round decision over Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., here Wednesday, today departed for Oklahoma City, where he will meet Joe Rice of Fort Worth. Levinsky was reported to have left $980 of his purse from the Hunt fight for his hotel bill here.

HOW CHICAGO WON INTERCITY CHAMPIONSHIP

112 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Jesse Levels, Chicago, beat Bernard Reitman, New York [3].

Reitman came out with an attack to Levels' body. Jesse retaliated and fought him toe to toe. Levels staggered Reitman with a hard left to the head.

In the second round Reitman again made Levels' body the target and sank a series of left hooks. Levels held frequently and missed twice with solid rights when the opportunity presented.

Levels was the aggressor in the third round. He backed his opponent across the ring and a stiff right staggered him. The New York boy appeared tired and held on. Levels' stirring finish brought him the decision.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

George Coyle, New York, beat Patsy Urso, Chicago [3].

Urso made a game battle in the final round. He hammered with both hands and battered a right to Coyle's jaw. Urso came on only to run into another right hand blow which dropped him for a count of two. Coyle won the decision.

118 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Ray Olivo, New York, beat Troy Bellini, Chicago [3].

Bellini set out after Olivo methodically. He hammered the colored boy's body with both hands and then switched to the head with a vicious right. Bellini outscored Olivo easily.

Olivo made a much better showing in the second round and earned at least a draw. Bellini had difficulty finding the range and repeatedly missed with lefts.

Bellini still had difficulty getting the range in the third round, and in the last minute Troy received a gash on the top of his head. The judges voted, 2 to 1, for Olivo and there was much dissatisfaction.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Charles Villareale, New York, stopped Johnny Brown, Chicago [3].

Johnny Brown and Charles Villareale, New York veteran, started at a fast pace. Villareale seemed to carry more power, but, with the exception of two sharp lefts which brought blood to Johnny's nose, Brown was able to stay out of trouble. Johnny, standing more erect, scored on a series of left hooks and straight rights.

In the second round Brown rocked Villareale with a stiff right to the jaw and followed with lefts and rights. Midway a cut was opened on the side of Johnny's head. It bled profusely, but did not bother Brown. Villareale rallied in the closing seconds. Brown was not allowed to come out for the third round, because of the injury, and Villareale was awarded the bout on a technical knockout.

126 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Al Nettlow, Chicago, beat Phil Siriani, New York [3].

Nettlow immediately set to jabbing Siriani's face, and when the New Yorker came in close Nettlow shot home rights to the head. Nettlow pursued this attack through the first two rounds and all Siriani had to offer in return was several hard rights to the body.

In the third round Sirani bore in, but, when he cornered Nettlow, Al bounced him back on his heels with a right. Another hard right to the chin made Siriani's knees buckle. Nettlow popped away with his left and nearly closed Siriani's left eye. A rousing left hook sent Siriani into the ropes at the bell.

Cabello went through the first round hitting and clinching. Scrivani was outpointing him, but couldn't break up the holding. In the second round Cabello practiced a lunging right, landing to the head twice. But in the last seconds a hard right shook Cabello and he tired under a barrage of body blows.

135 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Murray Kravitz, New York, beat Lorenzo Lovings, Chicago [3].

Lovings and Kravitz, sparred cautiously, Lovings' blows seemed to carry more power. He drove a solid right and left to the head, causing Kravitz to cover up. In the second round they clinched often and neither landed a solid punch, although Lovings probably had an edge in points.

Kravitz gave ground occasionally in the third round, but covered up when backed into a corner. Lovings was easily superior through the round. The judges divided in the vote and the referee declared for Kravitz. The crowd booed the decision.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Gamiere elected to box with the veteran Harvey and earned a draw in the first round, although Harvey's punches were more powerful. Gamiere fought out of trouble and landed a series of lefts in the final minute.

147 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Elwood McReynolds, Chicago, stopped Herbert Solomon, New York [3].

Solomon and McReynolds started an old fashioned alley fight which had the crowd in an uproar throughout the first round. Solomon tossed a right hand which seldom landed and McReynolds, a straighter puncher, hammered the New Yorker to the ropes repeatedly.

In the second round McReynolds twice pinned Solomon to the ropes and pounded his face without a return. Solomon backed into a neutral corner in the third round and McReynolds hammered in to the floor for a nine count. When he got up Referee Hennessy stopped the fight.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

King Wyatt, Chicago, beat Eddie Steele, New York [3].

Wyatt was the aggressor in the first round, flailing Steele's body with both hands. Steele drew blood from Wyatt's nose with a left jab. He opened the second round by landing a long left to King's chin, but ran into a flurry of rights and lefts to the body. Wyatt had the better of a lively exchange at the bell.

160 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Charles Wozniak, Chicago, beat Otis Johnson, New York [3].

Johnson tired in the third round and Wozniak shot both hands home. His most effective punch was a left hook to the face. Wozniak won the decision, giving Chicago a 6 to 5 lead, the first advantage it had held.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Dave Clark, Chicago, beat Bradley Lewis, New York [3].

Lewis tired in the third round. In the last minute Clark shot both hands to Lewis' head without a return and was an easy victor.

175 POUNDS

SECONDARY.

Bauer and Scappatura traded body blows to open the first round, then wrestled in a clinch. Bauer fell, pulling the New Yorker to the floor with him. Bauer landed a long left and bounced Dominick into the ropes.

Bauer continued to force the fighting in the last round and hammered his right to the head. Dominick tired rapidly and Bauer had no difficulty getting the decision.

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Ragozzino, always a favorite in Chicago since his Intercity and International Golden Gloves victories in 1931, forced Bridges on the defense immediately. Bridges dropped Ragozzino with a short right and swung again just as Ragozzino got his knee off the floor.

Bridges then cornered Ragozzino and sent him down for a nine count with a series of right and lefts. Still dazed, Ragozzino could not keep Bridges away and when he had been knocked into the ropes the referee stopped the bout. The time was 2 minutes and 45 seconds.

HEAVYWEIGHTS

SECONDARY.

Otis Thomas, Chicago, knocked out Larry Green, New York [1].

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Lorenzo Pack, Chicago, beat James Howell, New York [3].

Pack and Howell, two sluggers, traded wallops from the start. Howell was very aggressive in the first minute, but cooled down after Pack connected with a right cross. Howell also started the second round with a rush, but slowed down after Pack fought his way out of a corner.

New Yorkers Start Home Today in Special Train

The New York Golden Gloves boxers will board a special section of the Twentieth Century at La Salle street station at 3 o'clock this afternoon for home. The eastern coaches said the boys enjoyed their stay here.

Three of the eastern fighters sported mustaches. They were Herbert Solomon, welterweight; Bradley Lewis, middleweight, and Pete Carricacola, overweight lightweight. Solomon and Lewis are colored.

Chicago's contingent was the first to arrive at the Stadium in a chartered bus. The time was 7:20. The boys used the dressing rooms in the north side of the building. Ten minutes later the New York team tramped into quarters on the south side.

When the first pair of boxers entered the ring along about 8 o'clock, notables of the sports, political, industrial, social, business, stage, and radio worlds occupied ringside seats.

Mrs. Eleanor Holm Jarrett, swimming champion, and her radio singing husband, Art Jarrett, were seated on the south side of the arena. Close by were Art Lindheimer, coal merchant; Henry Crown, president of the Material Service company, which supplies materials to the state, and John Griffith, head of a construction company.

Harvey Woodruff, who has been Hollywooding all winter, arrived just in time to push his way into a press seat. All notables in the throng crowded their way down to give him a handshake during the intermission.

Roy Carruthers, general manager, and Leonard Florsheim, treasurer, of the Arlington Park Jocky club, were late arrivals. They whooped it up for the Chicago battlers.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee, sat in the first row on the north side. Not far away were John O. Seys and Boots Weber of the Chicago Cubs.

George Halas, coach and owner of the Chicago Bears, and his wife were prominent on the west side. In adjoining chairs were Fred Burton, owner of the Everglade racing stables, and E. R. Born of Arlington Park.

The judiciary was represented by Judges Joseph Sabath, Ben Epstein, Michael McKinley, and Hugo Friend. Judge Epstein was accompanied by his two young sons.

SUPERIOR BEATS BELOIT, 34 TO 26, FOR STATE TITLE

Madison, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Beloit High school's string of 16 successive victories in state tournament competition, during which it won three straight state titles, reached a dramatic end in the fieldhouse tonight as the defending champions lost to Superior Central, 34 to 26, for the 1935 state high school championship.

Beloit had not been defeated since it lost to Wisconsin High at Madison in the first round of the 1931 tournament. Since that time Beloit teams had piled up 28 consecutive victories in district and state tournament competition.

It's a New Experience.

The defending champions rode into a 7 to 5 advantage at the end of the first quarter, but dropped behind, 15 to 14, at the half. Superior unleashed a powerful attack in the third period to take a 26 to 18 lead, and each team added eight points in the last quarter.

Both teams were effective from the free throw line, Beloit dropping 10 out of 13 chances, and Superior getting 8 out of 10.

Gilmore Leads Scorers.

Gilmore, star Beloit Negro forward, led his team with six baskets for 12 points, and Anderson, Superior center, led the new state champions to the title with 11 points.

Mayville captured the class B tournament title by whipping Weyauwega, 36 to 22, in tonight's opening battle. Kenosha High won its second class A consolation crown in three years by defeating Sturgeon Bay, 37 to 15, this afternoon, and Augusta led throughout in its 45 to 28 victory over Niagara for the class B consolation award.

MEDICA BREAKS WORLD RECORD IN N. C. A. A. SWIM

Cambridge, Mass., March 29.—(AP)—One world record and three National Collegiate Athletic association swimming marks were broken today while the champion Michigan squad piled up 26 points during the first day's competition in the Harvard pool.

Jack Medica, the University of Washington's one man team, accounted for the new world mark and one of the N. C. A. A. records. Another, however, was disallowed because Charlie Flachmann, Illinois, beat the gun before registering a smashing victory in the 50 yard free style event. The other meet mark was set by the Michigan 300 yard medley relay team.

Medica, in competition with his keenest rival, Jimmy Gilhula, Southern California, gained a six foot victory in the 1,500 meter free style in 18 minutes 59.3 seconds, almost nine seconds under the world mark, set by Arne Borg, Sweden, in 1933.

Tonight Medica gave Gilhula another trouncing in the 220 yard free style, and his time of 2:11.5 was almost a second better than the previous N. C. A. A. record, established by Dave Livingston, Yale, a year ago.

This double placed Washington, or rather Medica, in a second place tie with Iowa, which scored 10 points during the afternoon and evening.

Ohio State was fourth with 7 points, and Southern California followed with 6. Illinois also counted 6 points.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TWENTY-TWO years ago next fall Minnesota invaded Lincoln, Neb., for a football game with Nebraska university. . . . The Cornhuskers won, 7 to 0. . . . The Minnesota full back was Clark Shaughnessy, now coach at the University of Chicago, and his understudy was Bernie Bierman, now Minnesota's head man. . . . This year both Shaughnessy and Bierman will take their teams to Lincoln for games with Nebraska. . . . Fred Fulton, former heavyweight boxer, now operates a summer hotel at Park Rapids, Minn. . . . When Jim Weaver, the six foot six inch pitcher, was traded to the Pirates by the Cubs, the uniform he wore while with the latter team was included in the deal. . . . The Pirates didn't own a suit big enough to fit him and didn't wish to buy one merely for spring training purposes. . . . The Cubs didn't mind giving up the flannel set because they didn't feel they ever would find another man large enough to fill it. . . . Danno O'Mahoney, Irish heavyweight wrestler, earned only $161 for his victory over Gino Garibaldi in the Coliseum mat windup the other night. . . .

A punch on the chin delivered by his brother Joe started James J. Braddock, recent conqueror of Art Lasky, on a fighting career. . . . In an argument over a dollar brother Joe, a pretty good middleweight ten years ago, punched Jimmy on the jaw. . . . Jimmy jumped up and flattened his brother. . . . "If Joe can make good money fighting, I can make better money," Jimmy reasoned as he rushed out to buy a pair of tights. . . . Coast league teams are eager to sign members of the Tokio Giants, Japanese barnstorming team now playing in California, but except for one, who was born in Honolulu and signed by Sacramento, none can be contracted because of immigration restrictions. . . . C. W. Whitten, manager of the Illinois High School Athletic association, is taking a furlough because of ill health and active direction of the organization is by his assistant, H. V. Porter. . . . Lorne Chabot, Blackhawk goalie, comes from a family of five girls and three boys. . . . Frank Murray, head football coach, and Tarzan Taylor, line coach, are members of the faculty bridge team at Marquette university. . . .

Bill Terry has bet reporters covering the Giants that he will bat .355 this year, one point more than he hit last season. . . . Mark Peterman, coach of the Springfield, Ill., High school state basketball champions, has brought contenders to the finals nine times, five from Canton and four from Springfield. . . . Southern California was dethroned as ice hocky champion for the first time in seven years this season by Tom Lieb's Loyola team. . . . Not that it makes any difference, but Abe Kashey, Syrian wrestler, claims he easily defeated Charley Retzlaff in a mixed match, wrestler vs. boxer, in Minneapolis last fall by pinning him in the third round. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Tex Rickard was fined $7,000 for distributing the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films. . . . Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago won the annual north-south golf tournament at Pinehurst, N. C. . . . Forty-four teams were entered in the University of Chicago's national interscholastic basketball tournament. . . . Earl Lookabaugh and Augie Kieckhefer split even in their special three cushion billiard match.

and had no trouble disposing of Dimaggio, Desautels, and Holt. In the eighth Bryant blew a shutout with his usual wildness. He walked Pitcher Cano and the rather hapless Myatt. The runners moved up on an infield out, and another infield out scored Cano. Jolley drove home Myatt with a single to right. This flurry wound up the day's scoring for both sides.

JIM BOTTOMLEY DESERTS RED'S CAMP FOR HOME

General Manager Larry MacPhail said Bottemley told him he did not care to "accept the terms offered" him. Bottomley, MacPhail added, previously had agreed on the question of salary, but refused to sign a contract for the 1935 season.

A veteran of the National league, Bottomley frequently has expressed a wish to go with the Chicago Cubs.

Slugger, Age 78, Marries School Girl Friend, 69

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Down an archway formed of bats held aloft by members of the Three-Quarter Century club, George J. Yesberger, 78, of Berea, O., star baseball player, marched today to wed Mrs. Esther E. Mitchell, 69, a friend of more than 50 years.

Charles W. Eldridge, 104, gave the bride away, and the Rev. R. H. Schultz, president of the Three-Quarter Century club, membership requirements of which is an age minimum of 75 years, performed the ceremony.

Yesberger set a local record last year when he drove a home run into the next block and rounded the bases twice before the fielders recovered the ball.

RUNYAN BREAKS RECORD TO WIN PINEHURST GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., March 29.—(AP)—Paul Runyan today won the thirty-third North and South open golf championship with a 72 hole score of 276, the lowest in the history of the tournament.

The P. G. A. champion was seven strokes better than Felix Serafin of Scranton, Pa., who finished second with 284 and was nine strokes ahead of Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., the defending titleholder, who took third with 285. First place was worth $1,000 to the White Plains, N. Y. pro. Second money of the $4,000 purse was $700 and third $500.

Runyan's score was a stroke below the previous record of 277 set by Joe Kirkwood in 1933. He birdied the first hole and finished his first round with a 65, three strokes lead over Serafin and Mangrum. At 36 holes, after a second round of 71, he held the same lead over Byron Nelson of Texarkana, Tex. A third round 72 left him with five strokes advantage and he closed out with a round of 68.

Runyan was out on his lost round in 33, three under par, and after 16 holes was 5 under, needing only par for a 66. He went one over on each of the last two holes, however, to muff his chances of breaking Kirkwood's record score by an even greater margin. His card:

Par—Out	444	345	354	—36
Runyan—Out	443	344	344	—33
Par—In	444	443	534	—35—71
Runyan—In	344	443	445	—35—68

Runyan	65	71	72	68—276	$1,000.00
Serafin	68	72	76	68—284	700.00
Picard	73	71	70	71—285	500.00

CANADIENS MAY BE SHIFTED TO CLEVELAND RINK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., March 29.—The Montreal Canadiens, who recently finished one of their poorest National Hocky league seasons in years from a financial standpoint, may eventually wind up in Cleveland, according to a statement by Joseph Cattarinich, one of the owners of the club today.

Cattarinich said officials of the club were contemplating a transfer of the franchise to the Ohio city. It was understood a Cleveland syndicate had offered $200,000 for the right to operate the team.

TIGER PITCHERS BAFFLE BRAVES; TRIUMPH, 5 TO 0

Auker and Rowe Hold Boston to 4 Hits.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Schoolboy Rowe was too tough for the Boston Braves today, playing a large part in the Detroit Tigers' 5 to 0 victory.

Rowe yielded only three hits in five innings and Eldon Auker, his successor, was even more effective, allowing only one hit during the rest of the game. Rowe batted in the first run. Greenburg smashed a home run and three singles in four times up.

Boston [N.]	000	000	000—0 4 0

ORIOLES BEAT DODGERS.

Kissimmee, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—The Baltimore Orioles of the International league whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 11 to 10, today in a free hitting contest.

With the bases loaded Sweeney rapped out a single in the ninth to score Atwood with the deciding run. Benge, Logan and Lamanske did the pitching for the Dodgers, while Granger and Lohrman pitched for the Orioles. Score:

YANKS WIN ON HOMERS.

Clearwater, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—The New York Yankees scored a 3 to 1 victory over their International league farm hands, the Newark Bears, today.

They made only four hits off the combined deliveries of Frank Makosky and Tom Kain, a pair of young right handers, but three were homers by Dixie Walker, Lou Gehrig and Red Rolfe.

Walker belted the ball over the right field fence in the first inning. In the ninth Rolfe hit a home run over the right field fence, and then Gehrig lifted a drive over the fence in right center. Score:

New York [A.]	100	000	002—3 4 2
Newark [Int.]	000	010	000—1 9 0

Batteries—Deshong, Duke and Glenn; Makowsky, Kain and Hershberger.

REDS, 10; LEAFS, 9.

Tampa, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Cincinnati's Reds and the Toronto Maple Leafs each batted around the lineup for six runs in an inning today, but the Reds squeezed out a decision, 10 to 9.

Young Lewis Riggs had three hits—a triple, double, and single. Score:

Cincinnati	061	003	00*—10 13 2

BROWNS LEAVE SOON.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—With only three days remaining in camp, the St. Louis Browns returned to regular workouts today, an open date.

The Browns, who have won ten out of twelve spring games, will conclude their West Palm Beach season tomorrow and Sunday with Buffalo. Monday they play Baltimore at Kissimmee, Fla., meet Brooklyn at Orlando Tuesday and Wednesday, then entrain for St. Louis and a city series with the Cardinals.

CARDS WIN, 6-2.

Bartow, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Bill Walker, pounded in previous Grape Fruit league starts, pitched shutout ball for five innings today and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Rochester Redwings, 6 to 2.

Bud Tinning, who finished for St. Louis, yielded two hits and two unearned runs.

A'S TAKE FIFTH STRAIGHT.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 29.—(AP)—Crashing 18 hits off three hurlers, the Philadelphia Athletics won their fifth straight exhibition triumph today in routing the Chattanooga Lookouts, 14 to 10.

SENATORS BEATEN, 6-4.

Birmingham, Ala., March 29.—(AP)—Scoring five runs in the first two innings, Birmingham defeated Washington, 6 to 4, today in the Senators' first game of their homeward tour.

Although outhit 8 to 6, Birmingham centered its attack on Monte Weaver at the outset and added another run in the eighth.

Birmingham [S. A.]	320	000	01*—6 6 3
Washington [A.]	300	001	000—4 8 1

Batteries—Weaver, Capola, Stewart and Bolton, Redmond; Moore, Murray and Denning.

Then the Pirates gave Phelps a good pasting which netted four runs in the seventh. They hung up another in the ninth on a drive over the wall by Jensen.

The Sox and Pirates moved out on their special train tonight for El Paso, Tex., where they'll show tomorrow and Sunday. Lyons and Michaels will do the Sox throwing tomorrow against Smith and Salveson.

SHUTE ACCEPTS WESTWARD-HO GOLF PRO POST

H. Densmore Shute, better known as Denny Shute, one of the world's leading golfers for the last few years, yesterday accepted the position of professional at the Westward Ho Golf club in Melrose Park.

Shute's acceptance was wired from Pinehurst, N. C., where he was competing in the north and south open tournament, to Henry Prehler, chairman of the Westward Ho committee named to choose a professional, and confirmed an announcement in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning that he was the leading candidate for the post. He will take up his duties within a few weeks.

BELL NAMED ATHLETIC HEAD AT WESLEYAN

Bloomington, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Harry M. Bell, former coach at Lombard and Butler universities and present coach at Corpus Christi High school of Galesburg, today was named director of athletics and physical education at Illinois Wesleyan university.

Bell will be head coach in football and track, and also may take over basketball. His appointment will be effective next September, but he will direct spring football drill. Bell is a graduate of Drake university and has a master's decree from the University of Southern California.

Chicago Wins 4 Awards at Kennel Show

Chicago-owned dogs won only four of fourteen best of breed awards in the first day's judgings of the 34th annual show of the Chicago Kennel club yesterday at the Coliseum. Dog fanciers of 10 other cities won high prizes in the other 10 breeds judged.

Nearly 1,000 canine aristocrats are on view in the show, which will close tomorrow night with the choosing of the best dog in the show, to which will go the John C. Eastman trophy, valued at $1,000.

The Chicago owners who won best of breed awards were: Marian and J. R. Scanlan, with their toy Manchester terrier, Scanlans Rose Ellen; Elenor Palmer, whose Lord Fauntleroy won the toy poodle prize; Dorothy W. Ranney with Polly, a Brussels Griffon, and Mr. and Mrs. William Schricker with their Samoyede Teddy.

Today's judging will bring into the ring a large number of breeds, including wire haired fox terriers, cocker spaniels, German Shepherds, Dobermann-Pinschers, English setters, and collies.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Sharp declines in foreign loans, notably European issues, featured an irregular market in bonds on the stock exchange today. Polish government loans broke fractionally to 7 points, French government 7½s broke 4 points, although the 7s moved up ¾ of a point. The Nord Railway 6½s fell 4¼ points.

The German government issues lost half a point. The various Italian issues were down fractionally to more than 3 points in most instances. Rumanian Government 7s dropped 2¼ points. In most cases new lows for the year were established.

United Kingdom Bonds Rise.

However, there were some advances in the European list. United Kingdom loans were up fractionally to more than 3 points and some of the Belgian government loans gained ground. The Scandinavian issues closed generally higher.

In the domestic corporation list the lower grade rail bonds were again under pressure, a considerable number losing a point or more, automatically registering new lows for the year thus far. Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, series B 3½s of 1989, closed down 20 points, but the 4s of 1989 gained 2⅛ points; the series C 4½s of 1989 1 point, and the series E 4½s of the same maturity 2 points. The adjustment 5s of 2000 reached a new closing price of 2¾, down ½ point.

Other Rail Issues Sag.

Other losers included Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, Baltimore and Ohio first 5s, Katy 5s, and Southern Railway Consolidated 5s and obligations of Delaware and Hudson, Pere Marquette, and Western Maryland. New Haven collateral 6s rose 3½ points.

Utilities and industrials held on a fairly even course. Slightly higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel 5s, Columbia Gas 5s, Laclede Gas 5½s, and Tennessee Electric Power 6s. Container 6s and Montana Power 5s dipped a trifle.

United States government bonds moved irregularly higher in quiet dealings. Final prices were up 5-32d to off 4-32 point. The new treasury 2⅞s moved up 1-32d point on the day.

Northern Pennsylvania Power.

Investors' Guide: Would you please give me a report on the standing of Northern Pennsylvania Power company bonds?—Mrs. M. J.

Answer: Northern Pennsylvania Power company is a comparatively small operating unit of the Associated Gas and Electric system. It furnishes electricity to about 135,000 in northern and northeastern Pennsylvania. The territory is primarily devoted to agriculture and dairying, although silk, clothing, coal, and railroad machine shops are represented.

Operating revenues in the twelve months to June 30, 1934, increased to $1,430,000 from $1,406,000 for the preceding year, but higher taxes, operating expenses, and maintenance expenses cut margin by which bond interest was earned to 2.52 times, which was substantial, against 2.91 times for the preceding twelve months.

Gross for 1933 was $1,402,000, against $1,440,000 in 1932, and $1,428,000 for 1931. Charges were earned 2.37 times in 1933, 2.56 times in 1932, 2.21 times in 1931, and 2.13 times in 1930.

Results for 1935 will probably reflect rate reductions made Nov. 15, 1934, which total about $100,000 a year, or about one-sixth of normal gross.

Calling Uncallable Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Have been a daily reader and subscriber to your paper for many years. Will you please give me the following information? The federal government called in all the first 4½ Liberty bonds and soon will do the same with all the fourth 4¼s. Can they call in the bonds maturing in 1947-'52? These you know are not callable until 1947, but can they pass a new law permitting them to call them sooner?—R. R. A.

Answer: In our opinion congress does not have the power to pass a law enabling the government to call for redemption bonds which are not callable until a later year.

You no doubt recall that the United States Supreme court in its decision on the gold clause of government bonds said that although congress had the power to abrogate private contracts under certain conditions, it did not have the power to repudiate its own contracts. In this connection, however, it is well to note that the Supreme court also said that no suit could be instituted for damages resulting from the forbidden repudiation unless damages could be proved.

We would not attempt to predict what congress will do.

BELGA BREAKS, RALLIES; HOLDS ABOVE NEW PAR

Pound Rises Abroad; Gold Shipped.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Belgian belgas fell more than 2 cents today at the opening of the market after the proposed 25 per cent devaluation of the belga became known. Uncertain shorts entered the market, however, and the Belgian unit recovered somewhat on their buying, rising from a bottom of about 19 cents to close at 19.45 cents, off 1.6 cents, or 160 points, from yesterday. At no time did the belga come close to the devaluation level of 17.855 cents.

Other foreign currencies reflected confused attempts to adjust themselves to the proposed devaluation of the belga. This break in the continental European gold bloc nations prompted a flow of funds to London, which lifted sterling against the gold currencies in Europe and the American dollar.

Gold Shipments Start.

Arrangements were being completed today for shipments of large quantities of gold from France, following the first shipments made from Holland yesterday. It was freely asserted that there will be a steady stream of gold from the affected countries until definite action is taken.

Dealers asserted that all the gold bloc nations would be forced to devaluate or even suspend gold payments for their currencies. The fall of the belga, it is asserted, will eventually place more pressure upon France, Holland and Switzerland than those countries can withstand indefinitly.

The first shipment of 10,000,000 guilders of gold from Holland will go partly to the Bankers' Trust company, which has engaged $3,000,000 to leave on the Statendam tomorrow, and partly to the National City bank. The Europa, sailing for New York tomorrow, has already booked shipments totaling five tons of French gold, worth $0,000,000 francs, or over $5,000,000.

Pound Loses Gain.

Fluctuations in the European currencies narrowed as transactions were transferred to New York after the close of the European markets. After climbing nearly 5 cents to $4.85¼, the British pound slipped back to close at $4.81, or only ½ cent above yesterday's close. In London, however, the gain was more pronounced.

The French franc opened here at 6.58½ cents but firmed slightly later, with the close at 6.58¾ cents, off ¼ point from yesterday. At this price the dollar was worth $1.0070 against francs, compared with $1.0066 yesterday, while the gold value, based on the old parity of the franc, was 59.47 cents, against 59.45 yesterday.

Holland guilders dropped 13 points to close at 67.43 cents and Swiss francs 1 point at 32.33 cents. Scandinavian currencies were unchanged to 3 points higher. Canadian dollars dropped 6¼ points to close at 99.31¼ cents and German marks were off 1 point at 40.15 cents.

A reduction of 1 shilling 1½ pence in the London gold price brought the quotation down to 143 shillings 8 pence a fine ounce, which, with sterling at $4.81¾, brought the dollar equivalent down to $34.61, or 10 cents below the gold import point.

PACKARD SHOWS LOSS, DUE TO NEW MODEL EXPENSE

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—[Special.]—Reflecting extraordinary expenses incident to bringing out a new line of motor cars in a lower price field and inauguration of a new style for its higher priced cars, requiring a heavy outlay for tools and dies, together with heavily unprofitable operations in its field because of low volume during the year, the Packard Motor Car company and subsidiary companies report a loss for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, of $7,290,549. In the previous year the company had a net profit and other additions to surplus of $506,433.

Current assets were reduced to $18,656,432 from $22,251,923 and current liabilities, including reserve of $1,198,734 for tool commitments for model 120, were increased to $4,695,269 from $2,829,623.

A loss will also be shown in the first quarter of 1935, Alvin MacAuley, president, stated "because there has been a heavy concentration of expense period due to model 120 operations and with only the beginnings of production. But from April 1 on we shall be in substantial and still increasing production and the heavy items of expense and expenditure will be behind us."

CRANE COMPANY PAYS $1 DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

Crane company yesterday declared a dividend of $1 a share on the preferred stock, payable April 25, to stock of record April 10. This is the first payment on the stock since March 15, 1932, when $1.75 a share was paid, and reduces accumulations to $20 a share.

No payments have been made on the common stock of the company since Dec. 15, 1931, when 15 cents a share was paid. Last year the company showed a net profit for the first time since 1930 totaling $1,021,543, or 39 cents a common share.

Clerks Picketing New York Curb Exchange Arrested

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Eleven young men in a crowd of about fifty picketing the New York Curb Exchange today were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. The pickets, who disclosed that they were former runners and clerks laid off recently as part of the Curb's program of retrenchment, had paraded with placards and their chanting had attracted a crowd which blocked trafic for both pedestrians and vehicles.

Belgium Puts Sugar Coating on Devaluation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The task of Belgium's new premier, Paul Van Zeeland, in selling the Belgian people his "New Deal" is to convince them that it isn't just another dose of the same old deal they've been suffering from ever since the war.

Premier van Zeeland proposes to debase the Belgian currency, but that has been done before—as recently as nine years ago. The Belgians know what happens when the politicians start to monkey with the currency and, therefore, the currency tinkering has to be disguised with a glorified program aimed to conceal from the public view the fact that money debasement is a nation's way of doing what a corporation does when it is overtaxed and has to go through receivership, bankruptcy and liquidation.

* *

For that reason Premier van Zeeland the 42 year old new head of the Belgian government, who was educated at Princeton university, tells his people that this New Deal is different—it's a New Deal modeled after the American scheme.

How closely he proposes to imitate the American New Deal is seen by the fact that his program calls for 25 per cent reduction of the gold content of the belga, confiscation by the government of the "profit" resulting from the writing up of the paper value of the nation's gold reserves, creation out of this "profit" of a stabilization fund to manipulate the value of the belga in foreign exchange transactions, and allocation to the government of the power to debase the belga an additional 5 per cent later on.

* *

But that isn't all. As the New Dealers here have done, he proposes to recognize soviet Russia, spend money for relief, set up a guaranty of bank deposits, and transfer to the executive branch of the government extensive powers now residing in parliament.

In all these proposals he follows the American New Deal pattern, except that he would debase the currency only 25 per cent instead of 40 per cent, as in this country. A 25 per cent debasement would still leave the belga above the dollar, the pound, and other currencies that have dropped 40 per cent or thereabouts.

The reason for this comparative moderation may lie in the fact that Belgium had currency debasement nine years ago and the people still remember the loss of their savings and the tremendous increase in the cost of living which accompanied this step.

* *

During and after the world war the Belgian government was spending far in excess of its revenues each year. Even as late as 1926 its budget was out of balance. In 1919, for example, the Belgian deficit was 680 million dollars, which, on the basis of population, was the equivalent of a yearly deficit of 10 billion 200 million dollars for the United States. The government raised the money to cover its excess expenditures by selling short and medium term bonds and notes, and by borrowing from the National Bank of Belgium.

It was not long before the inflationary consequences of such government spending were recognized. The wholesale price index rose from 100 in 1914 to 566 in December, 1924, remaining at approximately that level until the middle of 1926, when it soared to 876. The average article costing one dollar in 1914 was then selling for $8.76.

* *

Thus were the savings of the Belgian people confiscated to pay for the huge government expenditures. They lost through the tremendous increase in the cost of living resulting from this inflation.

It was not until October, 1926, however, that this confiscation was officially recognized. Then the currency was officially devalued. The Belgian franc, which had been the unit of currency, was reduced from a value of about 19 1-3 cents to a value of about 4 7-10 cents.

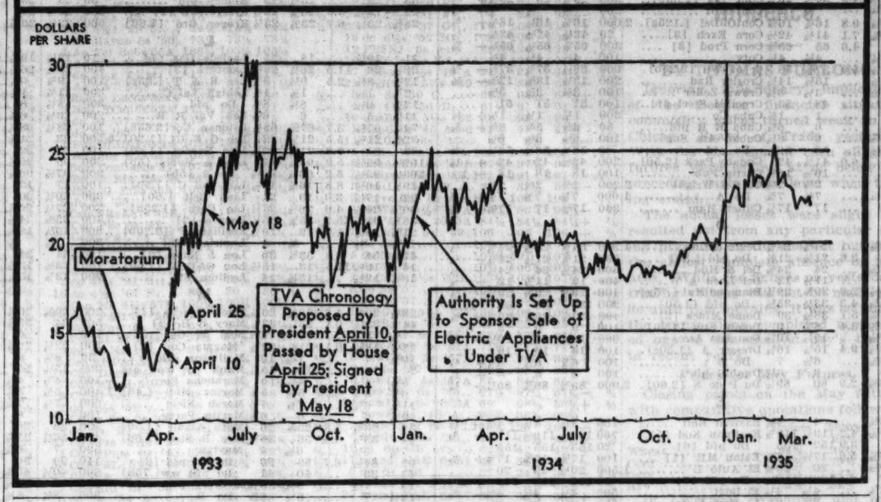
A new unit of currency was established, the belga, which was worth about 23½ cents. One belga was made worth five francs.

Now the new government of Belgium proposes to do to the belga what a previous government did to the franc nine years ago. The Belgian industrialists, looking at their dwindling exports, demand this, but a large part of the population sees in this proposal the recurrence of the post-war currency disaster and, therefore, a frantic effort is being made to give this bitter pill a sugar coating.

France Will Pay Interest on Dollar Bonds in Gold

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The French government announced through its agents here today that coupons due on April 1, 1935, on its twenty year 5½ per cent gold bonds, due April 1, 1937, will be paid in terms of gold.

Fluctuations in the Price of General Electric Stock 1933-1935



Court Asked to Oust Hupp Motor's Head

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—J. Walter Drake, former chairman of the board of the Hupp Motor Car company, filed a petition in United States District court here today asking that Archie M. Andrews be required to resign as chairman of the board and that he and a group of directors be restrained from putting into effect salary, commission, and stock option contracts.

Drake, an assistant secretary of commerce under former President Herbert Hoover, filed the petition as a holder of 1,500 shares of common stock. A hearing has been ordered for tomorrow morning by Judge Edward J. Moinet.

New Contract Opposed.

The petition alleges that a contract is pending under which Andrews would receive $10 on every car sold above an established minimum, would be given an option to buy 100,000 shares of stock at less than the present value, and would receive a monthly salary, in addition, of $1,500; that Andrews is the reputed owner of the Automobile Ownership Survey which obtains the names of prospective buyers of cars in exchange for cigaret lighters, and that Hupp dealers are compelled to pay $65 per car to the survey company for every person whose name is submitted and who purchases a car.

Drake's suit said there was no need of the appointment of a receiver because the company was solvent and the plants in good operating condition.

The directors named, with Andrews, are Frank S. Lewis of Ohio and Frederick Cardway, Emlen S. Hare, Walton C. Fitzgerald and John McGrath, all of New York. Drake alleges the directors listed are "dummies" for Andrews on the corporation's directorate.

Makes Delisting Threat.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Removal of Hupp Motor Car company stock from the list was threatened today by the stock exchange as a result of alleged violations of agreements and objectionable activities of one or more directors.

"The situation has become sufficiently serious to warant consideration by the listing committee of the suspension of the stock from trading and of an application to the Securities and Exchange commission to strike it from the list," the exchange message said.

NEW HAVEN LOSS LARGER DESPITE GAIN IN REVENUE

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Gross revenues of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. in 1934 rose $2,058,359, the first increase in any year since 1929, it was revealed today.

The pamphlet report of the carrier showed, however, that despite the increase in revenues, the deficit for the year was $5,532,114, or $678,282 larger than in 1933, due largely to $494,488 additional charges on account of the railroad retirement act.

Bars Pipe Line Receivers from Disposing of Assets

Wilmington, Del., March 29.—(AP)—Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott today handed down a decision refusing to permit receivers of the Missouri Pipe Line company to dispose of the company's assets.

N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE REPORTS $1,060,890 LOSS IN LAST YEAR

New York, March 29.—(AP)—For the second time in its long history the New York Stock exchange today removed the screen which has heretofore served to make its own financial position one of Wall street's most closely guarded secrets.

One of the facts revealed by the report, which was a consolidated affair embracing the exchange and its various subsidiaries, was that the organization incurred an operating loss of $1,060,890 during 1934.

This and some other items in the financial summary bore testimony to the "death" of business about which the exchange brokers have been complaining for a long time.

In a financial statement made to the SEC last fall—the first ever issued—it was shown that the 1933 operations resulted in a net loss of $199,121.

Income from widely diversified sources, including the exchange barber shop, totaled $6,965,469, and total expenses were $8,026,359. In 1933 the income was $7,484,795 and the outgo $7,683,916.

Holdings of cash were reported at $2,042,251, compared with $2,111,738 at the end of the previous year. Assets such as holdings of United States government bonds and other securities and property showed little change.

On the liability side, the principal changes were in accounts payable at $260,798, against $125,845 a year earlier, and in "equity representing the interest in the exchange of all members," which was placed at $26,763,397, compared with $27,570,287 at the end of 1933.

SPRING BUSINESS STARTING WELL, REVIEW REPORTS

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The spring season in retail trade is off to an auspicious start, with consumer buying giving assurance of Easter sales surpassing the comparatively high level of a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

"Indifferent to international complications, floods, duststorms, and sluggish governmental decisions, business is pushing aside decisively the impediments which have been hindering its progress, taking full advantage of the normal seasonal rise in trade," the credit agency continued in its weekly review.

"With the allure of fresh stocks of the most appealing merchandise assembled in many seasons, shoppers crowded the stores in the leading centers of distribution, pushing retail sales this week in nearly all districts above those of the previous week, with gains in some instances rising 20 to 30 per cent.

"Many manufacturers now are refusing to accept new business for the next thirty days," said the review, "as overtime schedules have become necessary in a number of instances if orders are to be delivered by May 1."

Industrial indices, which failed to reach upward during the week, moved sidewise, according to the review. Decreases, it said, were fractional and could not be viewed as establishing a trend.

Call Money Renewal Rate Now 1 Pct. for 15 Months

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Call money today ended its 15th consecutive month at a uniform renewal rate of 1 per cent, a quotation which has held uninterruptedly since Dec. 8, 1933, the longest period of a uniform rate ever known.

Freight Trafic Rises to New Peak for Year

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Freight trafic on railroads in the United States during the week ended March 23 showed a more than seasonal increase of 10,348 cars, or 1.6 per cent, over the preceding week to total 607,780 cars, the highest level for any week of the current year, the Association of American Railroads announced today.

The total for the week approached the figures for a year ago, running only 2,256 cars, or .2 per cent, under the 610,036 cars reported in the corresponding week of 1934. The week's trafic was far above that of the 1933 period, when 479,959 cars of freight were moved.

Big Gain in Coal.

While miscellaneous freight trafic showed a heavy gain over the preceding week, the principal item contributing to the improvement was coal. Strike threats were the main influence in pushing heavy movement of coal.

Total loadings for the year to March 23 amounted to 6,893,196 cars, compared with 6,954,978 in the corresponding period of 1934 and 5,750,939 in 1933.

PROCTER-GAMBLE GRANTS ANOTHER WAGE INCREASE

Cincinnati, O., March 29.—(AP)—The Procter & Gamble company today announced that all employés paid on an hourly basis will receive an increase in wages of 5 cents an hour beginning April 1. At the same time, all those paid on a weekly basis, the announcement said, will be given increases of $2 weekly.

The increase, the management said, is effective in all plants of the concern, affecting 5,500 persons, of whom 3,000 are employed here. The company said the increase announced today are in addition to a 10 per cent restoration in hourly wage rates made last year, after a 10 per cent cut imposed in 1932.

BANK PAYMENT TO BE ISSUE IN RECEIVER FIGHT

Thomson Replies to Ouster Order.

John M. Thomson, fighting against removal as receiver of the Kenwood State bank, last night served notice that he will file a petition today asking permission to pay another 25 per cent to depositors.

This action will precede a hearing this morning before Circuit Judge John Prystalski on a petition asking confirmation of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett's appointment of William L. O'Connell as receiver to succeed Thomson. The hearing was postponed yesterday to permit Attorney George Marks, representing Thomson, time to prepare a case.

Has Repaid 30 Per Cent.

The Kenwood bank has returned 30 per cent to depositor in addition to paying a debt of $135,000 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Three weeks ago, Thomson related, he asked Barrett's permission to pay another 10 per cent but has received no answer. By selling marketable bonds, he said, there is enough cash to pay 30 per cent at this time. The request to pay 25 per cent now contemplates holding some of the securities in anticipation of higher prices later.

O'Connell was represented yesterday by Attorney Hargrave A. Long, who asked confirmation of "revocation of Thomson's appointment" and permission to put in the record that another receiver has been named, "which is within the discretion of the auditor to do."

Admits Good Work.

"Our auditor's report shows that Thomson has done a good job out there, but liquidation has proceeded to a point where receipts are below expenditures, hence the consolidation under the general receiver," Long said.

"That's untrue," Thomson said after the hearing. "I averaged $5,000 collections against $600 expenses a month in the last year. Of course, my record for the last two months doesn't look so good, because we paid $1,200 in fees which cover a period of six months or more."

Thomson contends that collections will wither if the receivership is taken to the central office, and that he can pay out nearly in full if let alone.

O'Connell now is receiver for all of the Cook county state banks which faile din the last four years except the Kenwood State, South Side Savings Bank and Trust company, and the Garfield Park State bank. Action to remove John A. Carroll and J. E. Sullivan as receivers for the other two is expected shortly.

Questions Auditor's Power.

Attorney Marks said he will contest the state auditor's right to summarily remove without cause a receiver confirmed by the court. Judge Prystalski called attention to the Shurtleff case in Lake county as perhaps being pertinent. It denied a Circuit judge the right to remove a receiver appointed by the state auditor. Marks, however, said later that the question in the Kenwood case is different.

Certain that he could persuade Auditor Barrett to allow him to remain, if given the opportunity, Thomson asserted that he has been unable to obtain a hearing with Barrett despite numerous attempts. The bank closed June 25, 1932.

Judge Prystalski granted O'Connell permission to pay another 5 per cent to depositors of the People's State Bank of Maywood. The payment will amount to $26,185 and will bring total returns to 30 per cent.

CLARKE'S UTILITY LOAN EXTENSION REFUSED BY RFC

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today refused to extend the $2,000,000 notes of the Public Utility Securities corporation, key holding company of the group of utility properties headed by Harley L. Clarke of Chicago.

Officials of the RFC indicated, however, that they do not plan to take over the management of the operating properties of the holding company, chief of which is the Laclede Gas Light company of St. Louis.

Stock of Public Utility Securities came into possession of the RFC as part of the collateral posted by the old Dawes bank for its $80,000,000 loan. The stock was posted with the bank by the Webster Securities company, personal holding company of Clarke.

Magill Flails U. S. Invasion of Business

Stinging denunciation of governmental activities in business and pointed criticism of President Roosevelt for listening to schemes of "ill advised" planners were made yesterday by Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc., before a meeting of the Executives club in the Hotel Sherman.

Declaring the primary function of government is to govern, not to compete with the governed in business, Dr. Magill said the nation will never work out of its troubles under a system which squelches private initiative. He took sharp issue with proponents of the Tennessee Valley authority, charging the real purpose behind the scheme is to spread the power of state socialism, first over utilities and finally to all industry, eventually wiping out the constitution.

Flails Socialistic Planners.

"Socialistic planners knew the government couldn't afford financially to take over the utility industry," Magill said, "so they decided to first break it down and then grab full control."

The speaker admitted that complexity of present social and economic systems requires more detailed rules and regulations governing the conduct of business, but he declared enactment of such laws must conform to powers delegated in the constitution and not promulgated by executive decrees, "as the Supreme court recently has reaffirmed."

"Those responsible for the conduct of business do not object to just and equitable regulation," he continued. "But congress has no constitutional right to enter into business in direct competition with private industry and to compel private industries to furnish through taxation money to be used by the government in competition with them and in some cases for their complete destruction.

Accepts Fair Regulation.

"Private industry is willing to play the game in accordance with known rules laid down in advance, provided they are fair. It is willing that the government should supply referees and umpires. But for government, in addition to writing the rules and furnishing the umpires, to get into the game itself is not good sportsmanship, good sense, nor legally sound. The people of this country will not long tolerate such destructive procedure, which more than any other cause is retarding economic recovery."

Magill described the TVA act as a pork barrel measure and said there are now pending bills proposing establishment of twelve other valley authorities in various parts of the country.

"The public has become groggy from the mass of Brain Trust experiments which have been fostered," he said.

"It would not be so bad if these economic planners, when propounding a theory, would admit they do not know if the measure will work. But to try it out on a grand scale, before it has stood the test of a laboratory, is suicidal."

STOCK MARKET TIPSTERS ARE INDICTED BY U. S.

Atlanta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Use of a "get rich quick" lure of 100 per cent profits in the stock market that took at least $500,000 from investors, was charged today in federal indictments of the collapsed American Bond and Share Corporation of Georgia, its officers and affiliates.

Government agents were combing the nation for B. R. Bradley, president, and John C. Ingram, secretary-treasurer. Robert E. S. Lee, listed as attorney for the firm, was arrested and held in $20,000 bond.

The indictment charged the officers represented themselves as being on the "inside"—receiving "information" from eastern millionaires.

REPUBLIC STEEL REPORTS LOWER LOSS LAST YEAR

Cleveland, O., March 29.—(AP)—The Republic Steel corporation reported today a net loss of $3,459,428 in 1934, compared with a net loss of $4,049,253 in the previous year.

The company's financial statement showed a net operating profit in 1934 of $8,290,659, and other income of $689,806. It charged off $7,839,465 for depreciation of plant and depletion of mineral resources, $3,120,000 for interest on funded debt and loans, and $1,480,427 in other charges.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PROPAGANDA OF TVA ATTACKED

Utility Bill Termed 'Ruinous.'

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The spreading of what was called "propaganda" by the TVA in the public schools was sharply criticized today along with the Rayburn-Wheeler holding company bill before the house interstate commerce committee.

Interrupting testimony of S. R. Inch, president of the Electric Bond and Share group, against the holding company bill, Representative Cooper [Rep., O.] charged that the TVA distributed "propaganda" articles among schools and urged pupils to keep "TVA scrap books."

Referring to Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], who denounced anti-holding company regulation "propaganda," Cooper threw the committee into an uproar when he charged "there are two sides to this question, depending on who's making the propaganda."

Reads School Suggestions.

In his attack on TVA Cooper read from an article in the National Education Association Journal of last December, suggesting that school pupils might keep scrap books on the Tennessee valley project. It also mentioned "TVA commencement programs."

"Who wrote this article?" Cooper asked after the laughter had subsided in the crowded committee room. "A man by the name of Myers wrote it."

Quoting Senator Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] as authority for the statement that 50,000 copies were printed and 25,000 of them bought by the TVA, and that TVA paid for writing the article, Cooper said:

"That's just a little different kind of propaganda. If any one has gone any farther than the TVA, if that is true, I'd like to know who."

"Well," put in Representative Monaghan [Dem., Mont.], "It doesn't say anything about writing to the congressman, does it?"

"No," Cooper shot back with some heat, "but I don't believe the public school system of the United States ought to be made a football for any political party!"

Bill Declared Ruinous.

Inch and John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power and Light company, both declared the Rayburn bill to abolish holding companies by 1940 would be "ruinous" to the industry and the stockholders.

Instead of going ahead with "this drastic proposal," Inch urged the creation of an impartial fact finding commission to "find the actual, needed, reasonable basis for regulation," which he insisted he did not oppose.

"The proposed legislation," Carpenter testified, "would force the Texas Power and Light company to go forward under impossible handicaps at great loss to its investors and to the detriment of communities which we serve. A centralized regulatory authority in Washington cannot deal with our problems of Texas as can our local and state authorities who are intimately acquainted with conditions."

JUDGE NAMES TRUSTEES FOR CONSUMERS CO.

George F. Harding, former county treasurer, and Martin Kennelly, an official of Werner Brothers & Kennelly, yesterday were named trustees of the Consumers company pending reorganization under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law, by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Bond of each trustee was set at $100,000.

A voluntary reorganization plea was filed last June 19, and since then the company's management, under the presidency of James O'Laughlin, was permitted to remain in charge. A plan of reorganization was submitted Oct. 29, 1934, but was not accepted by the required number of creditors.

The judge indicated that reorganization must be effected within a reasonable time or the property liquidated by court order or returned to the debtors.

Lumber Trade Boss Angered by NRA, Moves to Scrap Code

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Despite a presidentially-authorized drive for NRA enforcement, and in the face of official declarations that its code was still in effect, the lumber code authority today discharged most of its employés and apparently determined to fold up its tent.

Angered because the justice department dropped its appeal to the Supreme court in the most prominent of lumber code violation cases, David T. Mason, executive officer of the lumber code authority, asserted "the withdrawal of the Belcher case in effect, if not in fact" meant suspension of the code.

Although NRA officials declared to the contrary, the authority appeared determined to carry out recommendations that the lumber code be suspended. The discharge to employés was made effective April 15.. Peace offerings from NRA in the form of promised amendments to the code failed to quiet the resentment over the justice department's action.

The general opinion at authority headquarters was that the government has "washed its hands" of even attempting to enforce the code in its present form. The opinion also was expressed that the government did not wish to risk going into the Supreme court at the present time for fear it would hamper the pending legislation for continuation of NRA.

"The industry simply has been crucified in an effort to save NRA's future by legislation now pending," one official said.

A meeting of the code control committee has been called for Tuesday to act upon the recommendations that "for reasons of equity" as a result of the justice department decision, the code should be entirely suspended. Today's action in discharging most of the employés was taken in anticipation of affirmation of code officials' recommendations.

COCA-COLA TOPS 200 MARK; OTHER STOCKS SEESAW

Railway Shares Firmer as Situation Clears.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—An outstanding feature of the stock market today was the achievement by Coca-Cola common of its long-sought "split-up" goal of $200 a share. Hitting 200½ at one time during the session, it closed at an even 200. Only one other stock on the "big board," Homestake Mining, enjoys this distinction.

Otherwise the main interest in the market centered in the carrier shares as a result of the decision of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific to reorganize. Preferred and common shares of the road declined fractionally. Rail stocks as a group, however, were strong, the reason apparently being the street's feeling of relief that uncertainties over the St. Paul were finally at an end.

Market Tone Strong.

The list as a whole added evidence to the growing conviction that sentiment is hardening slightly. The tone was somewhat better in spite of firing at exposed positions, and the majority of stocks managed to recover fractions in slow trading. The turnover was again under the half million mark, amounting to 461,000 shares.

According to some observers who have been around the country, the natural forces of recovery are beginning to override the attacks of government policy tending to keep business in a state of uncertainty.

Without any change in actual business, it is widely believed, American markets would now be undergoing a small boom from foreign buying. War scares and currency revaluation in Europe in ordinary course bring large sums to this country's security and money markets. That no appreciable inrush has occurred, it is held, is an interesting commentary on the foreigners' appraisal of our political situation and our own monetary policy.

Pivotal Issues Irregular.

American Can dropped a point in the heavy industrials. Westinghouse Electric was up fractionally, while Allied Chemical gained more than a point. Du Pont was backward. The steels were barely steady. Gulf States Steel reached a new low, winding up the day with a loss of 3 points.

Demand for the oils improved prices in that group. The utilities were off fractions. In the mining division U. S. Smelting and Cerro de Pasco were lower, while Homestake gained 6 points.

Coppers, having discounted the curtailment agreement in advance, were inactive. National Distillers was a strong spot in the alcohol division.

URGE POLITICIAN BE NAMED FOR EXCHANGE POST

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—National politics was injected today into the campaign for the election of officers and governors of the New York Stock exchange when a petition for the nomination as governor of John F. Murray, member of the Port of New York authority and campaign manager for Gov. Lehman in the last election, was submitted to the nominating committee.

The petition, which has been in circulation on the floor of the exchange only three days, bore the signature of 205 members. The exchange has 1,375 members.

Murray, who is a partner in John F. Murray & Co., commission brokers, has been a member of the exchange since 1930. Indorsed by John H. McCooey, the late Democratic chief of Kings county, he was named to the port authority at the beginning of 1929 by President Roosevelt when the latter was serving his first term as governor of New York.

PROFIT OF SWIFT INTERNATIONAL LOWER IN 1934

Net income of Compañia Swift Internacional [Swift International] and associated companies in 1934 dropped below that of the preceding year, according to the annual report released yesterday. Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, in Argentine gold, was $5,628,938 after depreciation and income taxes. This was equivalent to $3.75 a share and compared with a net of $6,123,055, or $4.08 a share, in 1933.

Surplus at the end of 1934 amounted to $17,755,812, compared with $17,486,860 at the end of 1933, an increase of $268,952. Current assets on Dec. 31, 1934, all figures in Argentine gold, amounted to $48,114,166, including cash of $3,185,313, United States government securities of $11,154,996, and other securities of $5,791,571, against current liabilities of $4,947,263. This compares with current assets of $43,787,286, cash of $3,952,642, marketable securities of $16,363,869, and current liabilities of $4,922,823 at the end of 1933.

Satisfactory Year Expected.

"The company is in a strong financial position," said Charles H. Swift, president, in his report to stockholders. "It has no bonded indebtedness or other obligations except those incurred in current operations. Notwithstanding the difficulties and restrictions in international trade, we look forward with confidence to a satisfactory year in 1935."

Since the Argentine money value of trade balances in foreign countries and funds invested in marketable securities is subject to the uncertainties of fluctuating rates of exchange, the company has thought it advisable to increase the reserve against exchange losses, he stated. At the end of 1932 this reserve amounted to $6,081,694 in Argentine gold and was reduced to $4,587,232 by the end of 1933. While the present exchange situation is so uncertain that it is difficult to say what may be safely considered as an adequate reserve, the directors decided to restore the reserve to within approximately $195,000 of the balance at the end of 1932 by transferring from surplus $1,300,000, Mr. Swift said.

New Plant Interests Acquired.

"Within the last few years the company has acquired partial ownership in certain plants in South America," he said. "Owing to quota restrictions which the United Kingdom has since placed on imported meat from non-European countries, and to the decline in the frozen meat trade in continental Europe, resulting from import duties, licenses and quotas, these plants have been closed pending resumption of more normal conditions of international trade."

HOG SUPPLIES INADEQUATE AND TRADE SLUMPS

The hog market began to waver after a few scattered sales of lights had been made on a slightly higher level yesterday and subsequent selling revealed a barely steady price basis for the bulk of the day's offerings. Spots in the final rounds were as much as 5 to 10 points under the average of the preceding session. Action was slow.

Yesterday's top hog price, $11.35, and the average $11.20, both including the $2.25 federal processing tax, were steady with the preceding day. The bulk of the supply of 5,000 head sold within a range of $11.05 to $11.30.

Cattle buyers were eager for beef stock at fully steady to strong prices, and some classes sold slightly higher. Choice grades of steers were conspicuously scarce, and the kinds bringing the top prices were unevenly higher than at the close of last week.

Yesterday's top of $12.50 was paid for 1,204 pound averages lacking finish, and the bulk of the receipts consisted of the kinds selling at $8.00 to $11.00. Thin, ill bred natives were bought down to $5.50 or less.

Mostly steady prices were paid for the moderate receipts of sheep and lambs. Shippers bought selected grades of handyweight wooled lambs up to $8.35, while 100 pound lambs sold to packers at $8.25.

Hinde & Dauch Firm Acquires Evans Fiber Box

The Hinde & Dauch Paper company of Sandusky, O., has acquired the Evans Fiber Box company of Chicago, it was announced yesterday. The Chicago sales branch of the Sandusky company will be merged with its new plant here. Eric R. Schueler, vice president and sales manager of the Evans company, will be in charge of Chicago operations.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.

"Operators Wanted"
Prepare at DeLEE with Mme. Louise

Exclusive beauty shops want operators who have been trained the DeLEE way, under Mme. Louise. Mme. Louise, internationally famous hairdresser and beauty culture expert, will aid personally in training you for a BETTER POSITION and a larger income.

At DeLEE you will find the ideal "set-up"—capable instructors who have had years of teaching experience, and up to date 100% equipment. Classrooms are colorful, light and airy.

A RECOGNIZED SCHOOL.

The DeLEE University of Beauty Culture is the only beauty school which has been permitted to incorporate as a University in Illinois. DeLEE meets all requirements of the Department of Education and Registration. Why be satisfied with an old fashioned "trade school" training, when the DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available at no greater cost? Previous experience or a high school education NOT necessary. Day and evening classes. Tuition reasonable and payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

A visit to DeLEE won't obligate you. It will open your eyes. Come in TODAY.

"1001" REASONS WHY

The Bryn Mawr Apt. Hotel at Bryn Mawr and Kenmore-av [5600 N.] is the place for you

A FEW MAJOR REASONS ARE—
1. LOCATION [Heart of Edgewater] One block to "L" and bus, 2 blocks to st. car; 1½ blocks to an excellent bathing beach on Lake Michigan—only 5 blocks to end of outer drive.
2. SIZE OF ROOMS [the largest in Chicago] Many of our living rooms are 22 ft. long and 14 to 18 ft. wide. Just for fun, step off the size of your living room and compare its size with one of ours.
3. FURNISHINGS [modern but not extreme] A great many pieces of furniture were selected from the wide assortment offered at the last show at the Furniture Mart.
4. PERSONNEL [those who serve you] Without exception my assistants were chosen [1] because of their ability, [2] because they get a big kick out of doing things for others. If they have those two qualifications I don't care who they are or where they came from. My fellow workers are from Virginia, Minnesota, England, Ireland, Sweden, Hungary, Illinois. [Two of my boys were caddies who were more interested in my game than I was—and they never lost a ball]. They are all interesting, outstanding—you can't help liking them.
5. PRICE [the best for the lowest] Considering all that we have to offer our prices are the lowest in Chicago.
